Tiff of Wallace, Jones Symbolic.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 18.—President Roosevelt goes into his campaign for a fourth term with his party torn with internal dissension. One has to go back for a parallel to the Republican breach between progressives and standpatters beginning in 1910 and culminating in the fatal party split of 1912.

The feud between Vice President Henry A. Wallace and Secretary of Commerce Jesse H. Jones is the symbol of the Democratic internecine warfare between the New Dealers supporting Wallace and the anti-New Dealers supporting Jones. While the President chastised both impartially, Wallace was the big loser.

Never before in our history had a President scathingly rebuked his Vice President. The well nigh universal opinion here is that the blow to his prestige will cost Wallace his political future. He will not be considered for renomination or for a prominent place in the post-war reorganization of the world in which he was slated for the role of self-proclaimed protagonist of a quart of milk a day for every human being.

Reverses Emphasize Breach.

The depth of the Democratic breach between New Dealers and anti-New Dealers was disclosed by the long series of reverses suffered by the Roosevelt administration in the 78th congress, which has just recessed for a two months' vacation. With the anti-New Deal Democrats lining up with the Republicans, congress struck again and again at the President, snuffing out New Deal socialistic activities, checking Roosevelt dictatorship, curbing executive circumvention of the will of congress by subterfuge, exorcising officials for subversive activities, halting administration waste and extravagance, exposing governmental inefficiency, and otherwise throwing away the 10 year old New Deal rubber stamp.

Thus has congress carried out the mandate of the 1942 elections in which the people repudiated the collectivistic and totalitarian tendencies of the New Deal and demanded the preservation of private enterprise and individual initiative.

Principal Reverses.

1. The Smith-Connally anti-strike bill was passed over the President's veto as a manifestation of the repudiation by congress of Roosevelt labor policies, evolved and carried out in collaboration between the President and labor leaders along lines involving government domination of private enterprise.

2. The President's executive order limiting salaries to $25,000 after taxes was vitiated by act of congress because it was issued in defiance of the will of congress and because it smacked of socialism, the leveling scheme having originated, indeed, in the Communist party platform of 1928.

N. Y. A. Project Killed.

3. The national youth administration, staffed by radical social workers, was voted out of existence as a useless extravagance. It spent 700 million dollars in eight years.

4. The pamphleteering, movie, and radio activities of the domestic branch of the office of war information were cut off because they had been devoted largely to propagandizing Socialist ideology and a fourth term for President Roosevelt.

5. The national resources planning board, headed by the President's uncle, Frederic A. Delano, and staffed by radical economists and social reformers, was voted out of existence because it was regarded as an agency of socialism and a waste of money. It had cost the taxpayers 10 millions. The senate created a committee of its own on

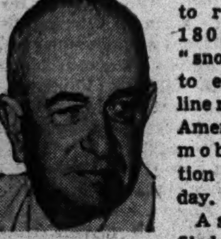
CHARGES OPA SEEKS 180,000 GAS 'SNOOPERS'

Auto Group Assails Ration Spying.



Thomas P. Henry.

Washington, D. C., July 18 [Special].—The office of price administration is trying to recruit an 180,000 man "snooper army" to enforce gasoline rationing, the American Automobile association charged today.

A statement filed with Price Administrator Prentiss Brown by Thomas P. Henry of Detroit, Mich., president of the national motoring body, questioned both the propriety and the legality of the OPA's authorization to all state, county, and local policemen and enforcement officers to investigate and seize ration documents of motorists.

The A. A. A. statement also assailed an OPA interpretation of rationing regulations which would permit any ration board to revoke or suspend ration privileges of any motorist venturing within its territory, even tho the rations were issued by another board.

Follows Ickes' Threat.

The criticism of the OPA's handling of gasoline rationing came on the heels of an announcement by Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes that plans are under consideration to reduce the A coupon gasoline allowance of middle western motorists from 4 gallons a week to either 2 or 3 gallons.

Sen. James M. Mead [D., N. Y.] meanwhile said in an interview today he believes it is a mistake not to make provision in gasoline regulations for relaxation on the part of the civilian population. He suggested that A-card motorists be given a basic "no questions asked" allotment.

Abuses Are Predicted.

The A. A. A. statement said the new OPA enforcement policies open the way to widespread abuses.

"They make possible the harassment of motorists on an unprecedented scale," the statement said. "They give local police and local ration boards summary power over every out of state or out of town motorist and they represent an abdication of power by the national OPA office and the wholesale delegation of power to local boards and local police."

The A. A. A. charged that the OPA recognized it could not legally or constitutionally sanction seizure of gas ration books documents, but "has by a roundabout way encouraged every federal agent, every state and local policeman, and every crossroads constable to subject the motorist to grilling and then to coerce, persuade, or intimidate him into yielding up any documents the enforcement official may, in his wisdom or whim, find were not properly issued."

Defies OPA on Gas Use.

New York, July 18 [Special].—Norman C. Norman, a veteran New Deal foe, today defied the office of price administration's authority to tell him how he might use his gasoline ration coupons and asserted that if necessary he would go to court to challenge the OPA's right to compel surrender of his ration book.

Norman, a business man, fought the national recovery act, which later was declared invalid by the United States Supreme court, and challenged President Roosevelt's devaluation of the dollar. In the latter affair he lost a test case on a 5-4 decision of the Supreme court.

Police reported Norman to the OPA a few weeks ago when he refused to show his gasoline ration book after an automobile accident. OPA then summoned him to appear before his rationing board Wednesday to answer a charge of nonessential driving. Today Norman sent a letter to Sylvan Joseph, regional OPA director, informing him he would not appear before the rationing board.

Up, Down They Go in War Agencies Building.

Wanderlust of the Chicago branches of national war agencies in the old North Western building at 226 West Jackson boulevard has cost the federal treasury more than $1,200 since last December and more than 750 man hours in lost time, an official in the office for emergency management said yesterday.

The building, which was rehabilitated and rented to the federal government last fall, has thundered with the noise of moving furniture, hammers, drills, and pneumatic pressure tools almost continually since the first war agency moved in Nov. 17, he said.

Agency Heads Unsettled.

"The heads of the various agencies which took space in the building never seemed to be content with the layout and it seemed that every other week a department moved to another floor," the official said. "Movers were called to shift the cabinets and desks. The telephone company tore up the floors to shift the phones. Carpenters built new partitions and tore down the old ones."

Last week the building underwent a new series of moves. The office of price administration personnel department was transferred from the 11th to the 12th floor.

The regional OPA accounting and information divisions were shifted from the 12th to the 11th floor. OPA general files went from the 11th to the 10th. The legal office in the rationing division squeezed in with the administrative office on the 10th and the budget department moved into another room on the 11th.

One Done—2 More Bob Up.

The sudden decision with which the government agencies move was illustrated when the professional movers prepared to leave the building after completing one job. A harried OPA executive ran after them, shouting, "There are two more jobs. You had better come back."

OPA's floor to floor handsprings, however, were minor league compared with those of the war production board during June, the government official said.

Most shortlived move of all was that of the office of war information which closed officially before it had settled down to its new quarters on the second floor.

Tribune Writer Tells How It Feels to Be a Parachutist

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Chicago Tribune correspondent representing the combined United States press.]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY IN SICILY, July 18.—The experiences of a man who deliberately uses a parachute as a means of transportation and not merely for escape provokes endless questioning at this headquarters. Thus, the reactions and experiences of this correspondent who jumped with the paratroops into combat the morning of Saturday, July 10, may have interest, for they were shared by many of the thousands who made the jump.

In my own case I had decided during the Tunisian campaign that one jump would be my total parachute experience. Last Nov. 15 as a correspondent I jumped in combat as a paratroop reporter with the battalion then led by Col. Edson D. Raff.

New Opportunity Offered.

But upon my return to Africa [from a vacation in Chicago] I learned that the airborne troops commander had asked for me to accompany his troops. My resolutions went overboard. Here was a chance to be the first American newsman in Sicily and the only one to procure an eyewitness story of the greatest airborne effort and what promised to be a hot fight.

My answer to this request was, "yes," while some pixie in my brain cells kept yammering in an undertone, "Don't be a —— fool."

For 10 days I lived with the paratroopers at the new bivouac from which they would leave. Those were torrid, dusty days, but you didn't mind because of the opportunity they offered of getting to know intimately these picked warriors.

A Commander with Character.

As you learned the impending operations in detail by sitting in on all staff conferences, you became aware more and more how the entire combat team reflected the personality of its commander, a quiet spoken, slender "Slim Jim," whose deep set eyes could crinkle with smiles or become intense with decision.

And then came thoughts of how you as an individual fitted into the picture. You had been greatly honored by being made a member of the regiment the first time they had done this. You knew your obligation to these men, to your newspaper and to all the public so anxious to hear of the exploits of its fighting men.

This was far different from the November jump. Then there had been a possibility of immediate combat with the axis or unfriendly French, altho none materialized.

Now as you studied war maps and sand tables you knew this was combat on a grand scale. Enemy antiaircraft stations studded the coastal areas over which you would fly in your C-47s [Douglas sky trains]. Once on the ground there were pillboxes, barbed wire, machine gun nests, small forts, and mobile German forces ready to be thrown in wherever assault should occur.

There would be battle almost as soon as your feet touched earth, battle in darkness. The enemy would not know you were an unarmed newspaper man, but would assume you were another dangerous parachutist and act accordingly.

Days of Preparation.

As zero hour approached you knew this would call for all the nerve control you had. Outwardly, of course, you displayed confidence to your new friends. Inwardly, you were "sweating out" the jump for days in advance.

Your imagination became active as you sought sleep at night. You pictured hundreds of possibilities. You tried to assess your own reactions in advance, then finally with determined will said, "O, to hell with it" and went to sleep.

The day before the takeoff you went about camp rounding up equipment from soldiers who had extra items. A sergeant major contributed a reserve jump suit after having removed at my request his chevrons but leaving like all other jumpers the divisional shoulder insignia.

During the last week you would have been breaking in new jump boots donated by a father-in-law

ROUT 9 SHIPS IN PACIFIC; AMERICANS REPEL NAZIS

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, July 19 [Monday] —(AP).—Allied planes and warships smashed heavily at Japanese seapower in the Southwest Pacific Sunday as American troops attacked enemy positions near Munda, New Georgia.

Two separate formations of Japanese destroyers, one of six ships, the other of three, were intercepted by our surface forces off the west coast of Kolombangara Island. Hits were scored on all ships in the smaller group and one was believed to have been sunk, the communique from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said.

A torpedo hit was scored on one of the ships in the larger group. The others turned back. The communique said we sustained no damage in the engagement with the smaller force and made no reference to any allied loss in the second.

Two Destroyers Damaged.

Two destroyers and a cargo ship were damaged and another merchantman sunk in a heavy raid by torpedo and dive bombers on the Buin-Faisi area in the northern Solomons. The attack, the communique said, was directed against the "remnants of enemy shipping" in the harbor area, where allied warplanes Saturday sank seven ships, including a light cruiser, two destroyers, and a subchaser.

Ninety tons of explosives were rained upon the Kahili airdrome, near Buin-Faisi, and the harbor area.

"Anti-aircraft positions, the runway and dispersal areas were heavily hit," the communique said.

Thirteen intercepting enemy fighters were shot down and four of our planes failed to return.

Fight 50 Jap Planes.

Aerial action flamed briefly over the Salamaua area of New Guinea. Our fighters went up to intercept a numerically superior force of 50 enemy aircraft north of Salamaua. Two of the enemy were shot down and four others probably were destroyed. The others were dispersed. We suffered no losses.

No details were given concerning the ground action around Munda, the enemy's key base in the central Solomons.

Hurl 44 Tons of Explosives.

A large enemy barge was attacked and destroyed by our surface units in Huon gulf. To the eastward, off Cape Orford, New Britain, an allied reconnaissance plane strafed a small enemy ship, inflicting some damage, and the next day medium bombers attacked the ship from low altitude and sank it within five minutes.

The communique told of sharp patrol clashes in the Salamaua region, and a headquarters spokesman said Australian jungle fighters had captured Japanese positions in the vicinity of Mount Tambu and Orodubi and held them against counterattacks.

Nauru Is Bombed.

Washington, D. C., June 18 (AP).—Hitting at Nauru, where phosphate deposits help keep Japan's munitions industry operating, American navy bombers ignited large fires Saturday night, the navy said today.

Beyond the statement that "numerous fires were started" the navy gave no indication of the extent of damage. All the planes returned.

[Nauru Island is 500 miles directly west of the Gilbert Islands and 700 miles northeast of Guadalcanal.]

The navy told in a communique of Japanese bombers flying over American positions on Guadalcanal and dropping bombs which caused some minor damage to equipment and buildings and resulted in some casualties. The bombers also dumped bombs ineffectively on Savo Island.

Prisoner Toll Rises to 30,000; Hold Third of Island.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, July 18 (AP).—British 8th army troops, driving deep across the plain toward Catania, have seized a vital position protecting the great seaport after the heaviest fighting to date in Sicily, reports relayed from an allied command post announced tonight.

American troops meanwhile were battling 22 miles inland in central Sicily, rolling up a conquest which already has given the allies 3,300 square miles, or one-third, of Sicily in eight days.

The Americans broke a German counter-attack near Barrafranca, and apparently stood poised for a drive to Enna—termed the foundation of defenses of all central Sicily—or the communications city of Caltanissetta. Enna is 14 miles northeast of Barrafranca, and Caltanissetta lies 11 miles northwest.

30,000 Prisoners Taken.

Thirty thousand prisoners have been captured in eight days, 20,000 of them by the Americans. [A dispatch from a correspondent said the Americans had captured an additional 4,000 in the Agrigento area.]

An attack of overwhelming power continued in the air, and 500 allied planes pounded Naples on the Italian mainland in the greatest raid yet witnessed in the Mediterranean theater.

The British surged onto the flat Catania plain, throwing infantry, tanks, and anti-tank guns across the Primsola river bridge which was seized by parachute troops on Thursday. The troops found the bridge, 7 miles south of Catania, heavily mined, but removed the charges and British infantry troops soon gained complete possession of the area.

Heart of Eastern Defenses.

The British, advancing all along the line, were reported to have taken one of the most important defense positions protecting Catania, taking numbers of German prisoners and leaving many German dead on the battlefield. The Germans were said to be making a last ditch struggle to hold the city.

Reports reaching here said British tanks already had penetrated Catania's suburbs after a combined land, sea, and air bombardment, and that the enemy was regrouping at the base of Mount Etna, which rises north of the city. These reports were not confirmed, however.

Catania, half way along the east coast, is the heart of Sicily's eastern defenses and is only 55 miles from Messina, across from the toe of the Italian mainland.

[Reuters (British) news agency said one of Britain's "well known battleships" bombarded Catania from a 5 mile range for half an hour at dusk on Saturday.]

Peril Gerbini Air Fields.

Other allied units were pushing inland from the east coast, and observers said the Gerbini air base network 12 miles west of Catania might be occupied soon. The Gerbini field with its nine satellite fields is one of Sicily's most important airdromes.

The American and Canadian forces to the west and in the center, respectively, were encountering only scattered and sporadic resistance in their steady drive into the interior of the island.

The Canadian forces have advanced more than 30 miles from the southeast coast area where they made their initial landings.

Yanks Take Porto Empedocle.

American 7th army units pushed westward after taking Agrigento on Friday night and American Rangers captured Porto Empedocle, an advance of more than half way along the south coast of Sicily.

The capture of these two places sent the Yankee assault spreading inland with renewed power despite steady enemy opposition. Porto Empedocle is the terminus of the only main line railroad running due north across the waist of Sicily to the northern port of Palermo.

FEAR IN HEART, A PARATROOPER GRINS—JUMPS!

Writer Tells Thrills of Sicilian Mission.

who makes leather. Now you collected a jump helmet fitted with leather chin strap to keep the lines securely attached. You acquired a dispatch case, map holder with quantities of maps, compass, escape kit, water purification pills, salt tablets, anti-malaria pills, first aid kits, morphine and numerous other items including a trench knife whose main purpose is opening cans.

The last day you spent packing, deciding what items to place in the voluminous pockets of your olive green gabardine jump suit. There were boxes of rations and changes of underwear and socks, pencils, notebooks, handkerchiefs, spoon, toothbrush, and so on.

Start to the Air Field.

That Friday afternoon we bundled up our bedrolls and left them with other equipment to be cared for by the rear echelon. By 5:30 we were loaded into trucks and started in convoy to a landing field, a long column winding down the road in the hot Tunisian sunlight, out to the airdrome where big troop carrying transports awaited us.

Ours was the lead ship of headquarters, piloted by the group commander himself. Since I would be the last man to jump, such a position was not welcomed by this correspondent, who preferred to have friends behind him. Parachutes were brought from the plane and each man selected his own, all having been packed by our crew parachute riggers. Then came the struggle into harness so tight fitting that it was agony to stand more than a few minutes.

Under my chute lay a musette bag holding only a towel, but strung over me were web suspenders, web belt, canteen, first aid pouch, trench knife, dispatch case, and field glasses. I felt heavily loaded until I had a look at the soldiers with their combat loads of guns, grenades and demolition bombs.

Told How to Drop at Sea.

The co-pilot gave us detailed instruction on how to leave the plane should we be forced down on the sea. Each of us also wore an uninflated Mae West life preserver. In addition each plane carried five rubber life rafts, inflatable with chemical means, and cans of drinking water, rations, and flares. Our course would take us near several sea rescue craft and the pilot said he could land us safely on water and the plane probably would float for some time unless badly damaged. We were to leave the plane on the sea landing in rotation and again I felt uncomfortable being anchor man.

We still had time to stand about the plane chatting with those who had come to see us off. I tried to appear nonchalant but underneath I felt jittery. One general was greatly concerned because I was carrying no weapons, but I told him that was the way the boys at Geneva had written the conventions. We drank our last drinks from a water truck, filled canteens and then at 8:35 p. m. boarded planes.

Some lads piled their chutes and excess equipment on the seats in order to sit on the felt covering on the floor. I used an extra seat for mine and decided I had better sit in a regular seat. We still had several minutes to wait.

High Wind Ignored.

A severe ground wind had been blowing all afternoon. In maneuvers at home this would have caused great concern and possible postponement of the flight, but this was the payoff and there could be no delay. I knew what a stiff wind meant, having seen many paratroopers bashed against ground or swung into trees, but nothing was to be done about it.

The sun was now down behind the horizon. Engines had been warmed and tested and we wheeled out to the landing strip. Promptly at 8:55 the colonel pilot gunned our motors and we roared down the runway, lifting into the air on schedule.

Another twenty minutes we circled the airport until all ships of the group had followed us up and were flying in formation, while overhead there passed scores and scores of other formations due to land just ahead of us.

It was still light as we headed out to sea, with the moon gleaming palely almost overhead.

Fly Just Over Waves.

Once over the sea our formation came down to wave top level. This was the safest way to escape detection by enemy aircraft "flying on deck," as aviators say. But it was a disquieting sensation to skim along just above water now flecked with whitecaps from the stiff wind.

Try as I would I couldn't keep my mind on the task ahead. Imagination worked overtime trying to picture those last minutes aboard the plane and hitting the ground.

My friend, Lt. Col. William T. Rider, the army's first parachutist, who sat across the aisle, seemed to feel as I did. We tried often to talk above the roar of the motor, conjecturing on what would happen the next few hours.

Watch for Islands.

My nerves seemed under good control but not my imagination. As time passed we watched for island landfalls, checking them against the known time we were expected to reach them.

But we missed them because, as we learned later, a wind drift had swung us east off the course. Finally the combat team colonel who was the jump master of the plane gave word to get into harness.

All seemed confusion, but this was due to my inexperienced eye. First I helped Rider into his harness, then he struggled with mine, and in almost complete darkness. Finally we were ready, sitting on our seats waiting for the signal.

Minutes passed. It had become apparent the pilot had missed his course. His co-pilot passed word back several times to Rider, who relayed it to the colonel. This was hardly a type of experience to lend us all confidence.

15 Minutes to Go.

Finally, the co-pilot came back shouting, "we've picked up our check point and we'll be over D. Z. [as paratroopers call dropping zone] in 15 minutes."

Frankly, my heart was now in my mouth. Rider asked how I was. With an effort I swallowed, grinned and said "all right," knowing it was a lie.

Again the co-pilot came into the cabin to report it would be ten more minutes. This was beginning to be a war of nerves.

We lumbered to our feet, hooked our chutes. Packed into line in the aisle like so many sardines we sweated out those last minutes. This was the payoff, I said to myself. As the last man in the ship I could stay behind without being pushed out. Even at this last minute there was a chance to remain in the plane and return to base with little danger.

Last Minute Thoughts.

These were the thoughts in my mind as they would have been in any one's. But even while they popped up you knew that you'd go thru the door like every one else. If you didn't, you couldn't live with yourself again.

Then the green warning light flickered near the door. That meant four minutes to go. We'd passed the coast without drawing fire and now were inland over Sicily. Thru the plane window we could see several large fires apparently set by our night bombers.

The colonel called for us to "sound off." It is regular routine to check on every man in case some one had passed out or was ill. None in our plane was sick, altho in others many became ill from the motion but jumped nevertheless.

I shouted number ———. Down the line came the echoing cries: number ten-nine-eight-and so on.

The First Jump.

A few moments later the red jump light was shown at the door and out went the first man. I couldn't see him because of the men in front of me. There came a rush down the aisle, almost every one pushing in eagerness to clear the ship promptly.

We were at an altitude of between six and seven hundred feet. The plane had lost some of its speed.

The next instant Rider disappeared thru the jump door into space and I followed automatically.

The propeller blast caught me with a roar as I dropped into the darkness, turning slightly onto my back. My right hand clutched the release bar of the reserve chute as I counted, "One thousand, etc." If the chute hasn't opened by 3,000 count you pull your reserve.

Opening of Parachute.

I was just about to say "3,000" when I saw a parachute streaming behind over my shoulder. The next split second it ballooned open, snapping my shoulder back and banging the reserve chute against my jaw.

My hand grasped the shroud lines as I looked around, then down at the ground.

As I fell, I could see the distinct outline of trees but fortunately noted no gunfire. I kept thinking this was going to be all right after all, for I was falling straight without oscillation, and the direction of my drop looked as if I would clear the trees.

Struck by a Wind.

Just 30 feet above ground the wind swung me out horizontal and on a back swing I smashed into a tree and onto the ground, landing on my right knee.

Branches stung the back of my neck and tore a rib muscle, an injury which did not appear, however, for two days, when I thought I had cracked a rib. My left hand was skinned and cut slightly but the most painful injury was a wrenched right knee.

In landing my right elbow also hit the ground, paralyzing for a moment my fingers, so that it was difficult to extricate myself from the harness. For what seemed to be 10 or 15 minutes I struggled, eventually getting clear.

Meanwhile, the moment I landed, I saw a form moving in the darkness nearby. I didn't know whether it was friend or enemy.

Challenge in the Dark.

I decided I had better unloosen my trench knife to defend myself if attacked, since the enemy would not know I was a correspondent. Grasping the knife in my right hand, I moved cautiously into the shadows near the man, then softly gave the countersign. There came a sigh out of the shadows and an answering sign, and out came a medical sergeant unarmed like myself and also clutching his knife. He'd been "sweating me out."

Instead of feeling like the only Yank on Sicily each of us now felt better with company, and started by compass toward what we thought was our target. The rest is history now—how paratroops scattered all over southern Sicily fought their way northwest, disorganizing all of the rear area. But this correspondent now is going back to covering the entire ground fighting front and leaving future paratroop missions to other and younger men who had better be rugged.

RUSSIANS CRITICIZE POST-WAR PLANS IN AMERICA AS HOSTILE

MOSCOW, July 18 (AP).—The soviet trade union magazine, War and the Working Classes, today criticized the Hearst newspapers, former President Herbert Hoover, and former Ambassador to Russia William C. Bullitt for promoting post-war reconstruction plans which it termed "hostile to the U. S. S. R."

It declared the persons it criticized, as well as some British publications, were "19th century."

Particular objection was made to what was described as a Polish plan for an east European federation consisting of a bloc of small and medium sized nations. "It is not difficult to see that while the plan presumably is directed against future German aggression, it is no less directed against the soviet union," the magazine said. "Those honestly standing for the soviet-British agreement cannot defend post-war plans inimical to the soviet union and Britain or even one of these states."

Hungarians Reported Protesting Against War

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 18 (AP).—Crowds demonstrated in front of the offices of the prime minister of Hungary in Budapest last Thursday in protest against further Hungarian participation in the war on the side of the axis, an informed Balkan source reported tonight.

FREED SICILIANS CRY OUT IN JOY AS ALLIES COME

Line Streets to Cheer Liberating Army.

BY ALLEN HUMPHREYS.

[Representing the combined British Press, distributed by the Associated Press.]

WITH THE BRITISH 8TH ARMY, July 15 [Delayed].—Our troops had their first real taste today of the pleasures of liberating a town from axis domination.

Hitherto they had passed thru politically unconscious areas where the apathetic, largely illiterate population was neither hostile nor welcoming and to whom the allied troops meant little more than the Italian and German forces.

Populace Lines Streets.

The population, from children to the aged, lined the narrow streets and clapped, cheered, smiled thru tears, and waved handkerchiefs as the British continued the chase of the Germans toward Catania.

"Viva Inglese," they shouted. It was a welcome which amazed the arriving troops.

I had the pleasure of participating in the release of some of the first political prisoners to regain their freedom in Europe.

The crowd led us to a forbidding looking building, the custodian of which had anticipated a knock—he was doubtless intimidated by the attitude of the crowd—and opened the door. Inside, confined in small cells—several in each—were about 30 men whose ages varied between 18 and 60. They had been locked up in these wretched conditions for several months and whimpered like unleashed dogs. When freed, they burst into tears and grabbed and kissed our hands.

Relatives Embrace Them.

The demonstration by the crowd outside as each left the building was highly emotional. Each man was seized by relatives and embraced fiercely amid great shouts from friends. One elderly woman fainted from emotion.

Tho called political prisoners they are better described as hunger rioters. It appeared they had complained of small food rations with increasing vigor and finally overstepped the line. This made them political offenders.

"Fame" [hungry] was a frequent word upon the lips of the crowd. The crew of a passing tank threw out bars of chocolate—the soldiers' own rations — which were madly scrambled for.

Hand Out All Cigarets.

Before we pushed on, every cigaret in the car had been handed out, including a tin of 50 which I had secreted in a window blind against the day when supplies with which we landed would be exhausted.

The climax to the crowd's feeling was shown by a young and pretty girl who, with tears in her eyes, stretched her arms thru the car window, encircled the neck of an observer officer, and pressed her cheek against his.

NAPLES BLASTED BY 500 BOMBERS IN ALL-DAY RAIDS

Allies Bag 40 Planes; Lose 13 of Own.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, July 18 (AP).—More than 500 allied bombers blasted the Italian port of Naples from dawn to dusk yesterday in the most shattering aerial attack ever carried out in the Mediterranean war theater, allied communiques announced tonight.

Twenty-two enemy aircraft were reported destroyed and seven probably destroyed over Naples. One Liberator was lost. In all other operations from North African bases, 18 axis planes were destroyed and 12 allied planes lost. Thus 40 axis planes were downed and 13 allied craft lost.

Great fleets of heavy and medium bombers—most of them American—from bases in both North Africa and the Middle East rained hundreds of tons of high explosives on Naples.

Drop Many Block Busters.

Flying Fortresses opened the daylight assault. Then came Mitchell and Marauder medium bombers from North Africa and heavy Liberators from the Middle East.

Wave after wave of bombers dropped blockbusters and 1,000 pounders which spread a carpet of flames over docks, rail yards, air fields, and industrial areas. The Flying Fortresses returned twice.

A 9th United States air force headquarters communique said more than 75 four engined Liberators participated in the Naples attack and dropped more than 325,000 pounds of high explosives.

"Bursts were seen in the vicinity of the royal arsenal, gas works, railroad stores, depot, roundhouse, and locomotive repair shops and many fires were started," the bulletin said.

Attacks Catania Area.

"South of the city we could see steady flashes of artillery," said Lt. Robert C. Sellegren of Oak Park, Ill., a pilot in a Mitchell formation which blasted the city's southeast section Friday night.

TELLS OF SICILY'S GUNS THAT DIDN'T HOLD UP YANKS

Southern Shore Studded with Defenses.

BY HAROLD V. BOYLE.

[Associated Press Correspondent Representing the Combined American Press.]

WITH THE AMERICAN 7TH ARMY IN SOUTHERN SICILY, July 13—[Delayed]—(AP).—The spreading American and British forces are mushrooming out like a fan thru Sicily and it takes no oracle to see that this Mediterranean island, which Mussolini in frantic appeals to stand firm has described as the "frontier of Italy," soon will be in allied hands.

This coming conquest is less significant in itself, however, than what it portends. Cracks in the axis armor are beginning to show clearly.

Today several correspondents drove 18 miles from Gela to Licata to get followup stories on the progress made by the American unit which landed there and seized more than 500 square miles of Sicily in three days.

Coast Heavily Fortified.

Along the coast the full extent of axis fortifications against invasion could be seen. For two years the Italian army had labored to safeguard these beaches. Extensive tank traps bordered the highway at several points. Pillboxes stood on every hill and hummock. Underground shelters were dug behind the ridges. Coastal batteries were cunningly placed for the best possible sweep of the sea and barbed wire grew as thick as grass. Guns guarded every road. Their steel muzzles lurked in scores of innocent looking cottages which in reality were camouflaged military strong points.

The fortifications were extensive, dense, and in depth. They looked strong enough for a comparative handful of determined men to hold off a sea borne force of almost any size. The Italians themselves were confident their defensive system was impregnable, and some of the officers taken prisoner claimed they knew in advance the day and points at which the allied invasion would be launched.

Bridgeheads Won Easily.

Yet when the day did come and swarming American amphibious combat troops stormed thru the surf they breached these fortifications with a minimum of casualties. Not one strong point or pillbox in the coastal defense chain stood up more than momentarily against Yankee fire power.

Standing near a landing craft in Licata harbor an American engineering major marveled at the ease with which the bridgeheads had been won. He had inspected the Italian coastal defenses and knew how painfully thoro they had been.

"The more you see of them the more you wonder how we got thru them," he said. "Of course the big part of the answer is that no kind of fortification is worth a damn unless it has men to man it. These defenses didn't have them. That's the reason they fell so easily."

Italians Brag of Bravery.

The odd thing is that while Canadian, and some American troops who saw their first fighting in the landings complain of the tameness of the resistance, captured Italian prisoners brag about how bravely and well they fought.

The Italians pour out a lot of smoke and bullets from their dug-in positions while the enemy is approaching, but when they come under heavy bombardment or feel themselves in great danger of being enveloped they drop their guns and come out with their hands up and grinning. They begin to demand food from their captors even before they reach the prisoners' pens.

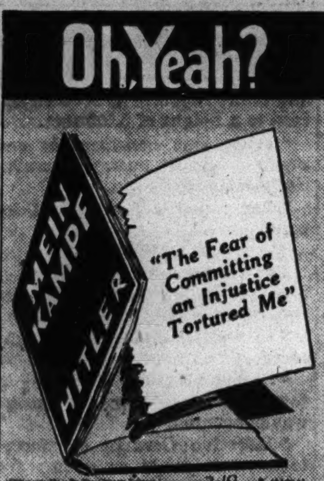
One American officer said 90 Germans gave themselves up, explaining, "Why should we lose our lives fighting to save this country if the people who live in it won't defend it?"

Watered with Ersatz Soldiers.

The German lines in Sicily are watered with ersatz soldiers sent here by the Nazi command because their political views or lack of what the Nazis call backbone might spread disaffection among the German civil population. Hitler prefers to have such soldiers out of the country in case the going gets tough at home.

Even when they were undergoing the heaviest kind of hammering there were few desertions from the crack German units in Africa. They fought as an army and surrendered as an army.

There has been no general sabotage here. Licata, emptied of more than two-thirds of its 30,000 population, is beginning to fill up again as the people filter back from inland farms and hills. Women, drab in black dresses and black stockings, move their chairs out on the sidewalks and sit with their children watching American troops swing thru the town. They enjoy it as if it were a parade.



Oh, Yeah?

WIDE RIVERS OF SICILY CROSSED BY JUMPING 'EM

British Paratroops Take Streams in Stride.

BY NED RUSSELL.

[Representing the combined American press. Distributed by The Associated Press.]

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN SICILY [Delayed].—The village of Lentini, guarding the southern approaches to the Catania plain, fell today to a bold three pronged attack by infantry striking the town's defenses and landing behind them from the air.

[This dispatch was undated and did not give the date for the fall of Lentini, which was announced officially Saturday.]

Lentini itself was not a very formidable obstacle. But the Catania plain behind it is criss-crossed by numerous rivers difficult to ford. That is why parachutists were dropped last night near a bridge 10 miles north of Lentini—halfway to Catania—crossing a wide, deep river.

The fall of Lentini coincided with bitter skirmishes for the mountain village of Vizzini, 25 miles west of Syracuse. Vizzini, snuggling in a rugged mountain, changed hands several times today, but by nightfall the British seized it.

Vizzini was defended by some units from the famous Hermann Goering division, formed here from units which were scheduled to reenforce the original division in Tunisia.

Chutists Land on River.

While the allies are thrusting steadily deeper into the island and threatening the Catania plain with its numerous airdromes and landing grounds, the Germans are rushing desperately eastward to try to bolster the front there.

Mussolini's troops here are not fighting on any appreciable scale. The Germans, who are scattered thinly among them, are preventing mass surrenders. The Italians surrender in batches of 50 to a couple of hundred.

Bumps Into Skirmish.

On the road from Syracuse inland toward Palazzolo I saw evidence of skirmishes where the axis' defensive positions either were pounded into submission or abandoned.

On this road I bumped into one of these skirmishes yesterday while driving toward Syracuse, believing the way clear because the British had driven salients north of the road from Syracuse and Palazzolo. Several bursts of machine gun fire and shell fire were dangerously close, but I was hidden in the hills and the sight of a small Italian infantry patrol advancing menacingly toward me and my companions sent us retreating to the safety of the allied lines.

Today the charred and twisted wreckages of guns, a dozen French built tanks and trucks, ammunition dumps and a couple of dead Italians sprawled at the roadside marked the battlefield.

AXIS FACES RUDE SHOCK IN SICILY; GOUMS IN FIGHT

Skilled Warriors Valued by Americans.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Chicago Tribune Correspondent representing the Combined United States Press.]

WITH U. S. 7TH ARMY IN SICILY, July 18.—First the paratroops, rated high as potential shock troops, hit the Germans and Italians in Sicily. Then that veteran American division which fought them the length of Tunisia struck. Now the axis troops are due for a hard and rude shock. Those fierce Moroccan tribesmen, France's famous colonial hill fighters, the Goumiers, or Goums, as they are known to the Yanks, are in Sicily.

We saw the Goums yesterday in their brown and black striped burnooses, their almost completely shaven heads topped by turbans hiding the tuft of hair with which these Moslems expect Allah to yank them to heaven when they die.

In Tunisia they became warm friends with the Americans who valued their fine fighting skill as proved so often in the mountains of Tunisia and later on the 9th division's sea flank in the advance on Bizerte. In Sicily they were an incongruous, but a welcome sight.

Bring Horses with Them.

With them when they crossed the sea came their horses and pack mules, knowing that they would be used for their favorite mountain fighting. In the mountains their sure footed animals can be used to better advantage than jeeps. But they accepted with shouts of childlike joy our contributions of weapons.

The Goum thinks the finest thing in the world is our Tommy gun. He is a close-in fighter like the American Indian. While he is extremely accurate with a rifle, the Goum prefers to steal up behind trees or to work along the ground until he is near his enemy where his long knife can come into play. The Tommy gun gives him an opportunity to start working on the enemy at a range somewhat longer than his favorite distance, with a splendid opportunity of killing five or six times as many men.

These dark skinned warriors are not here in behalf of Vice President Henry Wallace's common man, a better world, democracy, Free France, the defense of their homeland, empire building or because the draft got them. They are here for one reason which the Germans fear most of all—the sheer joy of killing.

They'll Be in Mountains.

So, should the mountain fighting get tough, you will know that the Goums will be in there, padding thru the woods, hiding behind rocks, picking off the enemy, and possibly even bringing back some grisly mementoes of their campaigning.

The Goums and the veterans of one Yank division earned the fear and respect of the Germans and Italians in the fighting in Tunisia. But the paratroopers who jumped into their first combat were pleased as Punch to learn before the fighting started that, tho untried in battle, the German high command gave them a high rating. The parachute soldiers fought not only with magnificent courage, but with all the guile and craft of Indians and were the best products of our army training.

There was, for example, the lieutenant colonel commanding one battalion which dropped into the proper fighting zone. His men had been in the most rugged type of combat against panzer [armored division] grenadiers and tanks. He had been wounded and the crew of an anti-tank weapon nearby had been killed, but the weapon had not been damaged.

A huge Mark VI. Tiger tank came plunging down the road toward them. The officer waited until the behemoth was 40 feet away. Then he seized the weapon, dashed into the road, leveled it and fired. He knocked out the tank. The next moment he was killed by enemy machine gun fire.

His battalion was fighting in support of a combat team from a veteran infantry division. And after the battle this team could not give enough praise to the parachutists who stayed in there fighting when the going was toughest.

"They were amazing fighters," said one colonel. "You could give them any weapon and they knew how best to use it. If we had an entire army trained like these fellows we would be going thru Berlin now."

Communiques on Sicily

ALLIED.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, July 18 (AP).—Allied headquarters issued this communique today:

"The important town of Agrigento in southwest Sicily has been captured by United States army troops.

"In spite of heavy opposition the advance continues. South of Catania enemy resistance is especially strong. The number of prisoners is steadily growing.

"A third Italian divisional commander has been captured together with the entire headquarters of the 207th Italian division.

"The strongest force of heavy and medium bombers ever to attack the Italian mainland made heavy attacks on important targets of Naples yesterday.

"Many bombs fell on the royal arsenal and torpedo factory and railway communications. Numerous fires were started.

"Railway targets had been attacked on the previous night by our light bombers which also raided the airdrome of Capo Dochino.

"During the night, medium bombers attacked Catania and light and medium bombers continued the attack on enemy communications in Sicily. These attacks on roads and railways were maintained yesterday by our fighter-bombers.

"Operations over southern Italy were carried out by intruder aircraft during the night of July 16-17.

"Our fighters yesterday continued their sweeps and patrols. In the course of these operations 18 enemy aircraft were destroyed, 13 of them by our night fighters.

"Twelve of our aircraft are missing."

ALLIED MIDDLE EAST.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 18 (AP).—A middle east air communique said today:

"Liberator bombers of the 9th United States army air force yester- attacked marshalling [freight] yards at Naples. Numerous hits and large explosions were observed. Tracks appear to be torn up and fires broke out followed by sheets of flame.

"Two large explosions were seen in the vicinity of the royal arsenal and pilots reported that black smoke rose to a height of 5,000 feet.

"There was considerable enemy reaction and 21 enemy aircraft are claimed as destroyed.

"One allied aircraft failed to return."

GERMAN.

The German high command communique as broadcast yesterday by the Berlin radio said:

"In the Sicilian sector, fighting increased in violence.

"Under pressure of strong tank formations, the town of Agrigento was evacuated.

"Effective German air force attacks were made on enemy troops and on shipping targets off the Sicilian east coast."

ITALIAN.

Following is the text of the Italian Sunday communique as broadcast by the Rome radio and recorded by the Associated Press:

"The violence of the fighting is still increasing around Agrigento. The battle is preponderantly a battle of armor. The troops which during the last two days had bravely defended the city were forced to retreat to positions farther back.

"East of Sicily axis air formations attacked yesterday successfully with torpedoes and bombs allied war and merchant ships of various tonnage.

"Six allied planes were destroyed by German fighters.

"Enemy naval units repeatedly shelled Catania.

"One cruiser was hit by ground artillery and a destroyer was set ablaze.

"Naples has again and repeatedly been bombed by four-engined bomber formations. Serious damage to the central and suburban districts was caused.

"The anti-aircraft batteries brought down 10 bombers. Another eight crashed after air fights with our fighters.

"The vicinity of Naples, Licaria, and Vizantino last night were machine gunned and bombed during enemy patrol activity.

"During actions reported in the last two bulletins four additional planes were destroyed, one of which crashed southwest of Ivrea and three near Genoa which was brought down by local anti-aircraft guns.

"During the last days we lost five planes.

"Italian torpedo boats in east Sicilian waters sank a 9,000 ton enemy vessel. A surmarine was sunk by a torpedo boat commanded by Capt. Silvio Cavo.

"There were 6 dead and 20 wounded in Reggio Emilio. In Naples 12 dead and 84 wounded, in Nola 9 dead and 12 wounded, in Roccarignola 10 dead and 10 wounded."

RUSSIANS HANG EIGHT QUISLINGS AS 30,000 CHEER

LONDON, July 19 [Monday]—(AP).—Before a crowd of 30,000 who cheered as they watched, eight Russian Quislings were hanged Sunday in the city square of Krasnodar in the Caucasus, the Moscow radio announced today.

Thousands of farmers in the area came to see the executions, said the broadcast, recorded by the soviet monitor, and "the reading of the sentence was met with prolonged applause."

The eight were convicted Saturday of high treason in aiding the Germans, who occupied Krasnodar last fall and were driven out during the winter. Three others convicted with them were sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment at hard labor.

SAYS CHURCHILL VERY OPTIMISTIC ON SICILY WAR

LONDON, July 18 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill told a private meeting of Conservative members of parliament last week that the war is going so well that "I am almost afraid to say how well," one member disclosed today.

J. H. Wooten-Davies, member for Heywood and Radcliffe, said yesterday at Radcliffe that Churchill look tired but "I have never seen him in such an optimistic mood."

'RESIST TO END,' ITALIAN TROOPS ON SICILY TOLD

Fascist Official on Radio Calls Situation Grave.

LONDON, July 18 (AP).—Acknowledging that Italy's "condition is very grave"—threatened as she is by allied invasion—Carlo Scorza, the new Fascist party secretary, told Italian soldiers and civilians today that they must resist to the end or suffer "the most severe penalties."

The pep talk to garrisons defending Sicily and to those on the mainland was in the form of a Rome radio broadcast and came as an answer to the allied ultimatum that Italians must surrender or die.

As Scorza spoke, Italy called up additional men and women for labor service.

Explaining Not Justifying.

Scorza said the Fascists could "justify this war," and that "neutrality for Italy was impossible." He contended that he was "explaining, not justifying."

"Resist and continue to resist is the order of the day for every one," he said. "For two years Italy has fought against the most powerful fleet in the world. For only 10 months Britain with the help of America has been able to take the Mediterranean initiative.

Calls It War of Race.

"The Italians know this is a war of continents. The Italians know this is a war of race, with the British and Americans as the vanguards of the inferior hordes.

"Two empires—the richest in the world—now are bearing down upon Italy. For all Italians who want to live as free Italians there is only one faith—Italy.

"Now that we have been obliged to take the defensive, should we then despair any more than the enemy has despaired? All of us at this moment are on our feet, one mass ready to do our duty, whatever happens."

All stores and establishments not connected with the war have been closed and four age groups have been called up for labor duty, an Italian broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said.

PILOTS CALL A-36 INVADER; HOPE NAME STICKS

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, July 18.—The A-36 fighter and dive bomber which achieved an impressive record in the invasions of Pantelleria and Sicily, will be called the Invader if the men who have flown it have anything to say about it. They hope the war department in Washington, D. C., will approve the designation of this colorful name instead of the prosaic letter and number.

Lt. Col. John D. Stevenson of Laramie, Wyo., who led the first A-36 unit which flew into battle in this theater, said that no official request to change the plane's name could be made. "But a bunch of the boys who fly these planes have cooked up the name, Invader, and they hope it sticks," he said. "We have already gotten used to calling the ships that ourselves."

The A-36 is a converted form of the P-51 Mustang fighter with the addition of dive brakes and bomb racks and with slight engine alterations. It can protect itself, having sufficient armament for a fighter, and pulls out of its dive at great speed. Thus it is not a "sitting pigeon" for opposing fighters as is the German Stuka.

'AMGOT' BOARD HELD MODEL FOR RULE OF ITALY

Presages Conquest of Entire Country.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Charles Poletti.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, July 18.—Gen. Harold Alexander's proclamation today of military rule over Sicily and the adjacent Lipari Islands presages the full conquest of these territories by the Americans and British, and is also regarded as a pattern for allied administration of Italy when it surrenders or is taken.

The proclamation was accompanied by announcement of the appointment of a number of American army officers to positions in the Allied Military Government in Occupied Territories, [AMGOT] including Lt. Col. Charles Poletti, former governer of New York who replaced Herbert Lehmann. He will serve as civic affairs officer.

The proclamation, as was indicated yesterday when the creation of AMGOT was disclosed, dissolved the Fascist party and all discriminatory and inhumane laws, suspended the powers of the Italian crown, and promised the civilian population that there would be no interference with their normal pursuits as long as they were compatible with military law. AMGOT will exercise administrative and jurisdictional functions under Alexander, who is military governor of the islands, as well as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's deputy.

Victory Anticipated.

The proclamation did not deal with the matter of currency in the occupied territories, but the stabilization of finance will be a natural consequence and announcement of rates of exchange is expected. It was recalled that when the British occupied Tripoli the lira was set at 1 cent, with 400 to the British pound sterling.

While Eisenhower is commander in chief in this entire theater, the proclamation was issued in the name of Alexander, for the latter is military commander on the spot. Should the American general be the field commander in later operations he automatically will become military governor where his troops are.

It is significant to note that altho the proclamation was not made public until today, it was dated July 10, the day of the Sicilian invasion. It is obvious, of course, that such decrees must be prepared in advance, but it also indicates that the allied invasion has now reached the stage where victory is anticipated.

Officers on Board Named.

Besides Poletti, other AMGOT leaders now in Sicily or preparing to go soon are:

Lt. Col. William C. Chanler, former corporation counsel of New York City, who heads the legal section.

Lt. Col. Bernard Bernstein, former assistant counsel of the United States treasury, assistant to the British director for public welfare.

Lt. Col. C. M. Spofford, former New York lawyer, who is serving in a general capacity.

Col. Samuel Bowlles, former Yakima, Wash., criminal investigator, who heads the public safety division.

Col. Edgar Hume, Frankfort, Ky., chief American health officer.

Col. John F. R. Seitz, Wilmington, Del., heading the division of civilian supply and resources.

Maj. H. C. Nolen, Columbus, O., section chief of the same division.

Maj. Henry T. Rowell, Stamford, Conn., who heads the AMGOT special school.

NOT A MAN LOST MOVING INVASION UNITS TO AFRICA

Washington, D. C., July 18 (AP).—Invasion forces to join American troops in North Africa in preparation for attacking Sicily were moved across the Atlantic without the loss of a man, the navy reported today.

Adm. Ingersoll.

"During the eight months intervening the invasions of French Morocco and Sicily," the navy reported, "ships under Adm. Royal E. Ingersoll, commander in chief, Atlantic fleet, moved troops to Africa."

The navy also reported assignment of American warships to the British Mediterranean fleet of Adm. Andrew Browne Cunningham, commander of allied naval forces in the invasion operations. "These United States units," the navy said, "took part in the bombardment of enemy shore installations under the direct leadership of Vice Adm. H. K. Hewitt, who commands the United States naval forces in North African waters."

AUTO SPOTLIGHT STOLEN.

Paul Pompian, 1620½ Wallen avenue, reported to police yesterday that thieves had stolen a spotlight valued at $15 from his automobile parked on the lower level at Wacker drive and Dearborn street.

SICILIAN MULES QUICKLY PUT TO TOIL FOR ALLIES

Pack Supplies in Rugged Agrigento Terrain.

BY HAROLD V. BOYLE.
[Associated Press Correspondent Representing the Combined American Press.]

AGRIGENTO, Sicily, July 16 [Delayed] (AP).—Agrigento, key city of southern Sicily and one of the oldest in Europe, fell to the American 7th army early tonight—but the United States navy and a regiment of long-faced Sicilian mules had a share in the victory.

We met Pvt. Frank Miles, of Aberdeen, Wash., leading animals to be used for pack trains to supply the advanced units in rugged country thru which the jeeps were unable to force a trail.

"The Sicilian farmers have been coöperating wonderfully in rounding us up mules and horses," he said. "They know that they can trust the American army to treat them right. Without the pack trains it would be almost impossible to get ammunition and food to some of our boys in those hills."

Fleet Guns, "Long Toms" Help.

The fleet guns bombarded the high-towered old town, which has seen many invasions thru the centuries, and hundreds of mules were drafted from the surrounding countryside and put to work for Uncle Sam packing food and ammunition boxes across the hills to the crews of 155 millimeter "Long Tom" rifles which broke up a last minute attempt by the Italians to bring up reënforcements for a counter-attack.

The defenders found the crossfire from the sea and land batteries too hot and capitulated, surrendering by the thousands as creeping artillery barrages smoked them out of their defenses.

In an effort to retain control of the city, which is a main road and communications center, the Italian commander rushed into the battle zone two battalions of infantry from Aragona, northeast of Agrigento.

Flee Back to Their Trucks.

"Long Toms" took them under fire as they were detrucking. Heavy shells rained into the area. No enemy troops in North Africa had been able to stand up against the battering might of this long-barrelled gun. Remnants of the units jumped back into the trucks and sped away toward Aragona without firing a shot.

The seizing of Agrigento, a city of 28,000 population, whose crumbling gray buildings are perched on a great hill and protected on three sides by cliffs, assured allied control of Porto Empedocle, one of the few good harbors in southern Sicily. The heights of Agrigento overlook and command the port.

Tough Nut to Crack.

A naval cruiser and two destroyers began the shelling of Agrigento—now shrunken from its former glory in the Roman empire period when the Italians made it the keystone of their defenses in that zone. It was a tough nut to crack because of the great number of gun emplacements and concrete pillboxes along the coastal road from Licata.

The American general in command shrewdly abandoned this natural military route and after an enveloping action began to drive from the north. The town of Favara fell last night and with this hurdle out of the way the artillery was able to concentrate on Agrigento.

In addition to the remaining coastal guns the town was heavily defended with pillboxes emplaced in the mountainous approaches and a number of mobile artillery batteries rushed from other sections of the island. It was suicidal to attempt to storm these barriers headon. The infantry wedged thru as the American artillery systematically blasted the Italian strong points one after the other.

By mid-afternoon more than 600 Italians, the majority of whom were artillerymen, straggled back from the front as prisoners of a single regiment. As dusk fell the engagement became a rout and the attackers embraced the city where those residents who had not fled to the hills had lived in terror for three days.

Driving on toward the front line along the Naro to Favara road in an army jeep driven by Pvt. Donald Burns of Northfield, O., we passed 16 Italian trucks destroyed on the road and 400 Italian prisoners, dirty, weary and unshaven, trudging back along the road in parallel lines.

"They had been in pillboxes and gun positions for more than a day and a half without water when we captured them and when we led them to the creek they quarreled for places and sank down on their knees and drank like animals," said Sgt. E. L. Henson, of San José, Cal., who was guarding the prisoners with Pvt. B. Smith of Gardner, Mass., and Pvt. Edwin Rodrigues, of San Francisco.

1ST DIVISION'S TASK HOTTEST ASSIGNMENT OF SICILY INVASION

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, July 18 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Terry de la M. Allen's 1st infantry division, spearhead of the American thrust into Gafsa and Bizerte in Tunisia, had perhaps the hottest assignment of the American sector in the invasion of Sicily, it was permitted by censorship to be disclosed tonight.

The 1st division tackled the beaches at Gela with Rangers in the vanguard and for a few hours it seemed certain they would be surrounded on three sides and driven back to the sea, but naval gunnery, a few field pieces and infantry bayonets saved the situation against the German Goering division.

The 3d infantry division had Licata and the nearby airfields as its immediate objectives on the American left flank. The 45th division, on the other flank, moved in and fought right thru to Vittoria, 12 miles from the coast.

The 1st infantry faced German Tiger and Mark IV. tanks but staved off the Nazis thru Sunday, July 11, and early Monday. With their tanks and guns finally ashore, they slashed out and regained their farthest positions inland.

BRITAIN GIVES U.S. BATTLE FLAG FROM ICELAND

[By wireless to the New York Times and the Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, July 18.—The British battle flag which flew over battalion headquarters in Iceland until the Americans took over there was presented to the United States today and will be hung in Cotton chapel of Boston cathedral.

The recipient was Thomas H. Eliot, former representative in congress and a cousin of T. S. Eliot, the poet. The donor was Maj. F. M. Staniland of the Lincolnshire regiment. The ceremony took place in the famous "Stump church" at Boston in Lincolnshire.

Cotton chapel was named for the Rev. John Cotton who was vicar of Boston in Lincolnshire and one of the founders of Massachusetts.

MIDWEST'S AIR HEROES RETURN FROM BRITAIN

130 and All Covered with Medals.

BY LARRY RUE.
[London Correspondent of The Chicago Tribune.]
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Larry Rue.

SOMEWHERE ON ATLANTIC COAST, July 18.—The first sizable contingent of American boys to complete their operational duties with the Eighth airforce of the European theater of operations of the United States army arrived here the other day and soon will be home on furlough telling their wives, parents, brothers, sisters or their girl friends all about it.

Chicago, Illinois and the Middle West generally are strongly represented in the group.

There are nearly 130 of them. All have been awarded the distinguished flying cross and the majority are loaded down with other medals—some the air medal with three oak leaf clusters. They are modest and unassuming, but it requires no individual story to prove they earned their decorations.

This is proved by the fact they survived. Each of them has participated in as many bombings over enemy territory as the law of average allows. And as Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander in chief of the 8th air force asserted, their work took place at a time when the experiment to prove daylight raiding of Germany and occupied territories was feasible and not so costly that it would have to be abandoned as some experts predicted was going on.

Already Have Given a Life.

In other words, figuratively speaking, these boys have given one life to their country already.

That they were not unaware of the dangers they survived is evident from their messages to the folks at home. "Didn't think I would make it," appears frequently in their remarks. Unanimously they say: "Glad to get back to the good old U. S. A.," the U. S. A. being varied with endearing adjectives for their home town or state. They will all be given furloughs and then the question is: "Where do we go from here?"

The majority of them want to go to Tokio, and it's possible that many will have their wishes gratified. Yet many of them will probably be assigned as instructors to train new crews and impart the lessons they learned in bombing targets in daylight against blinding flak [anti-aircraft fire] and overwhelming numbers of fighters.

Graduate from Big League.

They feel they've been graduated from the big league, the toughest job yet assigned our bombers. Their word on how best to use their equipment, bombs, and guns, and what the enemy can do against them, is the last word. But this is a subject that they will have to discuss carefully with outsiders, for much of what we know about the enemy's defenses and are doing to overcome them, and what we are using against them, are still regarded as military secrets.

But all have several stories they can tell. More than once it looked as if it were lights out for them—and that they can tell. There will be stories of their grimmest missions and there is the story of their funniest one, too. Each has figured prominently in some "do" or other reported in dispatches from Britain.

They are all national heroes and undoubtedly will find the red carpet awaiting them when they reach their home towns.

Win Leaves

Sgt. Oliver Hackwith (left) and Sgt. W. C. Budzisz.

Among them is Raleigh W. Holloway, 1205 Chandler street, Danville, Ill., who with four other technical staff sergeants was awarded the oak leaf cluster aboard ship to wear with the distinguished flying cross. This was the first time such a ceremony was held aboard ship and the British furnished the guard of honor.

These awards were handed out on behalf of Maj. Gen. Eaker by Col. Ralph Dusenbury, who has served as our military attache in Madrid.

Also among those coming over and who will soon be home is Capt. Roy M. Ahalt, 4808 Midraugh avenue, Downers Grove, formerly an air lines mechanic. Ahalt is bringing with him his wife, the former Francoise Micheline Cabirol, whom he married last September.

Few Crews Intact.

Ahalt has been attached to the bombing command wing but finished his operational duties as a night bomber with the British a year and a half ago, and for which he received the British distinguished flying cross. He has several stories, particularly those of night raids over Essen, where only courage and skill made possible his return after his ship was badly hit by flak.

There are very few crews that have survived intact. Particularly vulnerable have been the gunners—ball, top turret, tail, or waist. These jobs usually are performed by sergeants. Pilots, navigators, and bombardiers usually are commissioned officers.

Chicagoland Survivors.

Among those who survived the required number of aerial bombardments over Europe against every defense the Germans were able to concentrate are:

From Illinois: Tech. sgt. Walter C. Budzisz, 25, of 3510 McLean avenue, Chicago, who is looking forward to seeing his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Carol Klutka at the same address; Staff Sgt. Charles J. Davis, 20, of Chicago; Capt. Dean W. Bohlen, bombardier of Rantoul, who says the worst raid he experienced was over Bremen.

Tech. Sgt. Oliver J. Hackwith, 30, of Toulon; Tech. Sgt. William C. Gray, 26, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Gray, live in Peoria; Staff Sgt. H. G. Schneiderman, who will see Mr. and Mrs. Schneiderman, 528 East Winneshiek, Freeport; Staff Sgt. Henry W. Kwasneskc, 26, who is on his way to Mr. and Mrs. H. Kwaneeck, 918 Elizabeth street, Joliet.

From Indiana: Staff Sgt. Waldo B. Brandt, 27, of Denver, who says it is good to see good old United States of America again; Tech. Sgt. Frank M. Ketron, 21, of Richmond, who says he is glad to be back; Tech. Sgt. Walter C. Dager, 29, of Monoville; Tech. Sgt. Kenneth N. McClure, of 1305 East Mishawaka avenue, Mishawaka, who says it will be nice to see sunshine after a year of English fog.

From Michigan: Donald Steffee, 22, who also has the Purple Heart, of 605 North 4th street, Sturgis, who says he's going back to see the cutest girl in Kalamazoo; Tech. Sgt. Harry Kulchesky, 24, of Hamtramck, who says: "It was tough but I made it."

From Iowa: Arnold D. Burton, technical sergeant, 25, of DesMoines, who says he hopes that fellows fighting in other parts of the world have the good luck he has had.

FRENCH AIRPORT, AXIS SHIPPING RIPPED IN RAID

LONDON, July 19 [Monday]—(AP).—British bombers and fighter planes attacked enemy airport facilities in France and shipping off the Dutch coast last night for the second time in 24 hours, the air ministry announced today.

Typhoon bombers supported by fighters destroyed two enemy aircraft at the Abbeville air field in occupied France, while coastal command Beaufighters, escorted by Spitfires and Typhoons, attacked an enemy convoy off the Netherlands coast, damaging two ships. Four enemy fighter planes were destroyed.

Also, Mustangs on patrol off the Dutch coast shot down two enemy planes. Eight British planes were missing from Sunday's operations. In the first of these one-two punches, British fighter planes on Saturday night made widespread sweeps over France, Holland, and Belgium.

U. S. DECORATES POLISH FLYER, AIDED IN RAIDS

LONDON, July 18 (AP).—Squadron Leader "Teddy," a Polish Spitfire pilot who has battled Germans over three countries since September, 1939, today wore a new red, white, and blue medal and ribbon given him by his latest comrades-in-arms, the Americans.

The first Polish air force pilot to be decorated by the American air force in Britain, he received the distinguished flying cross Saturday from Maj. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commanding the United States 8th air force.

A citation said the medal was given "for extraordinary achievement while leading his squadron as an escort for United States army air force bombers on a raid over enemy-occupied territory."

FIRE DESTROYS KODIAK'S FAMED RUSSIAN CHURCH

KODIAK, Alaska, July 18 (AP).—Kodiak's famous Russian Greek Orthodox church, one of the last reminders of the Russian occupation of Alaska, was a smoking ruin today, with only the Byzantine cross tower still standing. The famous church, built shortly after Russia established the settlement of Kodiak in 1792, was destroyed by fire. Priceless church relics, including gifts from the Empress Catherine of Russia, were destroyed. They had been removed at the beginning of the war but recently had been returned.

BABY SWALLOWS PIN.

SWEDEN CALLS RESERVES; GIVES PUBLIC WARNING

If War Comes Booklet Issued to Everyone.

Gen. Olof Thoernell.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 18 (AP).—Sweden stood at the peak of military preparedness today as the government distributed a primer for civilians on how to conduct themselves in case of war and considered a new press campaign against German troop transport privileges.

From day to day new callups are being made under an order by the Swedish commander in chief, Gen. Olof Thoernell.

Reliable sources said preparations are going far beyond what would be normal for summer maneuvers. Some estimated Sweden has as many men under arms today as during the crucial days of the Nazi invasion of Norway in April, 1940, when probably 200,000 men were summoned.

Could Mobilize 600,000.

In case of war Sweden could mobilize at least 600,000 well trained men. Most of those called up now already have had previous training and with two or three weeks of army life and freshener courses would be ready for any eventuality. The army is summoning as few as possible from the provinces because the vital harvest is due soon.

A 16 page booklet called "If War Comes" is being mailed to every Swedish household. The pamphlet, which is intended to frustrate fifth columnism, stresses the necessity of Sweden fighting to the last man.

Oppose Nazi Traffic.

A Swedish press campaign demanding cessation of Nazi transit and military traffic to Norway, because of the risk "which German transports involve to our railways and districts thru which these transports pass," has been in progress for several days.

GERMANS SEIZE FOES OF LAVAL TO BAR REVOLT

BERNE, Switzerland, July 18 (AP).—The Vichy police and German occupation troops in France have started raids against enemies of Pierre Laval's government and those considered likely to join a popular uprising in the event of allied invasion, dispatches to Switzerland disclosed tonight. Two hundred persons were arrested in Haute Savoie province adjoining Switzerland, a dispatch to the newspaper La Suisse reported. Many Italian troops in his area are being replaced with Germans. The Nazi occupation forces also made arrests independent of the Vichy cleanup.

LEND-LEASE SO GREAT RUSSIANS CAN'T UNLOAD IT

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

CAIRO, Egypt, July 18.—American lend-lease equipment for Russia is going into Persia by way of the Persian gulf and thence overland in such volume that United States observers say production and delivery have outstripped Russian ability to unload and carry it away.

The 1,000,000 tons per month mark reached this month will soon be exceeded in view of increasing shipping facilities.

The months of work developing wharves, railroads, and highways over scorching deserts and mountainous regions are said to be at last showing results. All skilled labor and a good share of the unskilled falls on United States army personnel.

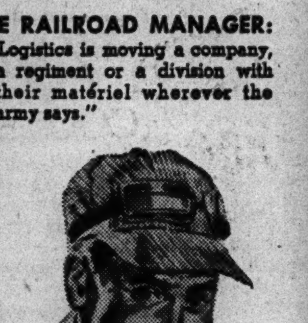
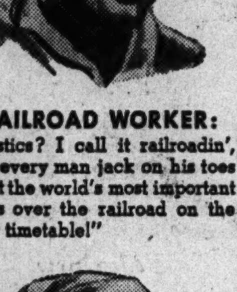
THE STRATEGIST:
"Logistics is the science of military transport and supply."

THE RAILROAD MANAGER:
"Logistics is moving a company, a regiment or a division with their matériel wherever the army says."



THE RAILROAD WORKER:
"Logistics? I call it railroadin', with every man jack on his toes to get the world's most important trains over the railroad on the army timetable!"



THE SOLDIER:
"Logistics to me means pack up and pull out on the double. And believe me we go places fast."

Supplying the world's fastest growing army with transportation is one of the many complex problems that come under the military term, "logistics." In this connection, according to Major General Charles P. Gross, Chief of Transportation, Army Service Forces, "the railways have more than justified the confidence reposed in them by army men."

So far in this war, the movement of war traffic has been more than four times greater than it was in World War I. And to make this accomplishment possible, the Office of Defense Transportation, the Army, the Navy and the Railroads are steadfastly working shoulder to shoulder, during every hour of every day.

Each step in planning and executing a mass military move on the railroads is worked out with such straight-line efficiency, timing and teamwork that there is complete freedom from delay and confusion. But "behind the scenes" it takes "know-how" and toil and sweat and 'round-the-clock vigilance.

Thanks to a closely knit army-navy-railroad set-up, millions of fighting men have been moved on schedule. The flow of millions of tons of supplies has been speeded. Delays at ports have been avoided.

What an example of an aroused democracy at work and at war! The battle before the battle is fought on the railroad front and The Milwaukee Road is proud to be one of America's Railroads—all United for Victory.

2 YANKS BAG 4 PLANES APIECE IN RENDOVA BATTLE

Busy Picking Zeros Off Tails of Mates.

BY LEIF ERICKSON.

GUADALCANAL, July 16 [Delayed] (AP).—A young marine and a young United States army pilot shared top honors, downing four planes each in the American air victory over the Japanese yesterday when 45 enemy bombers and Zeros were shot down north of Rendova Island with the loss of but three of our planes.

It was the second 15 to one air victory over the Japanese in a month.

First Lt. Ernest A. Powell, 26, of Memphis, Tenn., marine Corsair pilot, shot down two Mitsubishi bombers and two Zeros during the 20 minute engagement. Three bombers and one Zero were destroyed by 1st Lt. Joe Lesicka, 23, of Westmoreland, Cal., flying a P-40 Warhawk.

Raining Jap Planes.

During the battle, which repulsed an enemy attempt to blast Rendova's supplies and shipping for our troops invading nearby New Georgia Island, marine Corsairs bagged 16 Zeros and 13½ medium bombers. Six P-40s were credited with shooting down 12 Zeros and half the credit for a destroyed bomber. Navy Grumman Wildcats claimed three Zeros in the biggest Solomon Islands dogfight since the new Southwest Pacific offense started June 30.

A Rendova air officer said, "It was raining bombers and Zeros up there."

In the Japs' last attempted air assault on Guadalcanal June 16, the enemy lost 94 planes. Only six United States planes were shot down and four of these pilots were rescued.

Intercepts 75 Planes.

When the New Georgia offensive was launched June 30, American fighters shot down 103 Japanese aircraft with a loss of but 11 of our planes.

Lt. Powell related that his Corsair flight intercepted part of a Japanese force of 25 bombers and 50 Zeros at 23,000 feet over Kolombangara Island yesterday. Powell planned to go after the bombers but saw an American plane come by with a Zero on its tail.

"I poured a long burst into the Zero. He burst into flames and went straight down," Powell said. Then he picked off a bomber at 15,000 feet.

"My chief job that afternoon seemed to be keeping Zeros off my mates' tails," Powell said. "I found another Zero on somebody's tail and one burst was enough to send him down in flames.

Fights Without Shells.

"By this time I was down to 8,000 feet, chasing bombers back to where they came from. I overtook one finally and gave him a burst that just blew him apart."

Lt. Lesicka related that he picked off his first Zero as the enemy fighters came down from higher positions with the bombers. Then he shot down a bomber.

"I took two more Zeros off the tails of P-40s," he said. "When I hit the last one I only had one gun left."

With the ammunition all gone, Lesicka stayed in the fight, bluffing Japanese flyers with fake passes and chasing them home.

BURGLARS TAKE OIL STOVE.

Burglars entered a parking lot office at 14th street and Wabash avenue yesterday and stole an oil stove valued at $20, a wall clock, some gasoline rationing coupons, and the telephone coinbox, the manager, Raymond Lukas, 2674 West 60th street, reported to police.

GREEN CREW ON 1ST RAID BLASTS A JAP BATTERY

Drops Bombs on New Guinea Position.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, July 17 [Delayed].—A green crew flying its first combat mission yesterday neatly removed something which has bothered pilots flying over Salamaua for weeks.

A Liberator piloted by 2d Lt. Leaford Bearskin, 21 year old Indian, of Wyandotte, Okla., darted out of heavy clouds, made its bomb run in less than 20 seconds, caught the Japs with their kimonos down, and dropped six 500-pound kisses smack into the middle of a heavy anti-aircraft position.

Intelligence officers comparing photos of the exploding bombs with pictures showing the known position of the anti-aircraft battery said it could not have been sweeter.

A Bronx Indian.

The bombardier who scored the bull's-eye was 2d Lt. Stanley Greenhouse of New York City. He is sometimes known as "grandpappy" because he is the oldest member of the crew and is sometimes called "The Indian from the Bronx."

The navigator who brought the plane safely home after a long reconnaissance flight of which the bombing was the highlight was 2d Lt. Aaron Levine, 23, a former science teacher at Springfield, Mass. The co-pilot was 2t Lt. Leonard Ford, 22, of Jetmore, Kan., tho he was not present during yesterday's venture.

Many Former Sergeants.

An interesting coincidence is that Levine is the only one who has always been an officer. All the others are former sergeants. Bearskin was formerly a ground crew chief and radio operator in the air corps, while Greenhouse was in an armored division. All of them transferred to flying school. Greenhouse wanted to be a pilot, but the aptitude tests made him a bombardier.

"I am a psychological bombardier," he said.

CHICAGO GUNNER AIDS SHOOTING DOWN ONE JAP BOMBING PLANE

Washington, D. C., July 18 (AP).—One Japanese medium bomber was shot down and another severely damaged by "Mammy Yokum" and "Jeannie C.," two Liberator bombers in the northern Solomons, the war department has been informed.

Intercepted by the two Japanese bombers, the Liberators made a sweeping turn to bring their maximum fire power on the Japanese planes. Opening fire at 500 yards, the guns of the B-24 swept the Mitsubishes from stem to stern. One of the planes began falling. The other stayed in the fight trying to give cover to its crippled mate. Diving down in formation, the B-24s finished off the disabled plane. The other escaped.

COTTON MILLS IN BURMA BOMBED BY U. S. PLANES

"B-25 medium bombers of the 10th United States air force yesterday attacked Japanese installations in Burma. Several tons of bombs were dropped on cotton mills at Myingyan. Other formations bombed a railroad shed, warehouses, tracks, and rolling stock at Monywa and near the Mu river bridge.

"Many buildings were reported destroyed as well as tracks and freight cars. A violent explosion was observed. A large river steamer in the Irrawaddy was bombed from low altitude. Near hits were reported."

REDS SURGE ON FOUR MILES IN 3 DRIVES ON OREL

Bag 78 Nazi Tanks, 137 Planes in Day.

LONDON, July 19 [Monday].—The Red army punched another four mile hole in Germany's strong defenses around Orel yesterday, capturing a number of villages and wiping out 5,000 enemy troops in its first successful summer counter-offensive, it was announced early today in Moscow.

German reserves rushed into action on the rain swept front failed to stop the Red drives converging on Orel from the north, east, and south. In a week the Russians have gained from 26 to 50 miles in the huge wheeling movement which already is threatening the vital Orel-Bryansk railway northwest of the city.

A special communique announced that 78 German tanks and 20 armored cars had been knocked out and 137 planes destroyed during Saturday. The midnight bulletin issued later said 5,000 Germans had fallen yesterday as the Red army overran several more villages.

Destroy 20 Tanks.

Approximately 20 German tanks, 61 guns, 25 mortars, and 138 machine guns were destroyed during yesterday's fighting. The Germans lost an entire battalion vainly trying to hold one strongly fortified village, said the midnight bulletin. They also failed to prevent Russian capture of several warehouses stocked with arms and foodstuffs. Three thousand Germans were slain in another area.

Altogether, the Russians gained from two to four miles, but the communique did not specify the localities. Two days ago the Russians had been reported less than 25 miles from Orel and even closer to the Bryansk railway behind the city.

Caucasus Fight Continues.

Fighting in the Caucasus northeast of Novorossisk continued, the communique said, and in one action the Germans lost 300 troops and eight tanks. The enemy "made strenuous attempts to regain positions lost by him in the last few days," it added.

A German submarine also was sunk in the Black sea, Moscow said, while in the Barents sea one coastal vessel and a transport were sunk and two other ships were damaged.

The Russian air force—now considered equal or superior to Germany's—again attacked Orel's rail yards Saturday night, Moscow said. Karachev, 50 miles northwest of Orel on the railway to Bryansk, and Navlya, 25 miles south of Bryansk, also were hammered to check the flow of German reënforcements.

[The German high command reported battles spreading along the front to the south, with Russian attacks upon the Nazi bridgehead in the Caucasus and on the Donetz front. In the Donetz area below Kharkov, Berlin said heavy tank and infantry attacks made local penetrations, and that the Germans now were counter-attacking to regain lost ground. In the Orel sector, Berlin said, "the fierce defensive battle is continuing with unbroken violence."]

Berlin Reports Clash of Naval Units Off Holland

LONDON, July 18 (AP).—The Berlin radio said today light German naval units were attacked by enemy speed boats off the Dutch coast this morning. The German ships set fire to one enemy speed boat, the broadcast said.

PARTY IS FIRST, THEN MONARCHY, FRANCO WARNS

MADRID, Spain, July 18 (AP).—Gen. Francisco Franco's speech last night to the Phalangist National council was declared today to be a warning to monarchists and "foreign propagandists" that he would tolerate no opposition to the party movement he heads.

Gen. Franco.

Any eventual restoration of a monarchy, he said, would be possible only on condition that it worked with the Phalangist movement.

Franco's speech, made after weeks of rumors and reports of political negotiations aimed at restoring Juan, the late King Alfonso's second son, was made to silence what the general called the "frog pond" of opposition.

Six members of the national council already have been ousted because of their connection with monarchists' letter appealing for Juan's restoration.

HOW MOVE STARTED.

The monarchy restoration was revived recently when Spanish monarchists in Switzerland sent a letter to Franco signed by 20 leading Spaniards, most of them members of the Spanish legislative body, the Cortes. Some supporters of the pretender, Prince Juan, said the move had the support of the British, but this was never acknowledged by any British source. The restoration was proposed as a method of swinging Spain from the axis column.

PAROLEE, FACING DRAFT, ATTACKS COUPLE WITH AX

Tries to Steal Car, Flee to Dodge Induction.

Ottawa, Ill., July 18 [Special].—An elderly farmer and his wife were near death tonight in Ryburn King hospital here as the result of an ax attack upon them in their beds by James Howard Garrison, a 19 year old parolee from the Illinois training school for boys, near Sheridan. He had been employed until yesterday on his victims' farm.

J. H. Garrison.

Garrison was captured by deputy sheriffs as he walked along a highway 11 miles from the scene of the attack, and, according to Sheriff Clayton C. Harbeck made a complete confession. He said he wielded the ax on the couple when they awakened while he was searching their bedroom for automobile keys he needed to carry out a plan to steal their automobile.

Released by Parole Officer.

His victims are Ben Toftoy, 66, and his wife, Christie, 69, whose farm is 10 miles northwest of here. An investigation revealed that Garrison was at liberty and able to visit the Toftoy farm last night because of the indulgence of a parole officer and the Toftoy's own charity in refusing to prosecute him for the previous theft of $40 because he was scheduled to be inducted into military service tomorrow.

Reluctance of Garrison to enter the service, however, led the parolee to plan to steal the Toftoy automobile and flee the community, according to his confession.

Garrison had been employed on the Toftoy farm for several weeks, the sheriff said, and Toftoy yesterday complained to I. N. Miller of LaSalle, a state parole officer, that he suspected the parolee of stealing $40 from his home. Miller took Garrison to Ottawa and questioned him, obtaining an admission of the theft.

Ordered to Draft Board.

"Garrison had orders to report to his draft board in Marseilles Monday morning," Miller said. "I had to decide whether to return him to the training school, from which he had been paroled in April, or to allow him to go ahead with the induction procedure. Toftoy said he did not want to block his entering service and would not prosecute him for the theft.

"Accordingly I got in touch with C. E. Phelps, custodian of the school, and it was arranged that if Garrison would report at the school today, Phelps would drive him to Marseilles the next morning. Garrison agreed to do this, so I arranged for him to spend the night at the hotel in Ottawa."

Long Record of Crime.

R. W. Ballard, superintendent of the Illinois state training school for boys near St. Charles, who also has supervision of the institution at Sheridan, said Garrison has a long criminal record and that after he was committed to the state school for auto larceny Nov. 6, 1941, school authorities made a request that he be transferred to a penitentiary.

This request was refused by the state's attorney in East St. Louis, to which it was referred by the committing Circuit court, Ballard said.

BOGUS OFFICER HALTS TRAFFIC, KILLS EXECUTIVE

Plant Guard Arrested as Kansas City Slayer.

Kansas City, Mo., July 18 [Special]—Louis G. Lower, 41 years old, director of the Kansas City Municipal auditorium and former executive secretary of the Republican county committee, was shot fatally today by a bogus traffic officer at the Union station plaza. Lower died 15 minutes after the shooting.

Police said the shooting took place after Lower had halted his automobile at a traffic light and had been ordered to pull over to the curb by the supposed officer, who had been directing traffic and reprimanding motorists in the busy district for several minutes.

When Lower asked to see the credentials of the man who had halted him, the man produced a gun and shot Lower in the chest, then told him, "You're not hurt," witnesses told Detective Inspector Edward J. Larson, in charge of the police investigation.

Plant Guard Held.

Clyde Souders, 49, employed as a guard at the plant of the Aircraft Accessories corporation in Kansas City, Kas., was taken into custody as Lower's assailant. No charge will be placed against him until tomorrow, police said.

Souders was wearing his guard's uniform and badge when he assumed the role of traffic officer, Larson said. He added that altho Souders at one time was a police department clerk, he is not now connected with the department. No record has been found of the issuance of a permit to Souders to carry a gun, he said.

One witness told police he watched Souders stop a motorist just previous to the Lower shooting and that Souders acted as if he had been drinking. Larson said Souders refused to make any statement.

Leader of Youth Groups.

Lower was nationally known as a leader of youth organizations and was active in political and civic affairs. As executive secretary of the Republican county committee in 1939, he played a leading part in directing the Republican fight which wrested control of city affairs from Tom Pendergast, Democratic boss, and his associates.

He was international president of the Young Men's Civic Forum and formerly had been assistant administrator of the Order of De Molay, junior Masonic organization which was founded in Kansas City and of which he became the first member at an initiation March 24, 1919. For several years he was executive secretary of the municipal Ban Johnson Baseball league.

PASTOR TO DEFY NEW U. S. MOVE TO TAX SALARY

Troubles of the Rev. George Lewis over the victory tax, once believed settled, have cropped up again. He is pastor of the Marquette Road Baptist church, 1501 West Marquette road.

When the victory tax went into effect last January, the Rev. Mr. Lewis rebelled against its application to his salary and the salaries of his assistant pastor and janitor. He held it to be a tax on the church. After conferences with internal revenue agents, he presumably solved the matter by eliminating the three salaries and substituting for them an expense account.

Now the clergyman has been notified a tax agent will call on him tonight. The Rev. Mr. Lewis said he will adhere to his previous stand. He has been drawing salary since July 1, when the new taxes went into effect. The Rev. Mr. Lewis, 35 years old and father of five children, is awaiting an induction call from his draft board in Ringgold, Ga.

"You've Got to Spend Money to Make Money"

MacNIDER IDEAL G.O.P. CANDIDATE 'NOW,' NYE SAYS

Senator Holds Selection Must Wait a While.

Washington, D. C., July 18 (AP).—The name of Hanford MacNider was injected today as a possible "dark horse" entry for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Sen. Gerald Nye [R., N. D.] advanced the suggestion that if the choice had to be made at this time, MacNider, with his military record, would make "an ideal candidate." He suggested, however, that even the type of candidate the Republicans should pick "must await developments along the war and home fronts."

"If I could name a candidate today," Nye told a reporter, "I'd name MacNider, a veteran of the last World war and a man up to his ears in the present one."

Now on Active Duty.

Now a brigadier general, MacNider is on active army duty in an undisclosed assignment.

Nye said MacNider would "answer any attempt of the Democrats to make prosecution of the war an issue in the forthcoming campaign." In that respect Nye classed him with Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Eddie Rickenbacker.

MacNider, 54 years old, served on the Mexican border in 1916 and 1917, and won the distinguished service cross and numerous other medals in World War I., rising to the rank of lieutenant colonel. Later he served as assistant secretary of war [1925-'28] and as minister to Canada [1930-'32].

"If the war is still in progress, it may be desirable to pick a military man," Nye said in discussing the outlook for 1944.

"Whoever is picked, however, should not be wedded to a set post-war program or wedded against one.

"The coming fall may give us a picture of the man we want. I have a hunch congressmen returning from the summer recess and talks with the home folks may have some pretty definite ideas of what the people want."

Nye, long an opponent of administration foreign policy, added:

"We've got to get a candidate behind whom all the party and the American people generally, will unite. MacNider would be such a man."

G. O. P. POST-WAR POLICY MAKERS TO MEET TODAY

New York, July 18 (AP).—The Republican Post-war Policy association, which is endeavoring to draw up a foreign policy plank for submission to the Republican party in the next Presidential campaign, tomorrow will begin the second of three scheduled regional conferences.

Deneen A. Watson, Chicago lawyer and national chairman of the association, said the two day meeting here would be attended by several hundred party leaders from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia, and the six New England states.

post-war planning, particularly for the preservation of free private enterprise.

Denied Tariff Power.

6. The President's request for sweeping powers to suspend tariff and immigration laws, which he made the day before the 1942 elections, was killed in a house committee as an unreasonable grant of autocratic power, the suspicion being that the intent was to let down the immigration bars to a horde of foreign war refugees.

7. The President's request for extension of executive authority to revalue the dollar, granted 10 years ago, was refused.

8. The executive was forbidden to turn over the treasury's 2 billion dollar gold stabilization fund to any post-war world bank, such as Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. visualizes, without the consent of congress.

Blocked on Flynn.

9. The President was compelled to withdraw the appointment to the diplomatic service of Edward J. [Paving Blocks] Flynn, at the latter's resuest, in order to avert its rejection by the senate because of the appointee's lack of qualifications and of involvement in scandals, including the paving of a courtyard on his country estate with blocks and labor supplied by the New York City government.

10. Despite the aggressive opposition of the Roosevelt administration and the Communists and other radicals, the Dies committee investigating un-American activities was given an extension of life and a new appropriation.

11. Leon Henderson, price administrator, was forced to resign, sacrificed by the President to quell the dissatisfaction of congress with the administration of rationing by impractical, visionary, socialistic officials.

Criticized by Committees.

12. Crop insurance was voted out of existence as another impractical New Deal innovation.

13. The Roosevelt administration has been severely criticized by the Truman, Byrd and other investigating committees of congress for bungling and waste in the conduct of the war on the home front.

14. The salary of Robert Morss Lovett, secretary of the Virgin Islands, was cut off and two top ranking employes of the federal communications commission, William E. Dodd and Goodwin Watson, were slated for dismissal next fall because a house committee had found that they had been members of communist front organizations.

"Blank Checks" Ended.

15. Under a provision withholding pay from pricing officials lacking business experience the price administration is being compelled by congress to dismiss scores of radical college professors and other theorists bent upon making over the American economy of private enterprise and individual initiative.

16. Because of his propensity for financing projects disapproved by congress out of funds granted him for use at his discretion the President was forbidden to use such "blank checks," now amounting to 89 million dollars, for any purpose rejected by congress or its committees.

17. Extension of the Guffey coal price control act was refused because its partakes of a socialistic scheme for government domination of private enterprise.

Grade Labeling Abandoned.

18. The price administration was compelled to abandon the grade labeling program of the New Deal planners under which private enterprise would be deprived of the advantage and value of trade labels of merchandise known to the public as guarantees of quality.

19. Because the Atlantic charter was proclaimed and the lend-lease post-war economic agreements were entered into without consulting congress the administration has been required to submit to that body the plans for post-war control of commercial aviation and for the establishment of an international war relief and rehabilitation agency on which negotiations the state department was proceeding independently until checked.

Allred Appointment Barred.

20. The appointment of James V. Allred, former governor of Texas, to the 5th federal Circuit Court of Appeals failed of confirmation because it had the appearance of playing politics with the judiciary to pay a political debt. Allred had resigned from the federal District court, to which Mr. Roosevelt had appointed him originally, to run for the senate against Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel, a Texas Democrat marked by Mr. Roosevelt for the purge. O'Daniel's defeat of Allred was followed by Mr. Roosevelt's effort to return Allred to the bench and in a higher position than he held before.

21. The extension of the authority to make reciprocal tariff agreements with other nations was limited to two years instead of the three requested by the President, so that the Republicans, if they are returned to power in 1945, will not be bound by a procedure that excludes congress from tariff making.

In numerous provisions congress manifested opposition to the subsidies and regimentation imposed by the New Deal on agriculture in pursuance of its doctrine of scarcity production. To this reaction against the New Deal farm program also was due much of the opposition to the administration use of subsidies to roll back food prices.

Police Hunt Suitor After Disappearance of Girl, 16

Chicago detectives are seeking Efren Chavez, 36 years old, charged in a warrant with the kidnaping of Mary Louise Mendozza, 16, of 802 Collins street, Joliet. Chavez was said to have raced away with her in his car after her mother, Mrs. Caroleta Cerda, had stepped out of the auto in front of her home Saturday night. Mrs. Cerda said Chavez had been refused permission to marry the girl.

Do you know what loans really cost?

THE COST of making a loan is not small ANYWHERE. When you must borrow, you certainly don't want to pay two or three times MORE than necessary. YET ... THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE DO JUST THAT ... simply because they don't know the facts about loan costs.

Personal Loans

SEE HOW MUCH YOU CAN SAVE

Amount of Loan	$100	$200	$300
	Total Costs
A typical loan plan	20.84	39.52	57.12
At Merchandise Bank	5.50	11.00	16.50
YOU SAVE	$15.34	$28.52	$40.62

*Savings shown apply to co-maker loans repaid in 12 monthly instalments. If on your signature alone, savings are somewhat less, but in any case are at least half the cost of the typical loan plan.

Don't make the mistake of thinking an interest rate of 3% per month gives you a cost of $3 per year for a $100 loan. Figure it out yourself this quick, easy way.

Take as an example, a $100 loan to be repaid in 12 monthly instalments of $10.07 each (a typical loan plan). In 12 months you pay back $120.84. But you borrowed only $100. Therefore, the difference—$20.84—is the cost of your loan.

BANK RATES LESS COSTLY

On your signature only, the cost is only $8.00 at Merchandise Bank—a savings of $12.84. With one co-maker, the cost is still less—only $5.50. By either plan you save nearly enough to make two monthly payments ... and the payments are less.

You don't have to take time off your job to apply for a loan here. Complete arrangements made by phone or mail.

Tydings Declares OPA Wrecks Market.

Sen. M. E. Tydings.

Washington, D. C., July 18 [Special].—Sen. Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.] said in a radio address today that office of price administration meat ceilings are such that Chicago meat packers lost more that $15 apiece on each 1,000 pound beef slaughtered and dressed in their plants Friday.

The senator's talk was one of two attacks on government food policies delivered during the day by members of congress. Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins [R., Ohio], chairman of the Republican congressional food study committee, charged the resignation of Chester C. Davis as food administrator had been forced by President Roosevelt to thwart efforts of congress to bring food problems under unified control.

Pay 16 Cents a Pound.

Sen. Tydings told his radio audience that packers on Friday had to pay 16 cents a pound for choice beef steers and that the most that could be obtained for the meat, hide and by-products of a 1,000 pound animal under federal price ceilings was $145. He said he obtained his information from the OPA.

When put thru the packing plant to be slaughtered and dressed, a 1,000 pound steer comes out as 580 pounds of marketable meat, because approximately 420 pounds is lost in the dressing process, mainly in blood and hide, Tydings said.

The ceiling price on choice dressed beef is 22½ cents a pound, Tydings said, and 580 pounds sold at this figure will return the packer $130.50. He also gets about $14.50 from the hide and by-products, giving him a total return of $145, or $15 less than he paid for the animal, with nothing to compensate for production cost, according to the senator.

Independents Give Up.

He said this situation has caused hundreds of independent packers to go out of business, thus lessening the supply of beef for the markets. Fixing of prices straight thru from cattle raiser to consumer was suggested by Tydings as the only solution of the problem.

He listed the growing quantity of beef shipped abroad under lend-lease and the large consumption by the army and navy as additional factors in the meat shortage. He said beef shipments under lend-lease have amounted to 33,300,000 pounds in the first five months of 1943, comparing with 29½ million pounds in 1942 and 6 million pounds in 1941. At the present rate, 80 million pounds of beef will be given to foreign countries this year, he said.

Food for 10 Million More.

Because the nation's soldiers and sailors are consuming approximately twice as much beef as the amount they were in the habit of eating in civilian life, we are in effect feeding 10 million more people than we fed in the United States three years ago, Tydings reported.

Jenkins, in a statment, called the removal of Davis as food administrator as "almost a national calamity" and asserted the President's action came just when congress was ready to legislate Davis full powers over food. In place of Davis, Jenkins said, the President appointed a man [Marvin Jones] dominated by the White House and unacceptable to Republicans and Democrats alike.

"There would be no serious food shortage now except for the determination of the President and his advisers to keep the administration of all food matters under the direction of that mysterious coterie that compels every activity of government to bend toward the perpetuation of the New Deal dynasty," he said.

"Politics in All Activities."

"The impractical economic policies prescribed by the inexperienced intellectuals who administer the food activities of the government have been so inconsistent as to throw the whole thing into chaos. The persistent and obnoxious injection of politics by Harry Hopkins, Justice Felix Frankfurter, and Judge Rosenman into all governmental activities is evident thruout the whole food administration."

Jenkins blamed our serious food plight on "the destructive theories of Wallace [Vice President Henry A. Wallace] and Tugwell [Rexford Guy Tugwell, now governor of Puerto Rico]" and said the disastrous effects of the early New Deal scarcity policies could have been overcome if those in charge of food affairs had been frank and courageous enough to admit their mistakes.

BOSTON BOUND TRAIN RUNS OFF RAILS; 75 HURT

Nashua, N. H., July 18 (AP).—Seventy-five persons were injured today, nine seriously, as a Boston bound passenger train ran off the rails three miles south of this city.

The Boston and Maine railroad announced that the third car from the engine was the first derailed. It dragged six others with it down an embankment.

Doctors and nurses were sent in ambulances from Lowell, Mass., Manchester, and Nashua, but they were delayed by the inaccessibility of the wreck, which was a half mile in the woods from the nearest highway.

WIDOW FOUND DEAD.

Unseen by neighbors for two weeks, Mrs. Edna Apato, 50 years old, a widow, was found dead yesterday in her apartment at 3146 Harrison street.

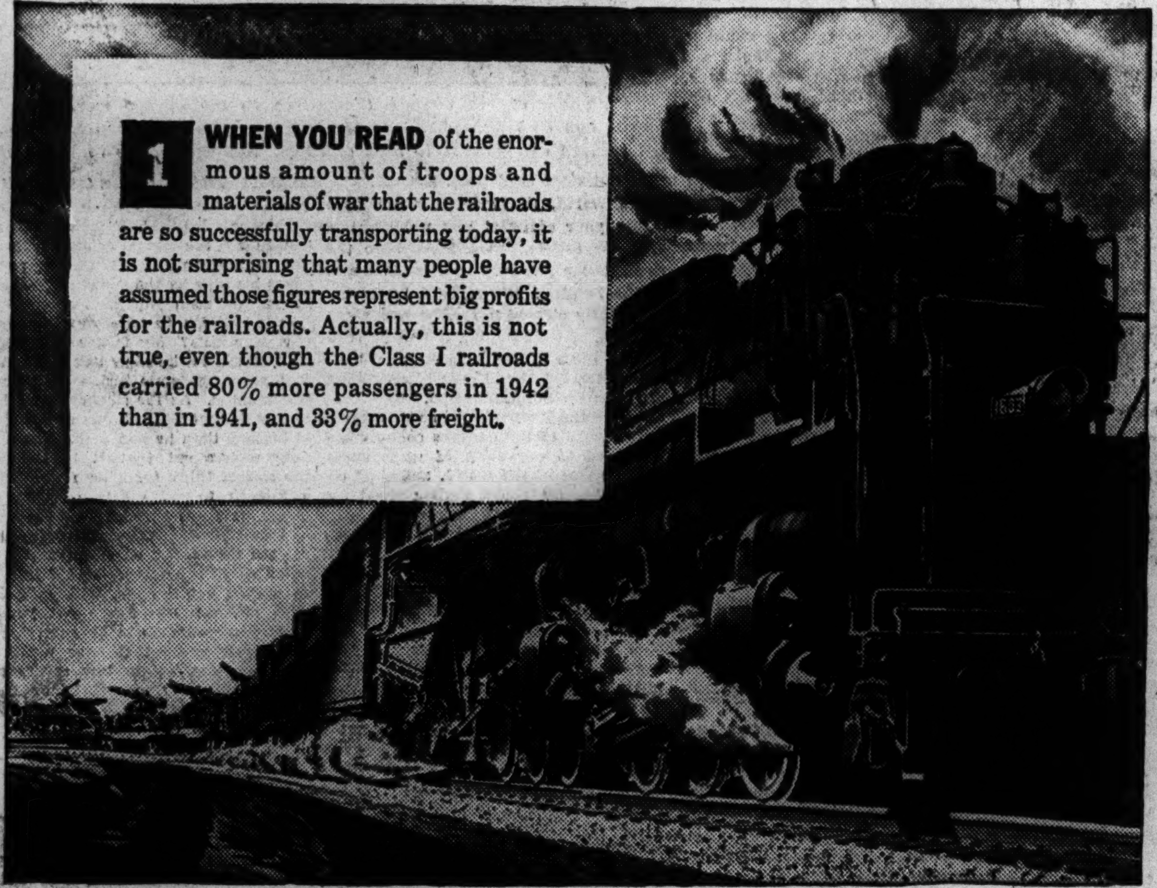
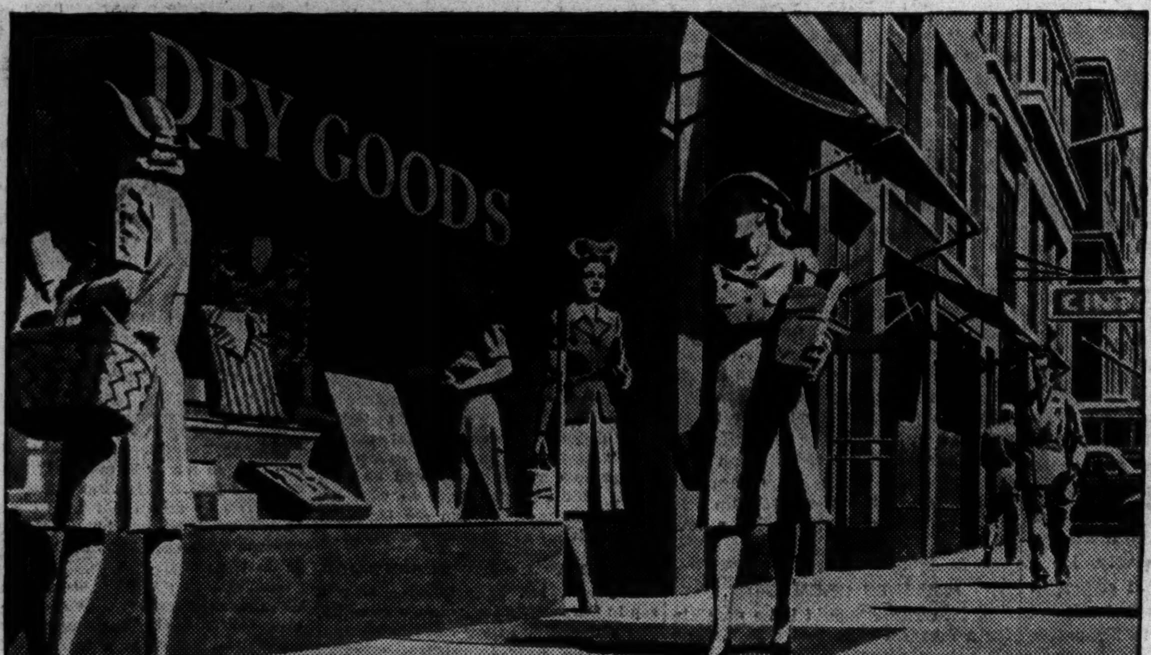
NO FINANCIAL CONSIDERATION HAS EVER BEEN PAID FOR AN ENDORSEMENT OF WARNER TREATMENT

AMERICA SHOULD KEEP ITS LIFELINES STRONG

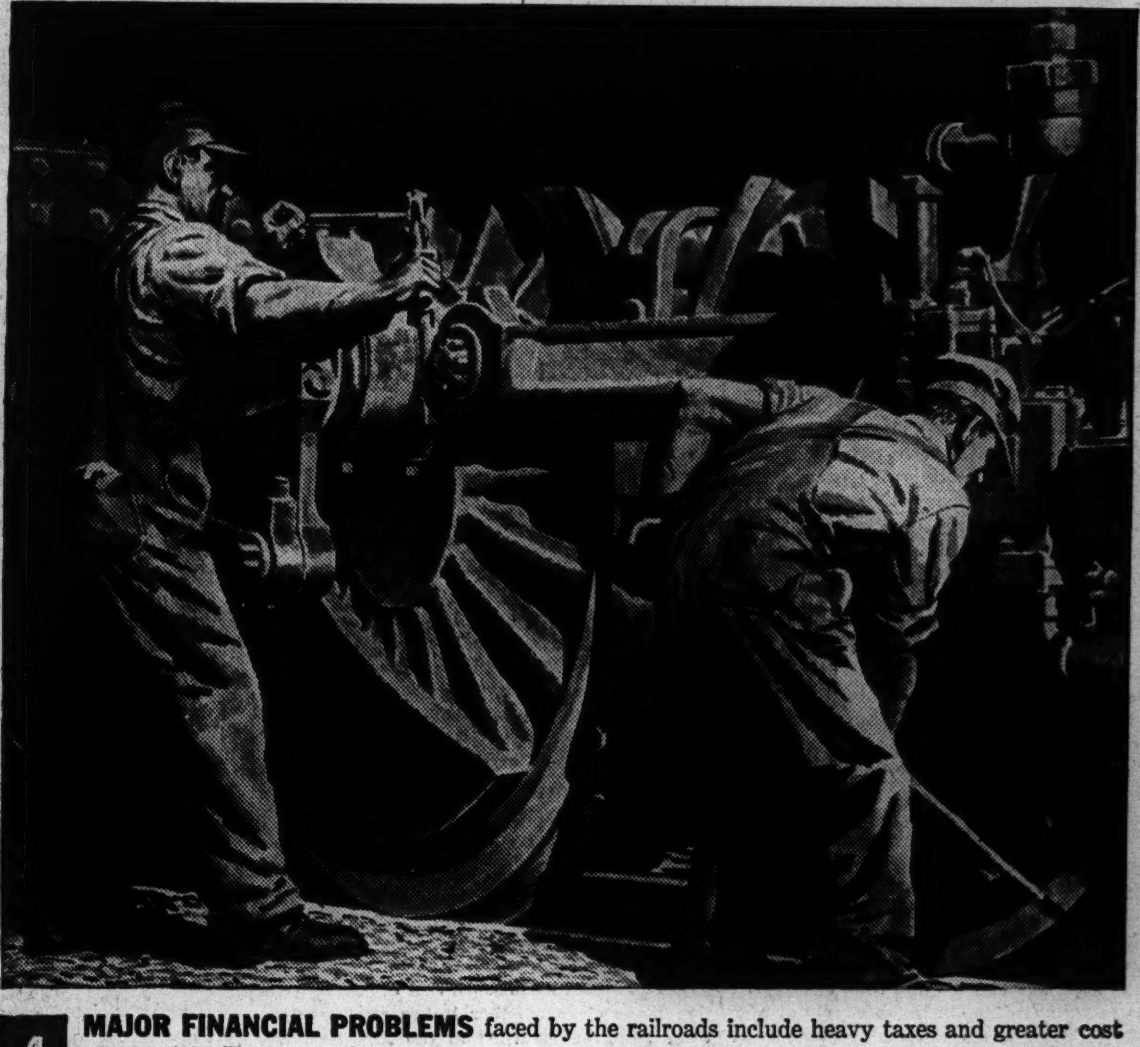


1 WHEN YOU READ of the enormous amount of troops and materials of war that the railroads are so successfully transporting today, it is not surprising that many people have assumed those figures represent big profits for the railroads. Actually, this is not true, even though the Class I railroads carried 80% more passengers in 1942 than in 1941, and 33% more freight.

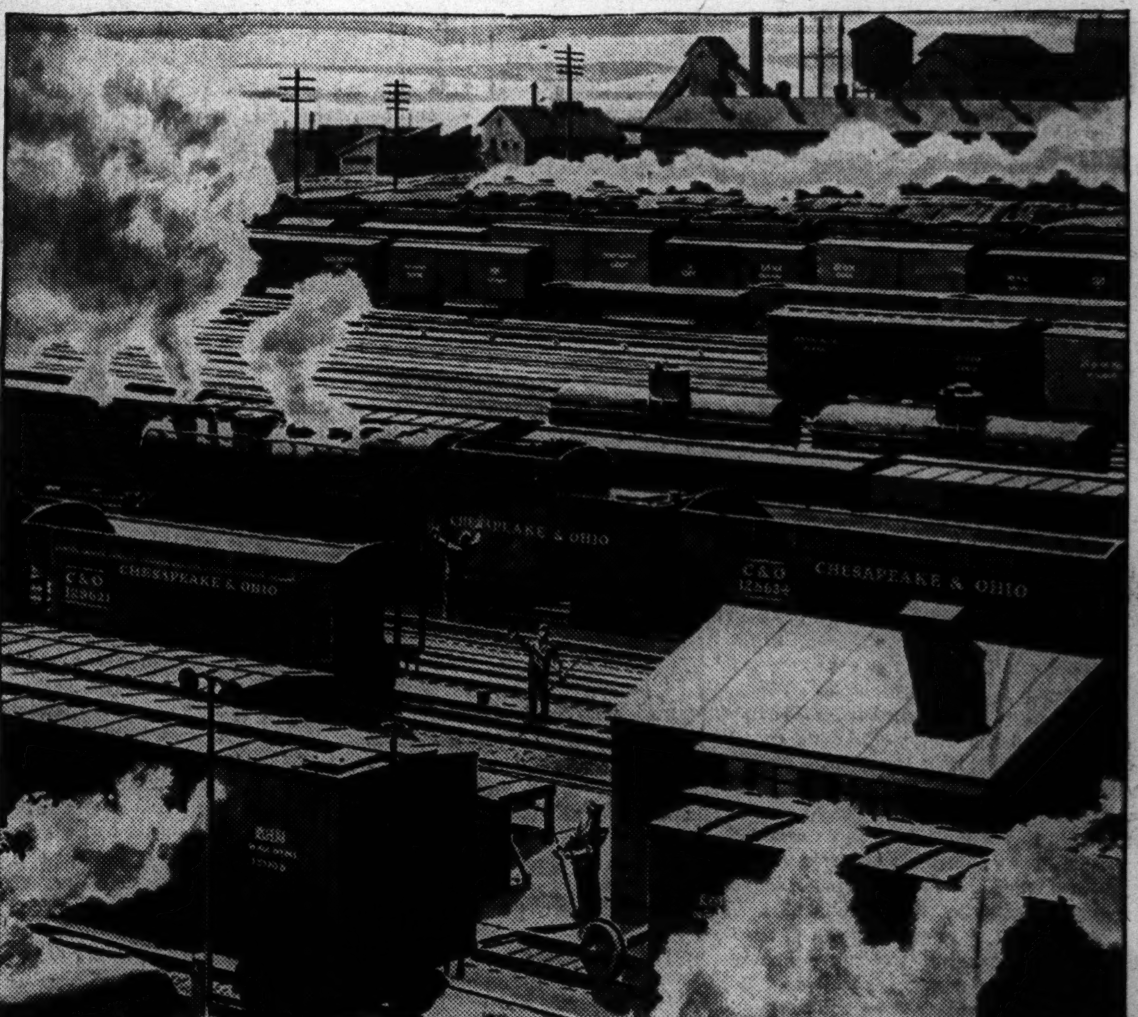


2 IT IS TRUE the railroads are earning more money today than they have in recent years, but for many years past they have been making far less than other businesses. Even in 1942, a peak year, earnings were only 5.56% on investment. And in the ten years ending with 1941, the average earnings were only a fraction over 2%. Many small businesses like the little retailer pictured above have, over the years, made much more money per dollar invested.

3 IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR the standard return fixed by the government for the railroads amounted to 5.21% on investment. Today the railroads are earning about 6%—a little more than they did in 1918. But they are carrying 24% more passengers and 55% more freight.



4 MAJOR FINANCIAL PROBLEMS faced by the railroads include heavy taxes and greater cost of materials. Equipment bears extra strain; the wheels pictured above travel more track in a week than they used to cover in a month. And rails and cars and engines are being used up at a rapid rate. Normal repairs cannot be made because of shortage of materials and man-power. Funds which should be put aside out of current earnings for making these repairs in the future are taxed as "profits."



5 WEAKENING OF THE RAILROADS would be a national calamity. They are our lifelines, the vital arteries of our industrial and commercial system. America must keep its railroads strong. Too much depends on them today, and will depend on them tomorrow, to risk the effects of any policy that would endanger what we now enjoy—the finest railroad service in the world.

PROSPECTS FOR FALL BUSINESS.

For the first half of the year sales of department stores over the country were 14 per cent larger than in the first half of 1942. This was a surprising performance when we recall with what positiveness government authority had asserted that there would be a marked decline.

These miscalculations appear to have cured the officials of guessing how sales in the second half of the year will compare with the same period a year ago. Storekeepers in the ordinary course of business have to make estimates of sales as a basis for buying policy and the present time is no exception. Private forecasting services have also made it a practice to indicate several times a year how active business was going to be in the ensuing period.

Several predictions about store sales in the next six months have been published. The New York Times about two weeks ago reported that "one of the largest retail organizations in the country, with stores in numerous cities, had worked out percentages of sales gains for the rest of the year." Every month, according to this anonymous authority, sales would be larger than in 1942, the margin being from 12 to 14 per cent. Last Monday Dow-Jones told its readers that "one of the largest department stores in Chicago" had determined that "it will have enough merchandise to show sales gains for the rest of the year which will be comparable with the gains to date." However, a prominent statistical service has just issued a report predicting that sales in July will be off 1 per cent, in August 11.5 per cent, and in September 18.7 per cent from the same months last year. At the height of the midsummer open season on business guessing those indulging in the sport can agree only that retail business isn't going to be the same in the next months as it was at the same time last year.

The important question is the supply of merchandise. There is unquestionably going to be less of many kinds of goods than there was last year. But that gets you nowhere, because inventories all year have been smaller than last year and sales have been larger. Dow-Jones found that stocks of goods of the department stores were from 10 to 40 per cent smaller than a year ago. In Chicago the federal reserve bank says that stocks of goods are off 27.5 per cent in a year, with sales greater than in 1942.

One explanation of the anomaly is that the stores have been selling off merchandise which isn't replaceable, but that isn't the whole story. The big sales gains are in the style merchandise departments and stocks there are considerably smaller than last year. Goods must be coming in all the time and moving out faster. The turnover is up. Dollar volume of women's and misses' clothing sold in Chicago in May was 51 per cent larger than a year ago, but the stores had smaller stocks on hand. The stores here sold 45 per cent more men's clothing in May than in the same month in 1942, but they did that with a smaller volume of merchandise on hand.

The point is that people with their pockets full of money which they are unable to spend for things they want most are buying other things. The rate of turnover is up. There are booming departments to offset the depressed departments. Thus women's ready-to-wear and house furnishings departments in the year ended April 30, 1942, represented 33.08 per cent of total Chicago department store sales. In the year ended April 30, 1943, these two departments accounted for 33.58 per cent of all sales. The ready-to-wear contribution is, of course, much bigger and the house furnishing contribution much smaller than last year.

There is every indication that there will be an increased amount of ready-to-wear merchandise produced in the next six months over last year. A leading manufacturer of men's clothing recently said that there was no shortage of men's clothing and that there would be none, tho we would have to be content with domestic woolens. Manufacturers of women's wear have been reported to be making deliveries of fall merchandise with unexpected promptness.

Thus, fall business should develop about as usual so far as volume is concerned. All that might mar such an outcome would be the development of hoarding of clothing on a large scale. Supplies are such that there is not the slightest need to hoard. However, if public officials persist in planting in the mind of the public the thought that rationing of apparel may be necessary if there is "overbuying," hoarding can hardly be averted. Every one will suspect everybody else of being a hoarder and will therefore seek to do his buying before the hoarders can reduce the supplies. We'll get along very well without such statements as that prepared by Arthur D. Whiteside, director of civilian supply of the war production board, and issued by Donald M. Nelson, WPB chief, last Thursday.

UNEMPLOYMENT TAX EXEMPTIONS.

The law says that philanthropic institutions do not have to pay unemployment insurance premiums. The American Medical association believed it was exempt and, accordingly, paid its unemployment taxes under protest. The referee who heard the testimony upheld the association but the finding has been reversed by the board of review of the state division of unemployment compensation.

Presumably the verdict will be tested in the courts and meanwhile we venture no opinion as to its validity. We are puzzled, however, about the reasons for the exemption provided in the law, and we think they ought to be reexamined.

Perhaps the lawmakers thought that employment in churches, hospitals, universities, etc., is so stable that their employes are in no need of protection against the loss of their jobs. Doubtless that is true of some of these institutions and not of others. Certainly there are many business establishments that give a high measure of security to employes without receiving exemption on that account.

Perhaps the theory was that the budgets of charitable institutions are already so strained that the payment of the tax would seriously impede their service to the community. Again that is no doubt true of some of them and not of others. Certainly nobody can pretend that the American Medical association, the American Bar association, the General Education board, or the Carnegie fund is less able to pay an unemployment tax on a janitor's wages than is some busted real estate promotion that does have to pay.

The personnel of religious institutions may present a special problem and require special treatment but we are inclined to think that the exemption as it now stands is much too broad.

LEND-LEASE AS FACT AND FICTION.

The London Weekly Tribune, a Socialist publication, urges that the theory of lend-lease be abandoned. It asserts it is out of date. Instead, it says, the United States should make outright gifts of food and war materials to its allies, in the form of contributions to a common pool "out of which gallant men of numerous nationalities are drawing in accordance with supernational strategic decisions to fight the enemy."

The presence of a large element of fraud in the expression "lend-lease" has been recognized from the moment that President Roosevelt coined it. The point was made clearly and repeatedly in the debate in congress. The absurdity of Great Britain, a food importing country, finding food after the war to replace that which the United States is shipping now, or of the United States finding a use for ammunition and bombs if the British should attempt to repay us in kind after the peace, was clearly seen.

But there are nonexpendable and partially expendable lend-lease items and they comprise the real problem. As regards them lend-lease is perfectly workable and, indeed, is the only equitable arrangement. The London editors hardly follow their question to its logical conclusion when they ask, "Why say America has lend-leased planes to British pilots instead of saying Britain has lend-leased pilots to American planes?"

The answer to that is that after the war we shall return the pilots to Britain and Britain will return the planes to us.

We are building scores of fighting ships that are manned by British crews against our common enemy, and an even larger number of merchantmen that are sailing under the British flag in the common effort. Several times in the past THE TRIBUNE has asked that the administration make clear whether it has specified that these ships be returned to the American flag after the peace. So far these questions have been evaded. Planes fall in the same category, altho our commercial air line operators doubt that bombers can be adapted to peace time use because of their high operating costs.

The London Weekly Tribune is half right. The lend-lease policy does need revision. Congress should make it its business, when it reconvenes, to wipe out Mr. Roosevelt's original airy generalities about "the silly old dollar sign," and place the plan on an understandable basis. It is only fair to our allies, as well as to our own people, that we make ourselves clear.

The rule can be a simple one. We shall continue, as we are now doing, to pour all our resources into the winning of the war. Items such as food, ammunition, and other expendable supplies, we can write off or write down according to a formula to be followed by all the allies. But whatever recoverable values that remain should belong to the nation that produced them.

That is only just. In the waging of this war we have already assumed the greatest debt to which any nation has subjected itself. That is only half of our contribution. We are depleting irreplaceable natural resources—to a dangerous extent, many of our technicians believe. That we should salvage what we can from our hundreds of billions of expenditures is only right. It is our duty to future generations of Americans, who must bear the burdens that we have created, to do so.

BLOOD WILL TELL.

[New York Times.]

When Karl Landsteiner received the Nobel prize in 1930 at Stockholm he responded modestly with a bow and the comment that he would let "the master of words" speak in his behalf. "You may call me a master of the word," said Sinclair Lewis, upon whom this compliment was bestowed, "but what is he? He has been in a thousand cases the master of death." It was true. For Landsteiner had been awarded the prize for his discovery that all human blood can be classified into four groups and that only when the blood of a donor matches that of a recipient can a transfusion be successful. At one stroke a master of biochemistry had shown why it was that transfusions sometimes succeeded, sometimes failed. Now we hear of paternity tests and of the use of blood in tracking criminals scientifically—forensic applications of a great discovery.

"Blood will tell" is an old saying. In Landsteiner's test tubes it told much. He taught serologists virtually all that they know about blood chemistry and with the teaching threw a flood of light on the mechanism of immunity. When a foreign protein or antigen is injected into the blood of an animal, substances [anti-bodies] are generated that repel the danger thus inaugurated. Landsteiner showed that the antigen reacts specifically with the anti-body, and thus explained why in so many bacterial diseases immunity is acquired. Allergists were at once able to devise tests for hay fever and other afflictions caused by the introduction of proteins into especially sensitive bodies. Such investigations led Landsteiner into many fields. He was the first, for instance, to transmit syphilis and infantile paralysis to monkeys—triumphs of experiment that opened new fields of research.

Only a man of his skill and profound chemical and medical knowledge could have scored these dramatic successes. Yet more than skill and knowledge were required. He had the imagination, the originality, the outlook that always distinguish great research. Some two hundred publications, all of outstanding importance, testify to the achievements of a great biochemist and stamp him as the very founder of immunology.

FOOTPRINTS IN THE DUST.

The coinage of Sicily's ancient Greek cities is famous for beauty of design, and it has been said that the medalist's art never reached a higher point. They are the envy and despair of modern mint masters, who are usually handicapped by requirements that overcrowd the space. Emil Zettler, Chicago sculptor and occasional medal designer [see his bronze piece for A Century of Progress], has formed a small collection of such coins for professional purposes. The finest examples of Greek coinage in Sicily were signed by their designers. Such men as Kimon and Euainetos, otherwise unknown, are regarded as high types of the Greek genius in art.

* * *

The tyrants of the Sicilian cities were Mussolini's forerunners, and their high-and-mighty behavior added many chapters to classic lore. One of them, Dionysius, attempted to deprive the world of Plato's influence. The philosopher had come to Syracuse by invitation and was highly honored until his liberal ideas enraged the tyrant. "What is your business in Sicily?" he asked, and Plato answered, "I came to seek an honest man." His friend Dion, the tyrant's brother-in-law, hastily smuggled him out of the country, but the voyage was hazardous because Dionysius tried to arrange for his assassination.

* * *

This might be a good year for a revival of "Sicilian Vespers" in the Chicago Opera season. It has music by Verdi and contains an aria associated with the Tetrazzini tradition. The bloodcurdling libretto is not out of line with present conditions in Europe. It deals with a rising of the Sicilian people, on Easter Monday, 1282, to massacre invading French troops.

THE UNRETURNING.

(Twenty-six of our bombers were reported missing.—News item.)

By hundreds they went over in dark o' the moon,
And stark Atlantic gale, and mist, and flying
Regions of cloud: a legion of wings whose tune
From turning props set all the heavens crying.

Wheeling in wide formation out where the fates
To no man's heartbeat proffer a moment's peace,
Lads out of England, Ireland, the United States,
Canada, Brittany, Poland, New Zealand, Greece—

Lads out of your land, my land, your town and mine,
Youths who were smiling, and careless, and eager-alive,
Knowing the skies even then concealed a sign
And the angry winds a warning: "Not all will survive!"

By hundreds now they return, in bright o' the dawn
And beauty of summer's colors on cliff and field,
Signaling city and hill: "We've victory for pawn,
And another star for civilization's shield!"

"But where are the crews, the six-and-twenty whose splendor Outspread in the moon beside your own went winging?"
"We only know they vanished, tho not in surrender—
We only know we shall miss their laughter and singing."

The Squires of Wicker Park.

The early Wicker Park story [June 23, 30] had its hectic political chapter as the hub of "Hertzville," which comprised several fast-sprouting northwest side wards, for a couple of decades the bailiwick of the Republican triumvirate—Hertz, Pease, and Lorimer. Its moving spirit, Henry L. Hertz, son of a Copenhagen inspector of police, made his entree in Chicago in the middle of the '70s.

After clerking, amateur acting in the Danish language, and running a cigar store, Hertz entered politics and quickly proved himself a master hand in the game. He twice carried the election for coroner, then the state treasurership. Later he was appointed internal revenue collector. During his years of political activity Hertz had his domicile on the Wicker Park stretch of Hoyne avenue.

Just across the street another emigrant from Denmark built his mansion about 50 years ago and, what's more, he still holds the fort there as one of the few remaining original Wicker Park pioneers. He is Peter Larsen, long ago retired office furniture manufacturer, now around 90 years of age but still hale and hearty. He is the possessor of perhaps the largest collection of oil paintings by Danish masters to be found in America, acquired during visits to his native country in earlier days. C. B.

An Old Problem Solved.

So I went out to Brookfield zoo and sat down to rest near the zebra's habitat and began diverting myself with the passing throng. It began when a sailor asked his girl if the zebra was a black animal with white stripes or a white animal with black stripes. A minute later a high school crowd brought up the problem, but no solution was reached. During the next 15 minutes, while my feet were recuperating, seven more visitors broached the subject. Just as I left, a gentleman pushing a baby buggy disposed of the matter by answering impatiently and brusquely:

"It's a black animal, of course!"

CONTROL RECTAL ITCHING BEFORE IT BECOMES CHRONIC.

OCCASIONAL itching in some part of the body is of daily occurrence with many. But when the symptom becomes so persistent that the individual is distracted, it is high time to do something about it.

This enemy of peace takes delight in exhibiting itself in the neighborhood of the bowel outlet [pruritus ani]. With a few, the difficulty will be more severe during the warmer season, possibly because perspiration serves as an additional irritant. With others, cold weather or a reduced number of calories aggravate the condition.

While trouble of this nature may arise from seat worms or the presence of a tiny crack in the mucous membrane, most authorities agree that diet is the most common cause. In other words, because of poor nutrition the intestine behaves badly. No longer can it fight off bacterial invaders. In consequence, irritating products of digestion upset the lining of this structure and bring on inflammation of the skin about the exit.

Clearly then we must stop the propagation of toxin producing germs within the lower bowel by means of proper feeding and rectal irrigations with a mild antiseptic solution. In addition, we may employ vaccines made from noxious organisms found in the discharges.

Not infrequently the disturbance can be ascribed to allergy. This is true especially with those who develop eczemalike eruptions on the hands, face, and scalp. In eight cases recently reported five men and three women consulted a physician for what they termed a "scaly complexion." Careful histories revealed that the dominant complaint was itching in the region of the fundament. All responded to the elimination of such articles as shellfish, strawberries, etc. Another patient obtained relief when the brand of lipstick was changed.

There are bacteria in the colon—plenty of them. But we are not supposed to entertain species which produce poisons and set up infection. Much can be done by changing the type of edibles in an effort to starve out the "bugs."

A simple plan involves a breakfast which consists solely of fresh, uncooked fruits, buttermilk, and unsweetened coffee. The noon lunch is largely starch derived from vegetables. It is composed of vegetable soup without meat or grease, raw vegetable salad, one or two cooked vegetables, and buttermilk. The effect of the beverage is to supply lactic acid, which is helpful in correcting alkalinity. This in itself will discourage the growth of numerous microbes which thrive only in this environment.

Dinner is rich in protein and the soup may contain meat but no flour thickening. A generous helping of lean beef, lamb, or fowl may be served. Two or more fresh cooked vegetables, green salad, and fresh uncooked fruit may be included.

Such a program for two or three weeks may abate the putrefactive character of the stools. Soon discomfort will begin to disappear, particularly if the rectum is cleansed now and then with a low enema.

WE CAN SEE THE LIGHT.

Kenilworth, Ill., July 14.—Two days before your editorial was published, I read the article, "We Must Face the Facts About Russia," by Max Eastman in the Reader's Digest, and I was exceptionally pleased to see a commentary about it. Here's hoping it will be read by all those gullible souls who have been deceived by the white-washing policy of the administration.

Before the Russo-German war, people were awake to the dangers communism presented to our form of government and the rest of the world, and they realized that the soviet regime stood for mass murder in the form of purges, liquidation of the kulaks, and the arrest, death, or imprisonment for every kind of political opposition. But now, thru one of the many freaks of war, the U. S. S. R. has been thrown in the allied camp, and the trend of our foreign policy has been reversed.

Roosevelt and his associates seem to feel that any criticism of communism or its leaders would only lead to dissension among the allies, and as a result have given Joe Stalin and the soviet system a buildup like a Hollywood glamor boy. "Representatives" of the American people, in the persons of Davies and Willkie, were sent to get the inside dope on Russia at war. Willkie interviewed scores of what he thought were typical people and Davies was feasted on caviar by the commissars in Moscow, who persuaded him that Russia only wanted to live in peace and that the government wasn't even associated with the Communist parties in other countries. This was the one-sided, official viewpoint Stalin wanted them to get.

Mr. Willkie and Mr. Davies couldn't interview the 10 millions in concentration camps or the kulaks who were liquidated by the millions, or the 300,000 "traitors" who were slaughtered in the three purges. These people would have been only too glad to volunteer quite a bit of information if they had been able to. All that remained in the U. S. S. R. was the official viewpoint; no other existed.

If we can only make the administration realize that the American people can't be fooled for long maybe they'll start to give us a few facts instead of trying to pull the wool over our eyes with disgustingly sentimental movies like "Mission to Moscow." Then the danger to our democracy will be lessened. But we don't have to wait for our government; we can see the light by ourselves. PHILIP PETERSEN.

DOESN'T WANT JAP IN SON'S JOB.

Dubuque, Ia., July 14.—We have a son in the navy, a son an air corp cadet, and a daughter in the army, all volunteers. Our navy son, before entering the service was employed by his father as a laboratory technician.

A few days ago his father received a letter saying that the government requested laboratories to hire Jap technicians and would he be interested? He not only was not interested but was highly indignant.

I don't think any greater insult could be offered a father whose son is serving in the branch of our service that suffered so much at the hands of the Japs at Pearl Harbor than to ask that that son be replaced by a Jap.

If these Japs are American born why aren't they in uniform? If the government can't trust them how can they expect citizens to trust them?

BEWILDERED MOTHER.

WHY THEIR MONEY WAS IN THE BOX.

Chicago, July 16.—"Childish" and "slacker" are not very fair terms to use promiscuously. When a person earns his way by the sweat of his brow, he resents such words. For instance:

Is it childish to save your money to pay your bills? My father had $640 in his Portage Park safety box to pay bills that are coming up inside of the next few months. As for slacker, all I have to say is that he had more war bonds in his box than he had cash. You probably understand that it isn't always the easiest thing for a man working in a factory to get off to cash in war bonds, it takes time away from work, and at the same time you get docked for the time taken off from work. And when times are as they are, father has to work six full days, with only Sundays off, you can figure out yourself what you would do in his case.

At least you might have mentioned the fact that as no law covers such situations, any Tom, Dick, or Harry can start a safety vault company without any permission from the state.

ETTIE ERICKSON.

THEY DON'T APPRECIATE KINDNESS.

Hammond, Ind., July 16.—To me this just doesn't make sense:

Headlines read: "Five American prisoners die in Japanese prison camp." It wasn't from old age, we all know.

"German prisoners in America to build swimming pool. Prisoner asked for canary and received it."

Our boys who are prisoners would probably welcome a bath once a month in Germany, or wherever they are kept.

It's time we cut out all this foolishness. The men in prison camps here may have helped in killing your boy or dear friend. If a swimming pool is to be built there are plenty of underprivileged children in this country who could use it.

Kindness does not fit into our barbarian foes' vocabulary, so let's cut it out of ours as far as they are concerned. They probably laugh up their sleeves at our "dumkopfs."

DISGUSTED.

'TWAS A HOT DAY.

Chicago, July 14.—Where is the shortage of man power in our city? Not on city paid jobs, but in vital defense jobs; yet the city sees the need to employ 10 men to dig a small hole in the street, when it takes only two able bodied men to do the work!

As I passed one of these mud holes, three were around the job, while the others were passing the time of day, because it was hot, in a tavern.

The gang I have in mind is of the city of Chicago water pipe extension, working in the Gage park district.

INJUSTICE IN THE SYMPHONY.

Chicago, July 15.—In last Sunday's Voice of the People appeared a letter from Mr. John Merryweather, professed believer in fair play, who objected to the criticism of the new conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

If he shared the viewpoint of many hundreds of concert-goers, he would also see the rank injustice to Hans Lange, who for several years collaborated with and relieved Dr. Stock and who carried last season to a successful conclusion almost single-handed, when a man of no greater ability or prominence was placed above him.

If the management had engaged some one like Stokowski, Barbirolli, Sir Thomas Beecham, or Bruno Walter as Dr. Stock's successor, hardly any one would complain. Probably none would complain if Desire Defauw had been appointed associate conductor.

L. G. BENEDICT.

A WASTE OF COUPONS.

Chicago, July 16.—I was amused to read in this morning's TRIBUNE that a former member of the Chicago Symphony orchestra thinks your brilliant music critic, Miss Cassidy, has "no understanding of what environment, temperature, humidity, and insects can do to any players playing outdoor concerts, nor does she know what humidity does to the strings and bows of the string section."

If these are the real causes of a mediocre concert why have one at all? Or if we must have a mediocre one, why charge admission prices? I am one of many who have also wasted several precious "A" gas coupons to hear some very mediocre music.

PHOTOS AS EVIDENCE.

Chicago, July 15.—The editorial in today's issue of THE TRIBUNE entitled "They caught the slapper," not only reflected the sentiments of a multitude, but also suggests a method of furnishing primary evidence which should be more frequently employed.

If "the slapper" and other Detroit rioters had anticipated the presence of an alert press photographer, they probably would have been less inclined to disregard law and order. Such photography may serve as a crime deterrent as well as a medium for conviction.

TAX ON SERVICE CHARGE.

Chicago, July 10.—[Legal Friend of the People].—I live in an apartment hotel where there is a service charge of $1 for the telephone. I pay 5 cents for each telephone call I make and at the end of the month I am charged a federal tax of 10 per cent on the combined $1 service charge and the amount of calls I have made. Is the hotel right in charging the 10 per cent on the service charge for which I am entitled to no calls? J. S.

BARRETT WARNS OF BLOW AT U. S. IN 'SUPER WORLD'

Attacks "Racketeers" in Peace Movement.

The United States will "be embroiled in every quarrel on the face of the earth" if the plans of advocates of a super-world government are adopted, Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett warned yesterday. He spoke at the 35th annual outing of the Swedish Societies' Old People's Home association at Pioneer road and Grant street, Evanston.

"Since Pearl Harbor," the attorney general said, "a horde of self-ordained rescuers of mankind have descended upon us. Of these, 10 per cent are sincere and 90 per cent are racketeers. Those who are sincere are honestly striving for some method of attaining world peace. The rest are 'One Worlders,' the 'Union with Britain Nowers,' the 'Super-World Government' advocates, and the 'World Policers.'"

Schemes Harm U. S., He Says.

Barrett charged that the schemes of the latter group—those he termed "racketeers"—demand and envision the sacrifice of American integrity as a nation.

"They dream of the time when we shall have a super world state," he declared. "They forget, or at least they fail to mention, that we shall then be subjected to the whims and caprices of all of our international associates. They forget, or at least they fail to mention, that if their dream comes true we shall then participate and be embroiled in every quarrel on the face of the earth."

Barrett listed four national goals toward which the people of the country should direct their efforts. They were:

1. Win the war at all costs and notwithstanding all sacrifices.

2. Insure the continuation of our national integrity and national institutions.

Urges Peace Time Plan.

3. Plan for the day when those in our armed forces will return to take their places in a peace time economy.

4. Coöperate for a durable and lasting peace.

"No one will dispute the necessity for winning the war, because if it is not won, then all is lost," the attorney general said. "If we win the war and lose our national integrity and institutions, then all is lost. Further, we cannot afford to let men and women now in the army and navy return to disappointment."

Barrett told his audience that they or their forefathers and millions of others had emigrated from the old world to escape the despotism and wars of Europe.

"Freedom and Opportunity."

"America gave those peoples the hope and the promise of freedom and opportunity," he declared, adding that the war and the peace must be won to preserve those qualities of the United States.

Carl Sandburg, poet, also spoke, praising the contributions of Swedish-Americans in the building of the middle west. Other speakers were Mayor S. G. Ingraham of Evanston, F. Gilbert Anderson, chairman of the home's board of directors, and John W. Ogren, president of the association. E. Einar Anderson, editor of the Swedish American Tribune, addressed the group in Swedish.

More than 20,000 attended the outing. Refreshments and entertainment by the Chicago Swedish Glee club were included on the program.

CHICAGO POLES RAISE $10,000 FOR WOUNDED HERO

The courage of Bronislaw Godlewski Jr. in beating off six Nazi fighter planes in a raid on Essen, Germany, March 5, found a response in the Polish citizenry of Chicago. For Godlewski, the turret gunner who lost his hands in the night fight when 100 bullets splintered his plane's turret, is to be given a fund which has passed the $10,000 mark. The Godlewski family, 2048 Shakespeare avenue, hears frequently from their son, who joined the Polish army when Hitler attacked Poland. He is expected home from a British hospital in the fall, when the fund will be presented to him. Neighbors, parishioners of St. Hedwig's church, have held socials and picnics thruout Polish neighborhoods to raise the money, which is in custody of the Polish National alliance.

Undersea War Told by Comdr. Spanides.

The heroic tales of ancient Greece were given a modern counterpart last night when Comdr. Thanos Spanides, submarine hero of the royal Hellenic navy, related his story of the war to 3,000 men and women of Greek birth and descent in the Morrison hotel.

Comdr. Spanides.

Comdr. Spanides told of the sinking of Italian warships and of the destruction of the trans-Atlantic liner Sardinia. It was sunk by a torpedo off Albania early in the Greek-Italian war, Comdr. Spanides said, with the loss of most of the Italian "Wolves of Tuscany" division.

"The remainder of the division surrendered to the Greek land forces," he said.

As commander of the submarine Papanicoles and later the Katonis, Comdr. Spanides is acclaimed by all Greeks as their outstanding hero of the war. He is credited with sinking 17 axis vessels.

Comdr. Spanides said any submarine can operate in the Mediterranean but he acknowledged the Adriatic is more difficult because of the clear water and rugged coastlines.

He scoffed at the Italian navy, declaring that Premier Mussolini's 130 submarines could not hunt out the Greek merchant craft because of the skill of the small Grecian submarine and destroyer forces.

Comdr. Pyrros Lappas, also of the Greek navy, told of its exploits in the seas off Java, saying the Greeks had sent naval units to join their allies in all the seas.

A famed guerrilla song of ancient Greeks was the theme for the throng, the audience cheering most the cry of Comdr. Lappas that "We shall not quit the war until the flag of Greece again flies over the Acropolis!"

NEGROES URGE F. D. R. TO STOP SOLDIER 'RIOTS'

Representatives of the National Negro Council and the Chicago Citizens' Committee of 1,000, in a meeting yesterday at the Metropolitan Community church at 4100 South Parkway, adopted resolutions calling on President Roosevelt to halt "riotings and disorders" involving American soldiers. Earl B. Dickerson, former member of the fair employment practices committee, told the group that the activities of the committee, which was set up to assure equal employment opportunities for Negroes, were sabotaged by the government's refusal to stand behind the committee and its decisions.

Police Hunt for Owner of Dog That Bit Child

A woman and her Boston terrier, which bit a south side child Saturday night, were being sought by Burnside police last night after it was discovered the woman had given a false address. The child, Leslie Wyman, 20 months old, 1114 East 86th street, was in a stroller when the dog jumped on him. The woman leading the dog told Leslie's mother, Mrs. Margaret Wyman, that she was Mrs. G. O. Stag, 8437 Drexel avenue. Police found the address to be a vacant lot. The child was given an anti-tetanus injection.

AERIAL WARFARE BRINGS NEED FOR DIFFERENT GUNS

Those at Tribune Exhibit Pack Mighty Wallop.

Aerial warfare has introduced a new type of firepower—guns for planes against ground targets, for ground positions against planes, and for planes against planes.

So far there are four basic weapons: the .50 caliber machine gun, the 20 millimeter cannon, the 40 millimeter anti-aircraft gun, and the 90 millimeter anti-aircraft gun. All are on display at the army ordnance show now being presented in Tribune Square.

Range Is 7 Miles.

They pack a tremendous wallop. The biggest of the four—the 90 millimeter gun—will bring down a plane flying seven miles overhead, so high that the naked eye can't see it. The 24 pound projectile doesn't even have to hit the craft. If it explodes within 50 yards, the plane will probably be dropped by concussion and shrapnel.

A 17 man crew, using automatic direction finders but hoisting in the shells by hand, can fire 17 shells per minute. An expert crew may bring the shots up to 20—one every three seconds. An automatic gadget which opens the 130 pound breech block makes the rapid fire possible; if the heavy block had to be moved by hand, the crew would be exhausted within a few minutes.

The 40 millimeter gun, which looks like an overgrown Pilgrim blunderbus with the funnel snout of its barrel, is used mainly against low flying planes and dive bombers. Fired automatically, it can hurl 120 projectiles every minute. The projectile, weighing more than a pound and a half, explodes when it hits an object. Should it miss the plane, it explodes in seven seconds.

Planes Difficult to Hit.

"It's really quite a job to hit a plane," said an ordnance officer explaining the gun's operation to a show crowd yesterday. "If the plane is only 1,000 yards away, we have to fire 10 plane lengths ahead of it."

Pilots of planes equipped with 20 millimeter cannon habitually report that a hit will blow up an enemy. The shell is only a little more than three-fourths of an inch in diameter, but the cannon will spit 600 of them a minute and any one that hits will tear an eight inch hole in heavy sheet steel. The striking force of the cannon is so great that the recoil, when the gun is being fired, will slow down a speedy fighter plane by 50 miles an hour.

Baby weapon is the .50 caliber machine gun. It's bullet is only a half inch in diameter, but every time one is fired—and the gun operates at a rate of 850 shots per minute—the recoil is equal to a five ton weight. At the other end the striking force is sufficient to send the bullet thru armor a half inch thick.

CHICAGO'S FIRST 'FLYING BOXCAR' TO SOAR JULY 30

Hop to Mark Douglas Plant Christening.

The first Chicago built "flying boxcar" will make its initial flight July 30, from the 33 million dollar Douglas Aircraft company plant, three miles southwest of Park Ridge, the company and the army air forces announced yesterday.

The four engine plane is a C-54 Skymaster, largest plane in full scale production in the United States, bigger even than the Flying Fortresses or the Liberator bombers. The Skymaster's wing spread is 125 feet, 13 feet more than that of the Fortress.

The Skymaster was developed by commercial aviation firms as a luxury passenger liner but has been converted into a cargo ship. Capable of carrying 15 tons of equipment or 50 fully equipped soldiers, the plane's fuselage is as roomy as a railroad car, earning the craft its nickname.

Work on the huge plant, said by the company to be the largest of timber construction in the world, began less than a year ago. Ground for the main manufacturing building was broken only 10 months ago. The plant was designed and tooled to produce only Skymasters, but these in great numbers.

The company revealed yesterday some statistics on the size of its plant. Buildings used enough lumber for 4,500 homes, enough concrete for 5,000 homes, enough glass for 2,500 homes. The concrete that went into the five miles of runways built on the 1,600 acre site is enough for 25 miles of highway. Nine miles of railroad lines serve the buildings. If built of steel instead of timber, the buildings would have required enough metal to build a 30,000 ton battleship.

John D. Weaver, manager of the Chicago plant, said the first plane would be ready for flight within a year after construction began only because production began as soon as the first building—a garage—was completed.

Weaver said the plant will be dedicated at 5 p. m. July 30 when the first Skymaster is christened.

"The Spanish Lady"

By Maurice Walsh

Copyright: 1943: by Maurice Walsh

SYNOPSIS: Diego Usted, whose father was Spanish and whose mother Scotch, comes from his Commando duties to Glen Affran in the Scottish Hightlands thinking he has but a few months to live. But instead of dying, his health improves under the care of his Uncle Hamish and Aunt Ellen McLeod. Hamish is head forester for Gen. Harper, rich and old, but married to a beautiful young Spanish woman, Ann. The general's brother, Maj. Arthur, and Arthur's children, Charles and Henrietta, live at Lodge Affran with the general and Ann. It is understood that Henrietta will some day marry Diego's cousin, Larry McLeod. Diego and Ann fall in love, but Ann says she will never be unfaithful to her husband. Diego decides to leave the glen, and, after a physical checkup, is ordered back to his Commando duties. Before reporting, he returns to the glen and finds everything in a turmoil. Gen. Harper has summoned his lawyer, Ewan McInnes, to break the inheritance law concerning his property so he can sell and clear out of the glen. Maj. Harper, rightful heir, and young Charles refuse to sign the entail-breaking papers, and the general orders his brother and children from his home. When Ann takes up for them, he accuses her of many lovers and she kicks him. Diego makes a date with Ann to meet at Skene rock, and when he arrives she is standing over her husband with a rifle in her hand. He has been shot dead. Diego, thinking Ann killed him, wipes the gun free of her fingerprints, hoping he can make it appear suicide. But Maj. Arthur comes upon them and accuses them as murderer and accomplice. Diego fights him and makes him leave, but Ann, afraid of prison, insists they hide. They go to Donald Gunn's cottage.

INSTALMENT XXV.

ANCIENT HIDEOUT.

Ann clung to Donald's hands. "But I have fear, Donald. It is life that I am afraid of. The fault was in my own mind, playing with foolish dreams, so sinful, and now I am punished. Now there is nothing—nothing."

She paused and went on. "Donald, you must give me time. I was wicked back there talking of death, but now I only want time to think to hide in a corner for a little while, but with no bars."

Her mind was wholly possessed with this need to hide herself away. Donald saw that now, and Diego had had no need to give his anger a rein. The old man led her back to the couch.

"There is no cause for you to hide, my darling," he soothed her, "but I know a place where you will be safe."

"But Don Diego, he must hide, too."

"His is the need to hide."

"That is so. If he is caught—no! No! I do not know Don Diego at all, Donald, and I was so certain that I did."

"So was I certain," said Donald.

Again Diego felt a spurt of anger. He had shown forces bringing this woman over the hill against her flesh and spirit, but that should not have freightened her. He had not killed any one, and she had. He spoke hotly.

"If you two would leave this Usted—"

The phone bell shrilled on the wall. Ann sat up with a jerk, screamed, put her hand over her mouth and started to laugh. Diego was angry no longer. In a stride he was at her side. He slapped her briskly on the cheek, and she caught his hand and clung tightly to it; she choked and gurgled, and Diego sat down by her and put his free hand firmly around her shoulders. She quieted then, gasping for breath, and leaned against him. He felt her trembling, and knew that her nerves were gone. Donald was at the telephone, his voice low and cautious.

"Donald Gunn speaking. . . . Yes, Big Ellen . . . yes, both . . . uh-uh . . . you think so . . . I have the place. . . . Is Hamish about? . . . Eh, what? . . . I do understand . . . Long John, no, I didn't see him . . . in the morning? Right!"

He hung up the phone. "Big Ellen. She knows you are here—both of you. She wants you to stay out of the way all day tomorrow—and you, Don Diego, are to take care of Mistress Ann."

"You think I am not doing that?" Diego's heart lifted.

"I do not know what to think." Donald looked at Diego. "She wants to know where Long John is. You did not see him about any place today?"

He nodded. "You wouldn't. He'll be with Hamish who is not home yet." His tired eyes went over his mistress. "Mistress Ann, would you be able for another two miles—no hard climbing at all?"

"To the world's end, Donald, if I know where I am going." She got up from Diego's side.

"You are going to the safest hidie-hole in all Scotland."

"I am ready," said Ann.

They left the bothy in 15 minutes. Donald Gunn went ahead; Ann followed; and Diego brought up the rear. Diego's legs were numb from the knees down. Strapped over his shoulders were two blankets folded in two tarten rugs. Donald carried an unlighted storm lantern and a heavy game bag, and the game bag contained a day's ration. Ann Harper traveled light and she needed no help. That strange weariness, that was from the spirit, was gone, and her hill-woman's legs had recovered some of their resiliency.

Donald lit the storm lantern when they got into the darkness of the gorge of Garbh Ailt. Some distance on he turned off the track and led over bare stone and round the belly of a rock on the bank of the torrent running fast and torn 10 feet below. And, there in the angle the lantern showed a footbridge going a dozen feet across at a steep upward slant. It was only a single plant with a strand of wire for guard.

"We cross here," said Donald. "Watch your step." He went across in four easy strides, taking the sway of the plank expertly.

Diego put his hand on Ann's arm, but she threw his hand off and ran so lightly across that the plank barely swayed to the easy lift of the body. Diego went across dourly, gripping the wire hard, his stomach heaving with the sickening sway under his feet.

"When that big plank is lifted and hidden away," Donald said, "there is no way up or down to get this side of the Garbh Ailt except by jumping—and it hasn't been jumped yet."

He led on up a rough path between the cliff and turned left into the narrow mouth of a defile going into the very jaws of the mountains. They went carefully now, picking their steps, but not for more than a hundred yards. At a fault in the right wall of the gorge Donald swung his lantern.

"I made one or two of the steps myself," Donald said. "It is easy and not far."

They clambered up after him. He turned a corner and stopped by a stunted mountain ash growing out of a cranny.

"Myself planted this rowan," he said. "You will see why."

He pulled a low branch aside. There was a rift in the rock wide enough to carry his stooped shoulders. Donald disappeared thru it, and, Ann and Diego followed in a crouch. The tilt was upwards and steep, but only for a few feet, then it flattened out and the rift opened into a small cavern not more than 20 feet by 10.

"This is the place," Donald said. "You will not be found here, but even if any one comes at you from below there are break-offs higher up to hide in." He swung his lantern about. "This was in use one time, not in my time, nor my grandfather's time. Indeed, this could be one of the places where Prince Charlie hid after Culloden. The prince moved far and wide over the highlands, 30,000 pounds on his head, and no one sold him. Ay! And what was done once might be done again, and easier done."

Was Donald hinting that an escape was possible? The game was still on the board.

"Look!" Donald lifted his lantern, hung it on the tine of an antler wedged into a crack, and hung his game bag on another. "That is old—very old. The cave is bone dry and nothing rots. Could be Prince Charlie slept in that bed." Close to one of the sloping-in walls on a low sheef, was a pile of what had been pine fronds and bracken. Donald moved across and tried it with a hand.

"Has a spring to it yet." He reached for Diego's bundle, shook it loose, and spread one of the rugs on the pile. "You can have a rest any time you've a mind, Mistress Ann—you'll need it."

Below the rift cut into the solid rock was a fireplace with low side walls of stone on which a big pot might rest.

"They were there when I came on this place. I tried a couple o' divots of peat in it myself and the smoke went up like a puff."

"You found this place?" Diego asked him.

"I was looking for a place like it." He smiled with some diffidence. "I'll no' be denying some of us run a small industry of our own in our own hills, same as our forefathers time out of mind. Only five or six of us know, but sometimes a body gets to know that shouldn't, and then a new place has to be looked out. That has happened only once in my time and my father's time, for there are not many who would betray, and then only by a careless word or boast at fair or gathering. But always we have a second place looked out. This is our second place, and only Hamish and I know of it—and now you. So you are safe in it, and that is what I am pointing out, Mistress Ann. Well—well! I'll be leaving you to rest. I will be back in the morning. You need have no fear, for the glen is taking care of you."

CONVICT KILLED, GUARD STABBED IN PRISON BREAK

Salem, Ore., July 18 (AP).—One convict was killed and a guard was seriously injured today in an attempt by two convicts to escape from the state penitentiary.

Warden George Alexander said the man killed was Lloyd Hougham, 22, who was serving five years for auto theft.

The injured guard, Sol Warden, was stabbed several times by Hougham and Albert Doojin, 31, serving 25 years for an attempted holdup, after they had seized him and attempted to force their way past the gates with him as a hostage.

As the convicts started toward the gate, Bert Dunham, a guard on the wall, ordered them to halt. When the pair stabbed the guard Dunham fired, killing Hougham. Doolin surrendered.

HEARING TO LIFT MYSTERY OF RICH MINER'S SLAYING

Son-in-Law Will Face Nassau Court Today.

NASSAU, Bahamas, July 18 (AP).—Some of the mystery surrounding the slaying of Harry Oakes, wealthy American born gold miner who amassed a fortune in the fields of Ontario, Canada, will be removed tomorrow during a magistrate's hearing for the son-in-law, who is accused of murder.

Alfred de Marigny

Alfred de Marigny, 35 years old, whose marriage to 19 year old Nancy Oakes was viewed with disfavor by her father, is to be brought before Magistrate F. E. Field for a hearing in which the government must lay all its evidence on the table.

This is required under English procedure, altho the defense is under no compulsion to reply and a defendant seldom gives testimony at such a hearing, termed here a "preliminary investigation." If the government proves its charges to the magistrate's satisfaction, the defendant is bound over to the Supreme court for trial.

Body Found in Bed.

All the public knows definitely about Oakes' death is that his body was found in a partly burned bed at his home, Westbourne, on July 8 with four head wounds and burns. Three of the four blows with "a heavy instrument" had caused fractures. Additionally, it was reported, the death weapon caused puncture wounds that at first led to a belief that Oakes, who was a baronet, had been shot as well as beaten.

Harold G. Christie, a close friend and business associate, came upon the body when he investigated to see why Oakes had not come to breakfast. A powerful electric fan was turned toward the bed, and apparently had blown the flames to one side and finally extinguished them.

Capt. E. W. Melchen and Capt. James O. Barker, Miami, Fla., homicide and identification experts, called to Nassau by Gov. Edward Windsor to assist in the investigation, will be on hand for the hearing. They reported that De Marigny's arrest resulted from finger prints, hair analysis, and interrogation. No motive has been suggested publicly.

Denies Slaying.

De Marigny, who is held in prison pending the hearing, has denied any connection with the death of his father-in-law.

Some Nassau residents declared that Oakes, unhappy over his daughter's marriage, was preparing to leave Nassau, prehaps never to return, when he was slain. Mrs. Oakes was at Bar Harbor, Me., where Mrs. De Marigny joined her upon news of his death. Oakes had a reservation on Pan American Airways for a flight to Miami on the day following his death.

CHILD, 3, BEATEN AND LEFT ALONE; PARENTS SEIZED

George Stewart, 26 years old, and his wife, Cecilia, 19, were held yesterday on charges of assault and battery and disorderly conduct after police on Saturday night found their son, George Jr., 3, alone and screaming in the couple's apartment at 2222 Orchard street. Complaints of neighbors led to the investigation by Policemen Martin Barrett and Francis Eckert, who seized the couple a short distance from their home and took them and the child to the Hudson avenue police station. Police said the couple admitted beating the child that day, Mrs. Stewart using a pancake turner.

DETECTIVE NABS THEFT SUSPECT WHILE OFF DUTY

Catching thieves is a full time job for Sgt. Timothy O'Connell of the detective bureau robbery detail. Tho off duty, Sgt. O'Connell arrested Paul Pavur, 23 years old, 1926 South Racine avenue, who, O'Connell said, confessed stealing two cartons of dresses from the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy railroad warehouse at 16th street and Union avenue. O'Connell was driving to the W-G-N Theater of the Air Saturday night, when, at 16th and Halsted streets, he sighted a man carrying two large cartons. Suspicious, O'Connell halted him, but the man dropped the packages and ran. O'Connell overhauled him, learned the cartons contained dresses, and obtained admissions, he said, that Pavur had pried open a door of the warehouse and had planned to clean out the shipment.

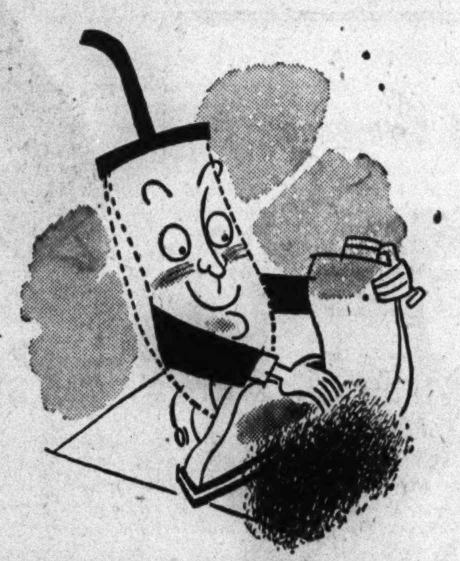
TIPS ON VACUUM CLEANER CARE FROM EDISON

Why I don't act my age

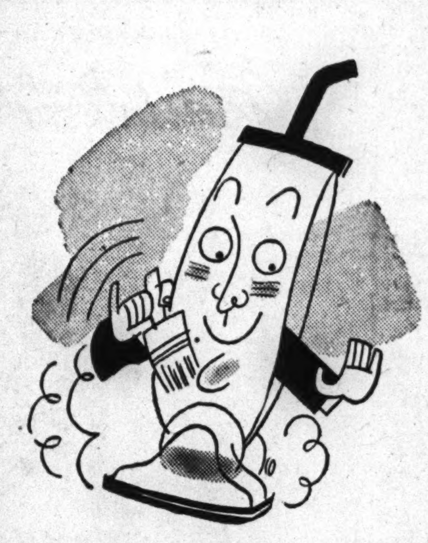
Act my age! Why, I'd be acting like an old worn-out cleaner that's ready for the scrap pile. Instead, I'm young and active, and can clean rugs with the best of 'em.

That's because my owner gives me extra special care. And it's mighty important now during wartime, because materials that usually go into vacuum cleaners are needed for making guns and tanks and planes.

If you ask me, I'd say my boss is wise and patriotic, too. And I suggest that you follow her example. It's really very easy.

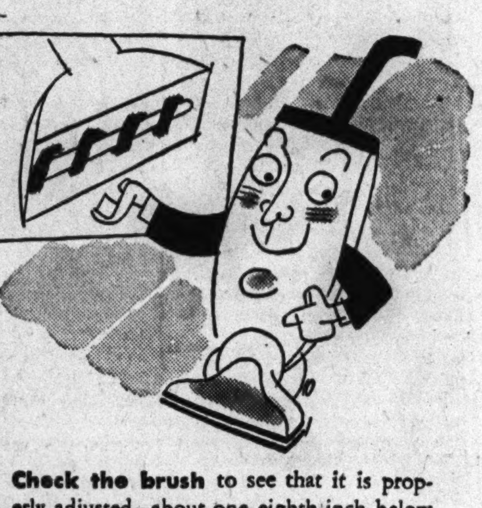


First thing to remember is to empty the dust bag every time you use your vacuum cleaner. You'll be surprised how much better your cleaner works.



Shake the bag thoroughly to get the dust out of the pores of the cloth. And every month or so brush the bag . . . but don't ever wash it.

No, no, lady! Don't run your cleaner over pins, tacks, hair pins, coins or other hard objects. Pick them up by hand, and you'll avoid unnecessary repairs.



Check the brush to see that it is properly adjusted—about one-eighth inch below the nozzle. It should be reset periodically to compensate for wear.

A new brush sweeps clean. So if the tufts become badly worn, replace the brush. And remember to keep it free from hair lint and thread.

Famous last words—Follow the manufacturer's instructions for lubricating your cleaner. And don't attempt to service the motor. Let your dealer do it.

Electricity has gone to war—don't waste it!

Rustic Outings Popular with Stay-at-Homes

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE'S a definite back-to-the-soil movement afoot, and the summer's most popular pastimes for stay-at-homes seem to be those rustic diversions connected with picnicking, farming and gardening. The Chicago Wellesley club has cards out for its annual picnic, a traditional event to which the several hundred Wellesley alumnae in this district eagerly look forward.

This year's party is set for 12:30 p. m. on Friday in the lake front home in Kenilworth to which the Lawrence Lawsons recently moved. Guests are invited to bring their children, luncheons, swimming suits and knitting, and the club guarantees to provide "drinks, two National College of Education graduates to care for young children and cars to meet North Shore trains."

Wellesley Club's New Board to Attend Picnic.

The picnic will mark the first official appearance of the club's new board, headed by Mrs. Herbert E. Paschen. Serving with her are Mrs. William E. Schweitzer, who has been ill; Mrs. E. Francis Bowditch, Mrs. Louis Faulkner, Mrs. Harold Glen, Miss Marie K. Remien, and Mrs. Cyrus L. MacKinnon. Mrs. Bowditch and her husband, who is headmaster of Lake Forest academy, are vacationing at Rye Beach, N. Y. Their Lake Forest home is being occupied by Mrs. Alexander Knott and young Alexander, who come out from Chicago each summer.

Another picnic which will have a large attendance is today's annual gathering of the Arden Shore committees from all Chicago suburbs. Several hundred friends of Arden Shore annually make the trip out to the Lake Bluff camp to tour the grounds and to attend a barbecue, altho the latter is being abandoned this year. Mrs. Proehl Jaklon, president of the Arden Shore board, is in charge of today's open house.

Auction of Live Stock to Be Benefit Feature.

There'll be plenty of activity on the stage of the Deerpath theater in Lake Forest tonight, for the Ridge Farm benefit showing of "It Happened One Night" and a short film will be interrupted for an auction of live stock. Live lambs, pigs and turkeys will pass under the auctioneer's hammer, and many of the guests will leave the theater accompanied by a squirming porker or fowl. Mrs. Corwith Hamill has contributed a pig, and Mrs. Paine Fentress also obtained one from a friend. The turkeys were given by Mrs. Frederick P. Boynton, and lambs were donated thru George Woodruff and Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill.

Among those entertaining at dinner before the 8:30 p. m. program are Mrs. Alfred Hamill, Miss Lee Cudahy, who is chairman of the benefit; Mrs. Boynton and Mrs. Fentress. A number of pretty young women will usher at the benefit, which was planned by the Highland Park and Lake Forest boards of the convalescent home.

The Chicago Smith College club will entertain at luncheon on Thursday for a distinguished member of the Smith faculty, Dr. Walter Kotschnig, who was director of the League of Nations high commission for refugees coming from Germany. Dr. Kotschnig is coming to Chicago to speak on Thursday night at the University of Chicago on "Reëducation of Germany." His two hostesses during his stay here will be Mrs. Joseph O. Hanson, new president of the alumnae group, and Mrs. Herbert H. Riddle, the retiring president. Mrs. Ralph E. Dolkart is taking reservations for the luncheon.

Entertains in Winnetka Today for Efrem Kurtzes.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Kurtz will entertain late this afternoon in their Winnetka home for Mr. Kurtz's brother, Efrem Kurtz, and his wife. Efrem Kurtz, who will conduct this week at Ravinia, arrived last night from Detroit. He and Mrs. Kurtz will be staying at the Hotel Moraine On-the-Lake in Highland Park. A week from today Mrs. Edmund Kurtz will be taking her two children to Connecticut for a visit with her sister-in-law, Mrs. William Rosenwald.

At a luncheon on Saturday in the Pump room of the Ambassador East, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Paul Gibney of Farwell avenue announced the engagement of their daughter, Lorraine Vandevere, to Ensign A. Swagart Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Swagart of Forest Hills, Washington, D. C. Miss Gibney was graduated from Chevy Chase Junior college in Washington, and Ensign Swagart received his degree from Georgetown university. He is on active duty with the coast guard.

Mrs. Daniel Boone and her children left on Saturday to spend two weeks at Crystal lake, Frankfort, Mich., with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ward Seabury.

Programs to Mark First Woman's Rights Session

In observance of the 95th anniversary of the first "woman's rights" convention, held on July 19 and 20, 1848, in Seneca Falls, N. Y., the National Women's party has planned hundreds of anniversary programs over the country today and tomorrow. Radio broadcasts will figure prominently in the various meetings, and Mrs. Nora Stanton Barney, granddaughter of Elizabeth Cady Stanton, one of the two women instrumental in calling the meeting at Seneca Falls, will be among the speakers.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES By MARCIA WINN

Ah, Duchess, Duchess!

One of those fine, shiny magazines that tells ladies how to be fine, shiny ladies has a piece in its mid-July issue by Wallis Windsor. In this the wife of the former Edward VIII., a girl who came up the hard way, has jotted down war time hardships at government house in Nassau, and for fear it may not have the wide circulation it warrants, we are here passing along a few of that lady's hardships:

Things are so tough in government house now that its mistress sometimes goes into the kitchen to lend a hand, staying there for several hours when the kitchen is short of workers. . . . She makes whirlwind tours every morning to see that all is in order. She does all the flower and table decorations and right now, because the ruby red glass bowl with red and white glass epergnes she uses on the table is too low, she builds it up with broken bits of kitchen china.

In clothes her war time philosophy is just to look neat, appropriate, and inconspicuous. She says she does this by doing as she has always done, wearing those nice, basic dark dresses that last for years. She says she gives little time to clothes. [See fashion magazines since 1937 with monthly parades of said lady's shopping expeditions for documentary contradiction.] . . . She says some people buy three or four tailored suits at a time, but she doesn't. One is enough. . . . She says she learned as a child, "when rather poor," to buy "practical, long wearing, all-day dresses." . . . She adds, "I still buy that way."

The war has brought government house a host of one night fly-by-nights, admirals and generals and aides-de-camp who drop in for a bed en route to a military or naval mission. Here comes her most shocking war time economy. The guests get new cakes of soap, but she, her captious husband, and his aide-de-camp "all use the soap the guests leave."

It is total war, isn't it?

Ship Ahoy!

It was Friday morning, and three tiny boys, two still in the romper stage, were standing on the top of a chute at the Gold coast playground on the lake front. All wore expressions of intense gravity. They talked somberly to one another. Finally the one in trousers, who presumably was leader because he wore an overseas cap on his head, lifted a makeshift telescope to his eye. Scowling deeply he peered out across the perilous waters of Lake Michigan.

Michigan Avenue: Rain.

The rain comes down,
Engulfs the town
And fills it with ennui;
And, mushroom-like, the crowd appears
A multiple parapluie.
JOAN REYNOLDS.

City Sight.

A gentleman who occupies a desk a few yards away was waiting for a bus the other morning when along came an impertinent gust of wind and played hide and seek with the skirt of a young lady. The skirt skidded up in the neighborhood of the young lady's thighs, and the gentleman noted with interest that altho she was wearing painted stockings, she must have painted them on with her feet in the air, for the stockings had no tops. They dribbled away, in long wavering strings of tan.

America's Fall Fashions Go on Display Today

BY REA SEEGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 18.—Fashion writers are being feted "a la Paris" in New York this epochal fall season of 1943. For the first time in history, a good round dozen of American designers will present their collections this week, beginning tomorrow, just for the benefit of the press.

With all the fanfare of the pre-war era, American fashions will be on parade, ready for approval and welcome by the fashion sleuths of the nation's newspapers and fashion magazines. All the rush and excitement of the rich years before the war is anticipated!

We'll see American fabrics, American colors, and all the newest products of the war time stringencies pass in review. Coats, suits, costumes, and dresses, all presenting the streamlining of OPA rulings and restrictions, will prove beyond a doubt the ingenuity of American designers. There will be new silhouettes, new features, new handwork, and all the newest details down to buttons, clasps, and other fastening devices to take the place of the fast vanishing zipper.

These fashion openings should bring recognition of American shoppers to the well known and the newer designers. For once we shall see the excellence of American fashions designed by Americans for Americans. Some may have doubted the ability or questioned the genius of home talent, but now, they can glow with the knowledge that we need not bow to others who heretofore have been regarded as possessing superior imagination.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

Blue Monday.

I'd like to watch a little dress
Flapping on a line;
[Come, come, you know you always say
White collar jobs are fine!]

I'd love a row of children's socks
Dancing in the sun;
[Now see here—what's got into you?
White collar jobs are fun!]

I'm sure I'd like much better
Than sorting Monday's mail
To hang a gayly colored wash—
[So ho! A job for sale?]
Commutin' Katie.

Far from the Madding Crowd.

"Looking for excitement, girls, on your vacation? Here's the place for you! I came across this salesman's report on a hardware dealer:

"'Mr. S. is an old man running this hardware store more for the matter of having something to do than to make a living. In fact, he is considering closing it out and resting the remainder of his life. The town is comprised of retired farmers; it has one industry—a kraut mill that runs three months a year.'" Jean Holke.

Loyalty.

B. Martin, who signs herself "Just another white collar girl," writes: "The enclosed paragraphs of Elbert Hubbard have been kept on my desk as a constant reminder ever since first I read them:

"'If—you work for a man, in heaven's name work for him; speak well of him and stand by the institution he represents. Remember an ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness.

"'If—you must growl, condemn, and eternally find fault, then resign your position . . . but as long as you are part of the institution do not condemn it.'"

Dis and Data.

A Chicago war plant is installing a system for playing phonograph records over telephone wires—the first time the telephone has been used for "music while you work." . . . A large mail order company is granting "maternity leaves" for women employees. . . . And a London factory estimates it has saved more than 5,000 working hours by installing pre-natal clinics for married women workers. Eighty per cent of the women employees are married and one in every 14 is a bassinet buyer. . . . The government has limited the amount of films available to photographers. Yet, the biggest morale builder is a picture on the mantel, as millions of white collar girls will agree. . . . The Women's Rotary Club of Chicago has presented a mobile canteen to the Salvation Army for our men in Alaska. . . . One hundred and thirty-seven colleges and 53 private schools were represented in the enrollment of a business college last year, which would indicate that the cap and gown has given way to the white collar.

BY CECIL SMITH.

The title of this picture is puzzling. The story is much more than a mere "background" to danger; it is danger itself. From start to finish death never seems to be more than a few moments away for George Raft, as he tries to serve the American and allied cause as a spy in Turkey. If one can believe this picture—and I daresay one can—agents of the warring governments are to be found on every street corner, in every hotel lobby, and in every restaurant in Ankara and Istanbul.

The prize around which the action of "Background to Danger" revolves is a set of phony plans purporting to show the objectives of a proposed Russian invasion of Turkey. The Nazis have trumped up the plans in order to scare the Turkish population into compliance with the designs of the new order, and a venal newspaper publisher has agreed to publish them as the discovery of his clever and indefatigable reporters.

The story keeps you on the edge of your seat every second of the time. In the grim by-ways of the old section of Ankara, on remote estates in the country, and in the Istanbul newspaper plant, Mr. Raft pits his agility and quick thinking against Sydney Greenstreet and his Fascist underlings. The task is complicated by the fact that he cannot tell whether Peter Lorre and Brenda Marshall are friends or enemies, until the final events reveal their true status.

The acting is expert thruout. Mr. Raft, of course, is his usual extrovert self. Mr. Greenstreet impersonates Col. Robinson, the quisling, with sinister suavity, but not without the trace of amusement that inevitably results from the carriage and movement of his portly body. Peter Lorre again demonstrates his mastery of his special brand of whimsical innuendo and double-talk. Miss Marshall has very little to do, but seems competent in her brief appearances.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

Hollywood, Cal., July 18.—When Al Jolson was playing "Hold Onto Your Hats" on Broadway, our boys out here fought to buy the rights to it. At that time, Al was holdin' onto it for himself. Now that he's going to do his life story, he's sold his play to Metro, and it will star Red Skelton and be another one of Jack Cummings' technicolor productions. It's all about a radio guy and his mishaps. Red knows about radio, but mishaps are what he has had none of. [Hey! Watch your grammar there, Hopper!]

'Twas Ever Thus.

George Sanders gets a chance to be the great lover on the screen that his female fans think he is in real life. His next, "Nine Lives," shows him as a man, married but none too happily, who dreams about the seven other women in his life, by the flashback method. This reminds him none of them was perfect. When he wakes up, he decides his present woman isn't half bad.

He Sings, Too.

John Charles Thomas was born lucky; his luck still holds. He has walked into one of the most perfect homes ever created. It was the life-long dream of the producer, Bernie Hyman, and his wife. Mrs. Hyman has exquisite taste. Bernie died before he could enjoy it. It's a modern ranch house, built on a mesa at the end of a canyon, with a winding road thru hundreds of live oak trees. The estate has 150 acres of them, a view of the Pacific, a lake crawling with gold fish. . . . The house is wired for sound. You press a button in any room and get a concert of symphony records, jazz, or opera. . . . Thomas had a little get-together. It wasn't a house-warming; more like a dedication to a dream come true. After calling in his three helpers from the kitchen, John sang on an open terrace one of Albert Hay Mallotte's songs about home. After dinner, of course, we had a concert with the Mario Chamlees, Al Trehan at the piano, Mrs. Raymond Hitchcock, her sister Mrs. Benham, Ivan Simpson, Mr. Merritt, and yours truly having a time we won't forget.

New Novel.

"A Stranger And Afraid" by Michael Hardt was written by a Viennese actor who had never written either in English or German. He came over three years ago. At present he's a sergeant at Fort Knox. When he came down with a four week attack of jaundice, he was so bored he started the "Stranger" and couldn't stop till it was finished. The one semi-love scene was done while sitting in the washroom. That was the only place they had lights after 10 p. m. It's written against an atmosphere of Vienna, the waltz, dress shops, opera, and thrilling Nazi background.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

One of the best ways to lose a trick—and there are hundreds of excellent ways!—is to make a mad dash for a discard when, in actual fact, said discard can safely and comfortably be deferred until more urgent work is done. Consider South's illogical haste in the following deal:

NORTH
♠K 8 6
♥A 9 5
♦Q J 5
♣K 6 4 3

WEST
♠10 5
♥Q 10 8 4 3 2
♦A 9 6

EAST
♠J 9 2
♥K 7
♦K 10 3
♣A J 8 7 2

SOUTH
♥J 6
♦8 7 4 2
♣Q 10

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 club	1 spade
2 hearts	2 spades	Pass	Pass
3 hearts	3 spades	Pass	Pass
Pass

West opened the club nine and dummy ducked. East, marking declarer for the Q-10, went up with the ace and returned a low club, hoping that the nine had been singleton. Declarer's queen held, however, and three rounds drew the outstanding trumps. Then, apparently in a dither to get rid of his losing heart, declarer entered dummy with the heart ace to discard the heart jack on the club king. Whatever the "reason," the play was declarer's undoing. Obviously, there was no danger of losing a heart trick while the ace remained in dummy, and by his haste, declarer had landed in the wrong hand and thereby lost a vital tempo. Now, in order to lead a diamond toward dummy's double honor, he would have to waste one of his two remaining trumps. He realized [too late] that this would be fatal, hence attempted to build a diamond trick by leading dummy's queen.

Had East been foolish enough to cover, declarer would have won back a trick and fulfilled his contract. East made no such mistake, however; he properly played low. West won with the diamond ace and led a heart. There now was no chance to establish a diamond trick, since East was over dummy's J-5 with the K-10, and declarer was down to one trump.

After the club ace was put up on the first trick and a club was returned, South actually could have made 10 tricks. He merely would have to lead to the spade king and back to the ace, then lead toward dummy's diamonds. In any case, however, and even after drawing three rounds of trumps, the contract itself [three spades] could have been fulfilled with ease thru the simple medium of not being in any hurry about the heart discard.

Ravinia Rings with Ovation for Monteux

Overture to "Der Freischütz"... Weber
Symphony No. 4, E minor....... Brahms
Prelude to "Lohengrin"....... Wagner
Fantasy on Two Angevin Folk Songs.. .... Lekeu
[First performance in Chicago.]
Tone Poem, "Don Juan"........ Strauss

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

The most remarkable ovation in the history of Ravinia concerts was given Pierre Monteux yesterday afternoon when he ended his engagement of four concerts with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The 3,000 people who thronged the pavilion and spilled over into the free seats simply would not go home. They clapped, they shouted, they stomped their feet football style, while the men in the orchestra added applause to their supreme accolade—the finest playing of which they are capable. With flushed cheeks, his eyes suspiciously bright, the chubby little conductor finally held up a hand for silence. "I am much too moved to make a speech," he said, "but I want to say thank you."

The gratitude was on our side. For this was a great concert in culmination of a brilliant week, a week of concerts which to many of us had been like coming home after exile. Monteux had two previous Ravinia engagements, and of course any one with half an ear knew then he was good. But in those days we had Frederick Stock and we took good music as our due. This season we are less smug about things. A beautiful concert is not just another refreshing drink from a known fountain, but spring water in the desert. Monteux had an orchestra hypnotized by his skill, an audience enraptured by what he made of music. He rose to the occasion with unforgettable concerts, and we part with him in deepest reluctance.

Sunday's concert was in many ways the best of the four, being a kind of continuous miracle of performance. The orchestra was fluid, sensitive, exact, and with it as a supple medium of expression Monteux worked wonders with what, with one exception, the Lekeu "Fantasy" was a standard program. The overture to "Der Freischütz" was a gleaming thing, clean, fresh, and shining. The "Lohengrin" prelude had the magic of texture, the impact of perfectly phrased climax. "Don Juan" was exploited to the hilt of Straussian orchestration, so that it crackled with virtuosity. Even the novelty, the "Fantasy on Two Angevin Folk Songs," was so persuasive an exhibition of an attractive score that it seemed a natural to linger in the repertory.

But the peak of the afternoon was Brahms' Fourth Symphony. It was played with such freshness, such perception, and such brilliance that it was possible to suspect you never had quite heard it before. Monteux has musical intuition beyond price, and he seems not to know that most music is suspected of having dull passages. He gives a complete performance that develops naturally to the most satisfying climax. He restored our orchestra to its high estate and our ears to their most pampered habits. San Francisco is a lucky city to hold him captive for the winter season.

Servicemen Guests at Midway USO's 2d Annual Picnic

The Midway U. S. O.'s second annual picnic for service men at the 55th street promontory yesterday was a success. There was more food, more music, prettier girls, and more service men than last year's outing attracted, the committee said.

The navy was most conspicuous, but the army and marine corps constituted vocal minorities. Hostesses, members of the Midway U. S. O., arrived in shorts, and slacks, and dress-up dresses, and all were armed with box lunches for two.

Bob Stevens, a trainee at the navy's radio school at the University of Chicago, was there with his bride of a few weeks. Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Dunkel held a reception for them at their home after the wedding, which had been arranged by phone with his bride, Margaret, in Detroit. Mrs. Dunkel was chairman of yesterday's picnic committee.

At the picnic, besides music and dancing, there were games and two presentations of a movie, "What's Buzzin' Cousin?" Dinner was announced by a group of WACs in an army jeep, who circled the promontory swinging a cow bell.

Those "self-sealing" metal lids will remain sealed on your canned fruits and vegetables, even tho you remove the screw bands and use them over again. Using the same screw bands again and again is economical, and saves valuable metal. Do not be afraid of breaking the seal of your canned goods. These screw bands were designed to hold the lid in place until the vacuum has formed to seal it during processing. After the seal is complete, the screw bands have no further use on those jars—but they can be used to help seal other jars, and should therefore be unscrewed when the canned food has cooled and is ready for storage.

Store all home canned food in a dry, cool, dark place. If your basement is damp, put the jars into cardboard cartons for storage. The carton then can absorb some of the moisture and keep it away from the jars. Moldy fruit often is caused by storage in damp basements.

Do not use salad dressing jars and other glass containers which haven't been properly tempered for canning in the pressure cooker. Often these jars will stand the heat of a hot water bath, but can't be subjected to higher temperature without exploding. Make sure that every jar you put into the pressure cooker for processing is a regulation, tempered canning jar.

Seal jellies and jams as soon as you've poured them, in order to insure their keeping quality. Use a layer of paraffin ¼ inch thick, then cover the tops of the glasses with lids, or tie paper covers over them to protect the paraffin from dust. Store jellies and jams in a cool, dry place, and protect them from light.

To sterilize jars, jelly glasses and canning covers, first wash them carefully in hot, soapy water. Then pour boiling water over the hot jars and lids, inside and out, and let them stand in the hot water for a few minutes. Remember not to transfer cold jars to hot water without warming them gradually, or you may have breakage. Remember, also, to pad the table top before you remove hot jars from the canner, and to keep cooling jars away from draughts. Breakage can occur from any quick change in temperature.

The home canner arises early in the morning to gather war garden produce, and begins the canning operations as soon as the vegetables are in the kitchen. The fresher the goods canned, the better the quality of the product found when the jars are opened. Two hours from garden to jar is a good motto.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

The only member of the Chicago Woman's club who is a Red Cross motor corps driver is Mrs. Howard G. Earl, who chauffeurs for both the blood donor service, at 5 North Wabash avenue, and for the navy. Mrs. Earl is a transfer from the Glens Falls, N. Y., Red Cross chapter, where she was instrumental in signing up 16 girls for motor corps service.

MRS. HOWARD G. EARL.

As a member of the Woman's club, Mrs. Earl was instrumental, too, in the success of the recent concert the organization gave to raise money for nursing scholarships. Thru proceeds of the event, the club has entered four young women in the Women's and Children's hospital for nurses' training. This was done following an appeal from Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, surgeon-general of the United States army, for civilian hospitals to train more nurses so that graduates may serve with the fighting forces.

The club's efforts are part of the General Federation of Women's Clubs' program, organized in response to Gen. Kirk's request. Mrs. Maurice L. Rothschild is chairman of the Chicago Woman's club's concert committee, and serving with her, in addition to Mrs. Earl, are Mrs. William C. Eaton and Mrs. Cyrus R. Shipman who are, respectively, treasurer and secretary of the club.

One of the units of the Railway Business Woman's association has done an exceptional job of selling war bonds and stamps. "Captained" by Miss Clarice Rector of the Pennsylvania railroad, the 12 girls in the group made the lobby of a north side theater their after-work headquarters and wrote out $63,615.65 worth of bonds in the last year. Other units of the association are similarly engaged in volunteer work.

A new unit of the Chicago chapter of the American Women's Voluntary Services is the junior activities group, consisting of young women between 15 and 25 years old. About two-thirds of them are employed, and all have the mutual interest of doing volunteer war work with their contemporaries. The new unit is under the chairmanship of Mrs. E. G. Walls, with Miss Joan Morris as secretary.

Ten of the juniors were placed last week at Wesley Memorial hospital as aids. They make scrap books for service men, established a kindergarten for children whose fathers are in service and stationed in the Chicago area, and set up a bureau to care for children in the evening. Money earned thru this last named volunteer task will be used in war work.

The Chicago Commons, settlement house, has asked the AWVS for assistance in playground activities, a role for which the junior unit is especially suited. Meetings of the unit are held each Thursday evening at AWVS headquarters, 160 North La Salle street.

The placement division of AWVS, headed by Mrs. Kay Wales, recently placed 552 volunteers in miscellaneous volunteer positions, such as clerical work for medical research, army examinations, finger printing for the coast guard reserve, typing for the recruiting office of the navy, office work for the Illinois Nurses' association, and assistants in ration boards.

Mrs. Fred Taxon of the AWVS sewing unit reports that a second shipment of a hundred afghans and bed slippers has been sent to the Great Lakes naval training station. The unit also works at Abbott and Tower halls of the Naval Reserve Midshipmen's school at Northwestern university.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Blood Bank at N. U.

The mobile unit of the Red Cross blood bank will visit the Northwestern university campus tomorrow and Wednesday. Appointments may be made on the 2d floor of Scott hall.

Tense Mother Should Plan Day Carefully

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I am high strung and my little boy gets on my nerves. Have you any advice?"

"I am a nervous woman, I may as well admit, and my little girl irritates me more and more each day. I know this is not right and I wonder if you can help me."

Even if you are naturally nervous and perhaps not very strong, you can swing this job of motherhood without excessive fatigue, and enjoy your small child in the bargain. In fact, the enjoying of your child is the most important part of the whole business, because that response to him smooths the path of management, wipes out the irritation, and gives way to a sense of happiness and accomplishment which is calming to your nerves.

A combination of excessive attention to housework and a lack of interest in understanding one's child [which leads to constant friction in that quarter] often is responsible for the nervousness so many mothers complain of. This sort of nervousness can and should be conquered. It makes young women old before their time; it is hard on their looks, and on their children and their husbands, too.

A better planned day will help. Good planning, but not considering that schedule a hidebound thing, fosters relaxation. A rest when the children rest is wonderful for the body and the disposition. And a change in attitude toward the children will be the other factor that will cure jitteriness and irritability, and consequent crossness.

This change in relation to the children must be a radical one. These nervous, edgy mothers must look at their children with new eyes. Here, they must realize, is a young human being full of zest for life and full of potentialities. He is, for a while, they must say, mine to study, learn, and love—to guide and mold. It is my privilege to look on as he grows and changes. It is my privilege to enjoy his companionship. Here is my chance for fun and interest and happiness in putting over one of the nicest and most worth while jobs there is—that of being a mother.

Looking then, at their child as a pleasure and not just a duty, they will begin to understand him. And understanding him, they will stop looking on at his constant activity and his many questions as naughtiness and annoyance.

Dainty Luncheon Doily

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

As a change from crocheted luncheon doilies created from individual medallions every needle worker should make this dainty fan doily crocheted in one piece. The lacy, fan shape is an ideal complement to attractive dishes. It may be created of mercerized crochet cotton or fine linen thread. These doilies may be slightly stiffened with starch.

For instructions in crocheting the fan luncheon doily, No. 1132, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York City.

Readers Offer Preserve Jars to Gardeners

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Since all housewives are being urged to preserve as much food as possible for home consumption, and war gardens all over the city are producing vegetables in great number for persons who previously purchased all such items, we feel our readers will be interested in the following:

Mrs. H. M. of Chicago's northwest side writes: "Dear Miss Brown: I have a number of bottles and jars to give to any person who would like to preserve tomato juice, catsup, etc. Included are gallon, quart, and pint bottles and jars, numbering several hundred in all. I can not deliver them, however."

Mrs. C. E., who lives on the south side of the city, sends a similar offer: "I have about 50 glass jars, of all sizes, which I will be happy to give to any reader who wishes to use them for preserving. They would have to be called for. I formerly did a good deal of such work, but am no longer able, and my family has become so small that there is no longer any real need for it."

Readers interested in having such equipment may write to the donors in care of this department. All letters will be forwarded for selection, and the recipient notified. Please do not telephone this office in regard to the offers.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargelt

Mrs. J. W. Ballou, 122 Everett street, Dixon, Ill.—Keep paper containers that cottage cheese comes in and wash, dry, and air well. In the fall gather flower seed from garden and store away for spring in containers, with name on lid.

Mrs. Fred W., Chicago—I have found I can prolong life of the rubber gasket on the refrigerator for quite some time by applying cellulose tape over worn parts when it starts showing wear at corners.

Mrs. Pat M., Detroit, Mich.—As soon as any fruit juice is spilled on any of my table linen I sprinkle salt over the spot immediately. I believe this has saved my linen from many a permanent stain, and certainly I don't have to wash linen so hard—and thus wear and tear of pieces is saved.

Emma N., Chicago—We drink quite a bit of tea at our house and I don't know of anything better for the removal of tea stains from cups than a mixture of common salt and vinegar.

Thru the Looking Glass

Sun, wind, and salt water are attractive embellishments for a vacation, but if you're off in some spot where you have all three but no beauty shop in which to tie up for repairs you're likely to be in a pretty bad way at the end of a couple of weeks. Your hair is going to look like the business end of a mop if you don't watch out.

One thing you can do if you're stranded is shampoo your hair yourself. It's not such a tough chore. You may not be so sharp at setting it afterward into handsome waves but at least you'll have the satisfaction of knowing that you're putting up a good fight against summer damage.

Choose your vacation shampoo with some care. One of our favorites is a little pet that works in hard as well as soft water. It's a liquid, awfully easy to use, that contains a seaweed derivative, of all things, and that seems to us unusually efficient in cleansing the hair and in softening it up after exposure to too much sun or too much swimming.

You can even use this in cold water, if necessary, but that seems to us too Spartan even to attempt. Wet the hair with lukewarm water and then massage a little of the liquid—a couple of teaspoonfuls would be our choice—well into the scalp. It will lather furiously—pale green lather, by the way—and rinse out easily. No special rinse is necessary. Gobs and gobs of water, after every shampoo, will do the trick.

This is extremely popular in the east, where there is much salt water bathing. But it's coming into its own around these parts as an ideal shampoo for the woman in the country who must do her own hair with limited facilities.

SOX SPLIT; CUBS WIN TWO, TAKE FIFTH PLACE

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

OHIO is calling itself the harness racing center of the nation this year and with reason. . . . In addition to the big Grand Circuit meet at Cleveland, the Buckeye state will offer some 65 fair meetings. . . . Joe Garagiola, 17 year old Columbus catcher, is the youngest player in the American association. . . . His manager, 42 year old Nick Cullop, is the oldest. . . . Manager Ossie Bluege of the Senators is a certified public accountant. . . . Maybe he can figure a way to beat out the Yankees. . . . Cincinnati players still believe Bucky Walters is a great pitcher, even tho his 1943 record to date is one of the worst of his long career. . . . They recall that he suffered a severely sprained ankle while attempting a high jump in training camp. . . . For the first six weeks of the season he was favoring the injured member on every pitch. . . . Dizzy Dean, who picked the Cardinals and Yankees to win the major league pennants in 1942 and also doped the Cards to take the world series, predicts the 1943 series will be between the Redbirds and the Browns. . . . A total of 2,127 male students, of whom all but 427 are military personnel, are receiving conditioning and combat training under an augmented physical education staff at the University of Wisconsin. . . . Dizzy Trout, the talkative Tiger pitcher, was sitting on the bench looking over the small turnout for a twilight game in Briggs stadium. . . . "Well, I certainly pack 'em in, don't I," he said. "I don't mind, tho, because with a light attendance my stooges will have a change to figure out who is booing me. . . . Do I have stooges watchin' who is booing me? Sure I do. I don't like being booed by guys who get in on passes." . . . Bob Johnson of the Senators, who usually has a flock of homers to his credit at this stage of the race, waited until last week to clout his first 1943 four bagger. . . . He was so disgusted before that he had planned to start choking his bat and trying for singles, when a baseball writer reminded him that Johnny Cooney spent 18 years in the big leagues before he got a home run. . . .

The Pacific Coast league, which had every reason to fear a complete collapse at the box office, is headed for a banner year. . . . Consider that the circuit was forced to give up night games; fans were handicapped by the rationing of gasoline, and Los Angeles practically has clinched the pennant already. . . . Then try to figure out why the league is more than 25,000 paid admissions above its total for last year. . . . The answer would seem to be that fans on the coast, as in other parts of the country, want and need baseball more than ever in war time.

Nocturnal Peace.

The mystic night appears.
Bright gleaming stars send down their light
From heaven's chandeliers.
The sky is dominated by
A mellow, yellow moon,
And crickets sing their serenade—
That cheery, changeless tune.
From earthly care we're granted
A merciful respite
As a benignant God performs
The miracle of night.

APPLING DRIVES HOME 3 RUNS IN 4 TO 1 VICTORY

Tigers Rout Lee in 12 to 4 Opener.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox were figuratively ejected from their own house yesterday but before sundown had moved back into the place and restored order. They abandoned the premises under pressure of a dazzling 18 hit barrage by the Detroit Tigers in the first half of a double header. Then they bounced forth with some of their stock yards gang spirit to compensate 24,442 patrons for the earlier debacle. The scores were 12 to 4 and 4 to 1.

The first game was an unhappy venture for Thornton [Lefty] Lee and continued as such for Bill Swift after Lee had deemed it prudent to leave while he still possessed his uniform. Lee, who went out in the second inning, had four runs charged against his effort. Subsequently seven Tigers found the plate during Swift's regime and the enemy made it an even dozen by working on Joe Haynes, who pitched the last two innings.

Humphries Wins No. 7.

The Sox run production in the first game was hindered by Hal White, who had to quit when Swift plunked him on his pitching arm with a stray pitch in the seventh, and Johnny Gorsica, who breezed thru three relief innings on two hits. The Sox had no such difficulty with Paul Trout in the second game, at least not enough to prevent Johnny Humphries turning out his season's seventh success despite a yield of nine hits. Incidentally, it was Trout's second setback of the series, which the Sox took, three games to two.

Luke Appling had a large day in the way of hits, but in distance was shaded in various ways. Luke notched two hits in the first game and three in the second one, driving in three of the four runs in the latter. All his efforts were singles. Against this, Rudy York was responsible for starting Lee on the way out with his 11th homer in the first game, his blow being equaled in length by a ball deposited in the left field seats later by Paul Richards on one of Swift's pitches.

Tucker Walks, Steals, Scores.

There was only one pleasing feature about the first game. It was the run the Sox scored off White in the opening inning on Tucker's walk and steal and a single by Appling. It wasn't long before the worst was revealed. York opened the second with his homer. Singles by Bloodworth and Richards and a pass to White filled the bases. Metro singled to score Bloodworth and this was Lee's finish. Hoover singled off Swift to score Richards and White. There still was nobody out but Swift managed to avoid additional run production for the time being.

Curfew Rings Twice; Breaks Up Two Games

According to a National league ruling adopted last winter, the second games of the Card-Pirate and Dodger-Brave double headers yesterday became suspended games, which will be resumed from the point of suspension when the teams next meet. Both were called because of the Sunday curfew law.

The rule provides that such is the case when games, which have gone more than 4½ innings but less than nine, are halted by governmental regulation or baseball rules. In other years such games were ruled complete either at the point of interruption or after reverting to even innings.

Will Harridge, president of the American league, said last night his league has not adopted this rule. In his memory, Mr. Harridge said, the American league never has carried over a game from the point of its suspension. In drawn games of similar nature they are replayed from the start.

61 Qualify for Tribune Swim Finals

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The sailors from the Great Lakes Naval Training station and teams from the Kenosha, Wis., Youth Foundation, New Trier club, and Beilfuss natatorium dominated the qualifying events in the boys' division of the Chicagoland 100 yard races yesterday afternoon. Trials for both boys and girls were held in Whealan pool and California park pool.

Sixty-one gold qualifying medals were distributed yesterday at the centers to complete the list of contestants for the 14th annual Chicagoland championships which will be held Sunday afternoon in California park pool. Other qualifying races were held Saturday in Cermak pool and Sherman park pool.

The Great Lakes team, coached by Lt. Walter Colbath and Chief Specialist Alvin Weber, won five qualifying medals yesterday. Four sailors won their events. They were Dean Hess, class D, and Roger Ahlman, class E, who competed at Whealan pool, and Jerry Kirschner, class D, and Wally Ris, class E, who swam in the California park pool. Ris' time for 100 yards was 56 4-10 seconds while Ahlman's time in Whealan pool was 59 7-10 seconds. Ris had an advantage in that there were two turns in the California park pool while Whealan pool affords a 50 yard straightaway.

New Trier Qualifies Seven.

The New Trier club, which qualified seven boys in the two centers, probably should outscore Great Lakes in Sunday's championships since the entry is better distributed among the five age classes. Points are scored in the finals for first, second, and third places on a 5-3-1 basis. Team championship trophies are offered for boys and girls.

Robert White, who swam 100 yards in 59 seconds, won the class C trials at California pool. He won the class B Chicagoland title two years ago. Other New Trier swimmers qualified at Whealan pool. Among them was Hugh McMullen, who led the class C division with a mark of 1:01.3 for 100 yards.

Beilfuss natatorium qualified six boys at California park with Norman Ingebrigstsen leading by winning the class A trials. At Whealan pool the Kenosha, Wis., Youth Foundation qualified four boys and two of them had top performances. Allen Roedel led the class A qualifiers with a 100 yards in 1:24.2 and Irwin Clark took class B for 13 and 14 year old swimmers in 1:07.4.

Garst Leads in Class B.

Rusty Garst of Madison, Wis., led the class B swimmers in California park with a mark of 1:03.2. Garst won the class A Chicagoland championship in 1941.

The Skyline A. C. qualified three boys and three girls for Sunday's finals. The Medinah club girls,

Occupation Leads Classic Candidates in Tuneup Today

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Occupation, leading money winning juvenile of last season, whose route running ability has been a point of considerable speculation, will race at a mile and an eighth today for the first time in his career in Arlington's $5,000 Challenger purse at Washington Park.

This will be his last tuneup before going to the post in the $50,000 Classic Saturday. Never before has Occupation been asked to go more than 7 furlongs.

Today's race will clarify the Classic status of other candidates also. Hal Price Headley's fast filly, Askmenow, which won the recent $10,000 Matron stakes, is scheduled to match her speed against that of the colts this afternoon. If she should make an exceptionally good effort, there's a possibility that her owner might send her into the Classic.

All Hoss Entry Expected.

Askmenow will run as an entry with All Hoss, which is regarded as a certain starter in the Classic. Today's gallop will be spiced up further by the presence of Bourmont, which engaged in a long head and head stretch duel with All Hoss in a recent race at Washington Park. All Hoss came out of that engagement as the winner.

Burnt Cork, Eddie Anderson's Classic candidate also goes today. His prestige increased a bit when he ran second to Cabin Creek in the recent $5,000 Skokie handicap at a mile. He finished half a length in advance of Slide Rule.

Famous Victory, which Greentree stable shipped in for the Classic, will show Chicago fans what he can do this afternoon. He was in the money in three stakes on New York tracks. The only horse in the field today which is not a Classic eligible is Unknown Reward.

Won Three Starts.

Occupation has won his three starts so far this season, two at seven furlongs and one at six. There's no question about his speed, and he's shown plenty of gameness under pressure so all of his followers are looking forward to see what he'll do in that last furlong this afternoon.

It is expected that the Classic field Saturday will include Occupation, Chop Chop, Slide Rule, Bourmont, All Hoss, Famous Victory, Amber Light, and possibly Askmenow. If eight should go to the post, the race will gross $72,000. The present value, together with eligibility fees and added money, is $66,000. Each starter will mean an additional $750.

Comfort on the golf links is the motto of Catherine Fox of New Jersey as she gives her tootsies some care at Tam o' Shanter. She'll play in the All-American women's tourney starting there Thursday.

TAM O'SHANTER EXTRAVAGANZA TO START TODAY

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

George S. May, the ingenious owner of the Tam o' Shanter Country club, who for the last two years has been earning himself a reputation as the Tex Rickard of golf, today raises the curtain on a seven day extravaganza the like of which our town's fairway clientele never has seen.

The first of Mr. May's 1943 productions is the All-American Amateur tournament, which late last night revealed a starting ensemble of 261 competitors. On Thursday, by the time the amateurs have warmed up to their match play duties, the All-American Open, offering a total of $10,750 to a field of professionals which now numbers 155, and the All-American Women's tourney, which has attracted 29 entries to date, will get under way, continuing thru Sunday.

Starts at 7 a. m. Today.

The amateurs will open the party, beginning at 7 o'clock this morning, with the first 18 holes of their qualifying round, which will be concluded with another 18 holes of medal competition tomorrow. Out of these 36 holes will come the 64 match play qualifiers, who will go to work against each other with a pair of 18 hole matches on Wednesday, followed by another pair of the same on Thursday. The semi-finals on Friday are scheduled for the 36 hole route, as is Saturday's championship match.

Altho the professionals and the women will not tee off in their tournaments proper until Thursday, there will be plenty of action for them on Wednesday. The pros who are not exempt by reason of past performance will take part in a special 18 hole qualifying round on that day to determine the remaining places in the Open field of 200 not taken by exempt professionals and the 64 amateur match play qualifiers. These latter can take part in the Open, Wednesday's match play losers by playing a regular medal play round, and Thursday's survivors by playing out one of their match play rounds for their record in the first round of the Open.

Rehearsal for Women.

The 29 woman players also will have a qualifying rehearsal on Wednesday, playing 18 holes for the 18 places in their 72 hole medal play argument, which will follow the pattern of the open, 18 holes a day on Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday.

So much for the framework of the tournament. Equally interesting will be the means of seeing the three tournaments. Admission to any of the seven days calls for only one purchase at the gate—one dollar's worth of war stamps. Children under 12 years of age will be admitted free. May will direct all of

Nicholson and Hack Get 5 Hits Each.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., July 18.—The Cubs this afternoon ended their triumphant July road rampage by whipping the Cincinnati Reds in both ends of a double header. Claude Passeau outpitched Johnny Vander Meer for a 3 to 1 victory and Henry Wyse was the conqueror of Bucky Walters, 7 to 0, in the second game.

The double victory, which boosted the Cubs into fifth place, gave them three games in the series of four and in the three victories the Reds' lone run, in the first game today, was unearned.

Hack, Nicholson Divide 10 Hits.

Today's games were replete with personal statistics. Capt. Stanley Hack made five hits in the two games, to bring his season total to 101 and his batting mark to .330. Bill Nicholson also made five hits during the afternoon, four in the second game, including his 13th homer which gave him his 61st and 62d runs batted in.

Thus ended the Cubs' 19 game trip, with a record of 13 victories and six defeats. Passeau won four and lost none, Wyse won three and lost one, Hi Bithorn won three and lost one, Eddie Hanyzewski won one and lost none, Bill Lee lost one and won one, Ray Prim won none and lost one and Paul Derringer won one and lost three.

Cubs Donate One Run.

A multiple touch of the fumbles enables the Reds to take a 1 to 0 lead in the second inning of the first game. Eric Tipton was safe on Merullo's fumble and stopped at second on Steve Mesner's single to center. Ray Mueller bunted and Phil Cavarretta threw wide to second, leaving the bases loaded with none out. Merullo ran deep into left field for Bert Haas' fly, Tipton scoring. Mueller flied to Novikoff and Vander Meer struck out.

The Cubs tied the score in the third and would have gone ahead but for a brilliant double play maneuver by Haas. Hack led off with the second of his series of hits, a single to left, and Eddie Stanky and Cavarretta walked, loading the bases. Bill Nicholson flied to Max Marshall, Hack scoring the tying run and Stanky taking third. Haas made a diving stop of Novikoff's smash toward right field and launched the double play, Haas to Miller to Haas.

Vander Meer Goes Wild.

Hack walked at the start of the eighth and advanced on Stanky's sacrifice. Cavarretta walked on four pitches and Hack and Cavarretta moved up on a wild pitch. Nicholson also walked on four pitches, loading the bases. Novikoff flied to Tipton, Hack scoring the winning run. Cavarretta was trapped on the play, but dashed for third and slid safely under Eddie Miller's throw to third. Harry Lowrey flied to Gee Walker.

Passeau made his own task a bit easier in the ninth by driving home Chicago's third run. With one down, Merullo beat out a bunt and scored on Passeau's double to the center field wall. Hack struck out, his only batting failure of the game and Stanky flied to Tipton.

Hack Gets 100th Hit.

Hack led off the second game with his fourth hit of the afternoon, his 100th of the season—but it didn't jell. Stanky hit into a double play and Cavarretta flied out.

The second inning brought a Chicago run. Nicholson doubled and scored on a double by Ival Goodman. Walters struck out Lowrey and McCullough, and Merullo lined to Mesner.

The Cubs grabbed two runs in the third inning despite the discouragement of having a gent thrown out at the plate for the first out and a double play for the other

YANKS SWEEP DOUBLE HEADER FROM ATHLETICS

Win, 7-2, 4-3, to Extend Streak to Eight.

New York, July 18 (AP).—The first place Yankees sneaked thru on the rail in both ends of a double header with the Philadelphia Athletics today to beat the A's twice and run their winning streak to eight in a row and their 12th triumph in 13 starts.

A crowd of 32,704 watched the Bronx Bombers take the opener, 7 to 2, the winning blow being Bill Johnson's three run homeer in the fourth inning that wiped out a 2-0 Philadelphia lead. In the second game Luman Harris of the A's apparently had won his sixth straight game until the Yanks rallied to tie in the ninth and win out, 4 to 3, in the 10th for Spud Chandler's 11th victory.

Eddie Smith Restored to Good Standing

The White Sox, if lucky, will reach Fort Plain, N. Y., at 1 o'clock this afternoon, go for a 25 mile bus ride, play an exhibition with the Dodgers in Cooperstown, baseball's shrine, and then resume travel in the direction of Boston, where they open Wednesday with a doubleheader.

Eddie Smith, who was suspended 10 days ago because James Dykes didn't think the little southpaw was in shape for serious work, was restored to good standing last evening. He'll be treated to a workout against the Dodgers today.

outs. Wyse opened the third with a single to center and went to third on Hack's 101st hit. Stanky tapped to Mesner and Wyse was out at home. Cavarretta walked, loading the bases. Walters pitched three wide ones, but when he came in with what some call the automatic strike, Nick busted it for a single to right center, scoring Hack and Stanky and putting Cavarretta on third.

Two More for Nicholson.

When Hack and Stanky ran across the plate Nick was credited with his 59th and 60th runs batted in. The inning ended when Goodman bounced into a double play.

Nicholson also drove in the fifth and sixth Chicago runs with his 13th homer in the fifth. Cavarretta was on base as a result of a single.

Walters was knocked out in the sixth. A single by Lowrey, a pass to Merullo, a pass to Hack, which loaded the bases, and a single by Stanky, which drove in two runs, sent Bucky away, Clyde Shoun taking his place.

Newsom Goes Quietly in 3d; Browns Lose 2

St. Louis, Mo., July 18 (AP).—Louis [Buck] Newsom, back in the American league once more, was thwarted today—temporarily, at least—in his self-announced intention of pitching the Browns to a pennant.

The Cleveland Indians, who swept both ends of a double header, sent him muttering to the showers after two innings of the second game, which they won, 10 to 7. Jeff Heath's three run homer was largely responsible for the Indians' 4 to 3 verdict in the opener.

Cleveland hitters combed Newsom for six hits and seven runs in two full innings and he took the long march without retiring a man in the wild third frame. All in all, four Brownie pitchers gave up 16 hits to the Indians.

WHITE SOX WIN, 4-1, AFTER 12-4 LOSS TO TIGERS

field's double let the Tigers in for another run in the fourth. The Sox did a one man job in the same inning on Hodgin's single and Kolloway's double, but the Tigers responded with Richards' homer in the fifth. They treated Swift to four hits, along with a pass in the sixth, three more scoring. The happenings thereafter merely delayed the second act of the afternoon's program.

Sox Pounce on Trout.

By way of proving they remembered Trout was the same fellow they enjoyed meeting in the series opener last Thursday night, the Sox gave him an appropriate greeting in the first inning of the second game. Business got under way with a single by Moses and a pass to Tucker. Both scored later on a single to center by Appling. Tucker again walked in the third, scoring on singles by Curtright and Appling for a 3 to 0 Sox lead.

A double to left by Wakefield and single by Higgins in the fourth created the lone run against Humphries, but Moses grabbed the run back in the home half. He tripled into the right field corner with one out and scampered across the plate on Tucker's fly.

SATCHEL PAIGE STARS: MEMPHIS NINE WINS, 1 TO 0

Pitches No-Hit Ball for Five Innings.

Leroy [Satchel] Paige responded to a day in his honor in Wrigley field yesterday with a five inning, no hit pitching performance for the Memphis Red Sox of the Negro American league as they defeated the New York Cubans of the Negro National league, 1 to 0, in the first game of a four-team double header.

Not a ball was hit out of the infield against Paige, who fanned seven. Two opponents reached first base on walks, but neither got as far as second base. Porter Moss, veteran Memphis hurler who replaced him at the start of the sixth inning held the Cubans scoreless the remainder of the way and yielded two safeties.

Dave Barnhill, Cubans' pitcher, went all the way and was equally brilliant. He allowed three hits, none after the second inning, but one of the bingles was a home run in the second propelled into the left field bleachers by Neil Robinson, Red Sox center fielder, that proved the decisive wallop. Barnhill fanned seven and walked none.

Dawson Faces Roy Lewis, a Lefty, Tonight

Freddy Dawson, who has coped successfully with opponents employing numerous styles to remain unbeaten in 10 bouts as a professional boxer, will oppose a southpaw for the first time when he meets Roy Lewis, Muncie, Ind., lightweight, in eight rounds tonight in Marigold outdoor arena, Broadway and Grace street.

Dawson, who is 19 years old, has defeated sluggers, such as Alvin Gomez and Al Reasoner; beaten punchers, such as Elbert Adams and Bill Jordan; conquered clowns, such as Isadore Miner, and triumphed over boxers, such as Jimmy Joyce.

However, Fred will be making his first start against a portsider in Lewis, 1941 Chicagoland Golden Gloves featherweight champion.

Since Dawson was held to a draw by Jackie Nichols in the only money fight he has failed to win, and Lewis holds a knockout over Nichols, it appears Fred may be biting off more than he can chew this evening.

Robert Simmons, Indianapolis welterweight, will try to avenge a recent defeat suffered at the hands of Tommy James when he faces James again in an eight round co-feature. Simmons, Golden Gloves graduate, was holding his own until Tommy crashed him to the canvas for the count in the fifth round.

ROCKOLAS BEAT GOLD CROWNS; PARICHYS WIN

The Rockola Music Maids pulled within a game of the first place Gold Crowns in the Metropolitan Major girls softball league last night with a 4 to 2 victory over the leaders in Shewbridge field. In other games, the Rheingolds won from the Tungsten Sparks, 4 to 3, in Rheingold stadium, and the Parichys beat the Benda Coeds, 4 to 2, in Parichy stadium. Tonight's schedule: Rheingolds vs. Tungsten Sparks in Shewbridge field.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by the Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Arthur Newmann, 1343 59th court, Riverdale.]

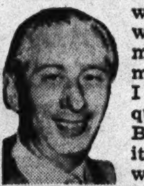
THE QUESTION.

Did you ever turn down an investment that might have amounted to something?

WHERE ASKED.

Pure Oil building, 35 East Wacker drive.

THE ANSWERS.

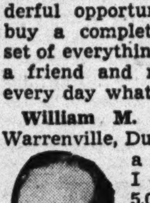


Jules Trock, sales manager, Belmont hotel—About 15 years ago when aviation stock was down to a minimum—they were almost giving it away—I considered buying quite a few shares. But the longer I put it off the higher they went. After I decided aviation was here to stay I wasn't in a good position to buy up the corporation.

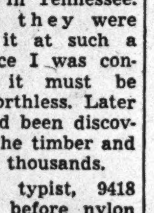
Patricia Runger, accounting clerk, 7502 Kingston avenue—When I was going to school one of my classmates wanted some cash in a hurry. She offered to sell me a beautiful diamond watch for $25. While I was trying to get the money together she sold it to some one else. It was valued at $125 and I regretted missing out on it.

Mrs. C. S. McAtee, volunteer worker, treasury department, 8045 Kimbark avenue—We once were just a few days late on a good investment. We had put off building our new home for several years and then it happened that on the day that the blue prints were delivered the banks all closed.

Margaret McQuarrie, typist, 444 St. James place—Before I was married I wasn't interested in taking up space in my hope chest for electrical appliances and kitchen utensils. I had a wonderful opportunity to buy a complete new set of everything from a friend and now I realize more every day what a buy I missed.



William M. Harris, accountant, Warrenville, Du Page county—Quite a number of years ago I considered buying 5,000 acres of wild timberland in Tennessee. Because they were selling it at such a low price I was convinced it must be quite worthless. Later I learned that oil had been discovered there and that the timber and minerals were worth thousands.



Marjorie Houston, typist, 9418 Leavitt street—Just before nylon stockings went off the market I considered buying a box of three pairs. I put it off too long and then there were none left at any price. That would have been an investment in beauty and service.

RADIO LISTENERS TO HEAR DETAILS OF WAR EXHIBIT

Radio listeners will hear a description of the army ordnance exhibition thru a series of broadcasts over W-G-N at 7:15 tonight. This first "Trip to the Tribune War Exhibit" will present interesting data about tanks.

Owens, is a private in the signal corps; she has a brother in the infantry; also an uncle, brother-in-law and cousin military services.

The ordnance show already has attracted more than a quarter million visitors. It was to have closed yesterday but because of public interest the ordnance department has extended it thru Aug. 1.

June Baker will interview Rita Fitzpatrick, Tribune reporter, on the American Fashions competition, during her program on Home Management over W-G-N at 11:45 a. m. today. The period for entries in this season's competition closes at midnight Aug. 1.

Hanleys Beat Vaults, 8 to 6, in North Town

The Witt Hanleys defeated the North Town Vaults, 8 to 6, and the North Town Exchange beat the Meteors, 11 to 3, in North Town softball league games last night in the North Town stadium, Devon and Kedzie avenue. Tonight's schedule: 8:00, Johnny's Blue Room vs. Kats A. C., and 9:00, North Town Exchange vs. Rohdes.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with queries.]

H. T. N. writes: "When I received my induction notice I didn't kick because I figured I'd have 21 days to straighten out my personal affairs before going to camp. Imagine my surprise when I was picked for the navy at the induction station and told the navy only gives seven days! Is there any way I can get additional time?"

ANSWER: The war department order extending the induction furlough from approximately 14 days to 21 days applies only to men who are assigned to the army. The local navy induction office has received strict orders not to grant any additional time under any circumstances. The only person who can straighten out this situation is the secretary of the navy.

B. F. T. asks: "Does the army and navy have available to their personnel or the dependents of army and navy personnel any sort of legal assistance?"

ANSWER: Yes, the army and navy both have legal assistance programs for the men and their dependents. Under the program personnel and their dependents are assured of the assistance and counsel of capable, legally trained men in service. Men in the navy or their dependents apply to the legal assistance office of the naval district headquarters. For the 9th naval district, which includes Chicago, inquiries would be addressed Legal Assistance Officer, Room 300, Building 1, Great Lakes Naval Training station, Great Lakes, Ill. The army inquiries should be addressed Legal Assistance Officer, 6th Service Command Headquarters, Chicago.

G. W. S. writes: "We are a primary distributor of cheese acting on authority of a FFD order. We have with us an employe who has been married five years but has no children and this man is the only one in our organization who is capable of directing our activity. When he was reclassified, we appealed to the state board which in turn appealed the case direct to the President's board which ruled him still in 1-A. We then went to the regional WMC and they ruled him an essential man and they had no one to replace him and wrote a letter to that effect to the local board. Now the local board claims that because the case went to the President's board, they have no authority to reopen the case. Is this true?"

ANSWER: The local selective service headquarters says the board is right. The local board can not reopen or reconsider the case unless there is [1] new evidence not in the registrant's file at the time of reclassification or appeal which would have affected his classification; [2] a change of the registrant's status, or [3] a change in the regulations. The point might be argued that the WMC's certification is "new evidence" and, since it was not in the registrant's file at the time of classification or when the case was being considered by the board of appeals, constitutes sufficient reason to reconsider the case. It is suggested you discuss this point with the appeal agent of the local board.

CIVILIAN STEEL HOPE BLIGHTED BY WAR ORDERS

Navy Demands Gain After Slow Start.

Cleveland, O., July 18 (AP).—The magazine Steel reported today "hope that may have been entertained that additional steel would be available this year for civilian use has been extinguished by the heavy load imposed on mills for war purposes."

Continuing its weekly review of the industry, the trade publication said:

"In spite of cutbacks and adjustments, which caused some cancelations, no capacity has been opened up for civilian steel and the gaps have been filled immediately by other war needs.

Solid Plate Booking.

"Some plate mills now are booked solidly for the remainder of the year and indications are that by the end of July all will be.

"Navy specifications, after a slow start, have been placed in large volume for the fourth quarter and also to some extent for the first quarter. As orders are entered in the order of their receipt much of the navy steel probably will be delivered late in the quarter. Construction programs will not be affected, as steel for a ship is specified usually five months in advance for cargo ships, and the program for 20,000,000 tons of deadweight cargo ships for 1943 probably will be fully met.

Locomotives Greatly Needed.

"Pressing need of railroads for steel to maintain rolling stock efficiency is being recognized and relief appears likely in the fourth quarter to prevent a breakdown of carrier service. Locomotives are most needed."

National ingot production held steady last week at 97 per cent of Steel's estimated capacity. A decline of 4 points to 93 per cent at Pittsburgh, because of a coal shortage, was balanced by small advances in other districts. Chicago advanced 1½ points from a revised figure of 98 for the preceding week.

WMC Asked to Free Rails of Hiring Rule

Washington, D. C., July 18 (AP).—The nation's railway officials have requested the war man power commission to exempt railroads from new labor stabilization regulations to help fill what they describe as "an alarming total of 80,000 unfilled railroad jobs."

Their position was stated in a memorandum filed with Albert Nickerson, director of the WMC bureau of placement, on behalf of a committeee of officials headed by J. H. Parmalee of the Association of American Railroads.

Cite Agriculture Exemptions.

"The only real and practical solution of the railroad problem," the memorandum contended, "lies in a basic revision of the general policies of the WMC so that the railroads might retain necessary protection from raids by other industries, yet be exempted from the detailed and onerous compliance with the numerous area and regional stabilization plans which apply thruout the country."

"Agriculture has been exempted by congress from the operation of the selective service act," the report commented, "and the WMC has exempted agriculture from the operation of stabilization plans and afforded it such protection against raiding as is possible under the program.

Ask Similar Treatment.

"The only real and practical solution of the railroad problem is for the WMC to accord to railroads treatment similar to that afforded agriculture."

For a trial period at least, it was suggested, railroads should be permitted "to employ any person willing to accept railroad employment, regardless of previous place of employment and regardless of his previous wage, and should be left free and unhindered in their advertisment policies and recruitment procedures."

ALIMONY.

I made an income tax return on alimony received for 1942 and have made the March and June 15 payments. Will you kindly advise what steps I must take now? M. J.

Answer: Your next step is to file an estimate, on or before Sept. 15, 1943, of the amount of income tax you will owe for 1943. The amount by which your estimated tax exceeds the payments made March 15 and June 15 must be paid this year. One-half the amount may be paid Sept. 15 and the other half on Dec. 15. A final and complete return must be filed as usual on or before March 15, 1944, and any additional tax owing for 1943 must be paid by that date.

MUST WITHHOLD.

We have made arrangements with a trucking company to use one of their drivers about one day each week. When he works for us we pay him, but do not know whether we should deduct the withholding tax from his pay or whether this is something he should take care of thru his principal employer. W. C.

Answer: Since you pay the truck driver by the day, you are required to withhold the tax on his income in excess of the daily exemption. If he is a married man with no dependents his daily exemption is $3.40. If he is single, with no dependents, the exemption is $1.70.

ASSET VALUE TRIPLED.

The Tri-Continental corporation, an investing company, reported its net assets were equal to $4.88 a share of common stock as of June 30, compared with $1.28 a share on Dec. 31, 1942. As of June 30, 1942, coverage was $95.08 a share of preferred stock, with no reported asset value for the common shares.

Absenteeism Shows Slight Drop in April

A loss of 42,020,000 man days in American industry was caused in April by absenteeism resulting from sickness, nonindustrial accidents and personal reasons, the management research division of the national industrial conference board reported yesterday. This was a decrease as compared with the 43,520,000 man days lost in March, and an increase above the 39,320,000 man days lost in February.

The board reports an average absenteeism loss of 0.8 days a man in April, as compared with 0.9 days in March and 0.8 days in February. The April figure for women was 1.4 days, against 1.3 in March and 1.2 in February.

41 Plants Surveyed.

The April averages were computed from figures of absenteeism in 41 plants located in 17 states and the District of Columbia. The plants represented were approximately 71 per cent engaged in the production of war materials of one kind or another. About 84 per cent of the men and 64 per cent of the women were factory workers.

Reports from 31 plants employing 100,875 persons were analyzed by the board to show the relative importance of illness, nonindustrial accidents and personal reasons as causes of absences.

Absences among men on account of illness numbered 123 a thousand employés in April. Nonindustrial accidents were reported as causing 6 absences a thousand among the men, and personal causes, accounted for 236 a thousand men employed.

Among woman, illness accounted for 250 absences a thousand employés, nonindustrial accidents for 9 a thousand, and personal reasons for 290 a thousand.

CEILING ON LIVE HOGS NEAR, OPA AND WFA AGREE

Washington, D. C., July 18 [Special].—Announcement of a price ceiling for live hogs is "near," spokesmen for the war food administration and the OPA admitted tonight, but they indicated that final decisions on the exact prices and effective date of the order had not yet been made.

Other sources said a ceiling of about $14.75 a hundred pounds was the most probable price to be fixed. They said the government would reaffirm its "floor" price of $13.75, at which the department of agriculture several months ago promised to support the live hog market at Chicago.

FRANCE PAYING MILLIONS DAILY FOR OCCUPATION

LONDON, July 18.—According to information received in French quarters at London the Bank of France has been drawn on for 590 million francs daily to cover the cost of German occupation. To that amount must be added the Franco-German clearing which amounts to 150 million francs—daily payment in kind—which reaches about 90 million francs and the remainder in what the Germans call "supplementary charges."

PLAN POST-WAR PRINTING NOW, FIRMS ADVISED

Ruekberg Warns of Limited Capacity.

Manufacturing companies and business firms which have curtailed or abandoned advertising and promotion during the war will find it to their advantage to plan their post-war printing requirements now and contract for the future productive hours of printing plants, Nathan T. Ruekberg, president of the Regensteiner corporation, Chicago, said yesterday.

The printing company official predicted that after the war printers will have far more work than they can handle, but it will be about two years before installation of newly manufactured printing machinery can be resumed. He recommended that firms able to plan their post-war printing needs contract on a production hour rather than job basis to safeguard against the possibility of printers' inability to handle the work without delay because of other job commitments.

Contracts Into 1945.

Ruekberg urged printing companies to begin making future contracts, adding that his own firm has contracted as far ahead as 1945. Because of uncertainties, price should be settled later and allocation of productive capacity should be the major consideration, he said.

Ruekberg said that the graphic arts industry has been affected severely by loss of man power during the last year and at present is "definitely approaching a serious condition." The printing requirements of companies now manufacturing war materials have decreased sharply, he continued, but on the other hand, the use of printed matter important to the prosecution of the war has become enormous and is increasing.

Much Machinery Obsolete.

"Furthermore, many printers have discovered that some of their equipment is no longer profitable to use and much of it is obsolete," said Ruekberg. "A considerable amount of machinery already has been scrapped. Undoubtedly, affter the war some of the excess war equipment will be converted into modern printing presses. The manufacturers of printing machinery are now almost wholly engaged in production of war material."

Forecasting an extended period of prosperity for the printing industry after the war, Ruekberg said that the return of men from service and curtailing of war industries will provide ample man power. New magazines and other publications, now held in abeyance because of paper restrictions, will be issued, while millions of catalogs, booklets, posters, and show cards will be needed to merchandise consumer goods and new products resulting from war research, he said.

Future Pulp Supplies Held Adequate If Wisely Handled

Washington, D. C., July 18 (AP).—The forest service expressed confidence today that the forests of this country and Canada will be able to meet future paper requirements, despite increased demand for pulpwood, if they are kept in productive condition.

To meet war and civilian requirements for various classes of paper, including newsprint, foresters are urging increased cutting of pulpwood, especially from farm woodlands, under good forest management practices that will not jeopardize future growth.

May Use Other Woods.

Analyzing long-range prospects, the forest service said that continued research in wood utilization may help to increase the available supply by making it possible to use certain woods not now used for pulp and paper. Increased integration of pulpwood production with lumber operations could produce, it said, paper from tops of trees and other material now often wasted in logging.

"In the long run, however, management of this country's forest lands for permanent production will be necessary to insure adequate and continuing supplies of pulpwood," the service said.

Dependent on Canada.

Broadly speaking, the United States is at present self-sufficient in pulpwood for sulfate and soda pulps, used mainly to make paper boards and wrapping papers. This is not true, however, for the sulfite and mechanical pulps which go into newsprint, book, and other fine papers. The spruce, fir, and hemlock from which these pulps are made grow mainly in the northern sections, and about 70 per cent of the readily available pulpwood of this kind is in Canada.

To this considerable extent, the United States is dependent upon the forests of Canada. The service said, however, that the eastern forests of both countries are overcut.

1. Installation of Grand Coulee unit No. 7, adding 108,000 kilowatts rated capacity to the Pacific northwest hydro development.
2. Addition of 100,000 kilowatts in existing dams of the Tennessee valley authority system.
3. A 20,000 kilowatt steam power addition to the San Antonio municipal plant, to be completed late in 1944.
4. Additional boiler for the Jacksonville, Fla., municipal plant to increase its capacity 15,000 kilowatts, to be completed in 1944.
5. Additional unit of 20,000 kilowatts for the Evansville, Ind., steam plant of the Southern Indiana Gas and Electric company, to be completed in 1944.
6. A 25,000 kilowatt unit for the St. Petersburg, Fla., steam plant of the Florida Power corporation, to be completed early in 1945.
7. A 20,000 kilowatt steam plant at Pensacola, Fla., to be built by the Gulf Power company, to be completed early in 1945.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Ben Markland

July 18, 1943

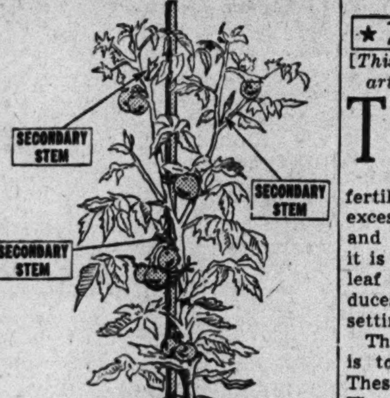
THE European corn borer, a perennial menace to field corn and sweet corn, this year is adding oats to its list of victims.

Dr. C. C. Compton, associate entomologist of the Illinois Natural History survey, said recently that corn borer infestation is heavy this year, particularly in the eastern section of the state. The insect has ruined entire crops of commercially grown sweet corn near Momence and Wichert, Kankakee county, and has infested oat crops to such an extent that some farmers have been forced to cut their oats for hay.

Late Spring Responsible.

The spring rains provide the indirect reason why the corn borers switched their depredations from field corn to oats. The insect can feed on a great variety of plants, including corn, barley, beans, beets, celery, hemp, millet, rhubarb, Swiss chard, and even flowers such as chrysanthemums and gladioli. They have a tendency, however, to infest the major crops which are furthest advanced. The corn was planted so late this spring that it was not well advanced when the first brood of corn borers emerged, so the insects deposited their eggs on the oats.

The same general story explains why sweet corn is being more heavily infested than field corn this season. Field corn plantings were late, whereas sweet corn was planted approximately at the usual time. When the first brood corn borers hatched they attacked the sweet corn rather than field corn.



Where to find secondary stems on tomato plants. (See Garden article in adjoining column.)

Borers pass the winter as larvae or worms in old cornstalks. In April and May they pass thru the pupa stage and then cut thru the stalks, emerging as moths in early June. The moths deposit masses of eggs on the undersides of the leaves. These eggs hatch from five to 12 days later, producing the young borers which feed on the leaves and tassels, or on the silks and husks. A common early evidence of corn borer presence is a broken tassel. Later the insects bore into the ears and stalks.

Preventive Measures Told.

The best preventive measures are to plow under the stalks of field corn or burn the stalks of sweet corn after the fall harvest. When borers are seen in sweet corn, it is possible to destroy them in the early stages by spraying with rotenone. The Illinois Natural History survey recommends one pound of five per cent rotenone and 1½ ounces of Grasselli's spreader mixed with 25 gallons of water. This spray must be applied once a week and after every rain.

Home gardeners who find corn borer evidence in small patches of sweet corn also can destroy the eggs by rubbing them off the lower sides of the leaves by hand. The eggs will not survive on the ground. This procedure must be followed every week, however.

★ The GARDEN ★

THREE growth factors may cause tomato plants to produce abundant foliage but poor yields of fruit. These are over-fertilization, excessive watering, and excessive shade. To get an earlier and larger yield from such plants it is necessary to remove secondary leaf growth. Such a process reduces the foliage, but hastens the setting on of fruits.

The common error in this respect is to remove primary leaf stems. These should be left on the plants. The secondary stems are those which grow from the crotch of the main stem and the primary leaf stems. These can be plucked off or cut off, but only in the first stages of development. If the gardener has not followed the practice of removing secondary growth thus far, he should leave the well developed secondary growth, but for the rest of the season pick off the new secondary growth.

DOUGLAS
New Chicago Plant
IF YOU ACT NOW

many good jobs are still open in various skills and trades where you can get ahead and go places with DOUGLAS.

Don't let any one tell you that this great, new CHICAGO PLANT is merely an assembly branch. This is not true. We build the famous C-54 complete—the giant DOUGLAS SKYMASTER. We perform every operation in building planes ready-to-fly from here to far battle areas. From raw materials all the way thru our own tooling and thru every variety of machining operation, no other plant in the entire aircraft field is any more self-sufficient. Just one of our big buildings, alone, is almost three-quarters of a mile long under one roof. DOUGLAS employees say, "A swell place for all of us to work!"

Everything here is fine and new, each individual works with new, up-to-the-minute equipment and with company furnished tools. Eating facilities are tops. No other job will afford you any greater degree of pleasure along with profit. The essentiality of aircraft means we have materials for full time work, with time and a half pay for overtime above 40 hours per week. You may have group life insurance, health and accident insurance and hospitalization at low cost. And you will have the deep satisfaction of participating DIRECTLY in war effort, seeing YOUR planes fly from here to our fighting men to win VICTORY quicker.

Call to Arms!!!

FOR MEN AND WOMEN IN THE CHICAGO AREA WHO HAVE NOT AS YET HAD THE OPPORTUNITY TO GET INTO WAR WORK!

If necessary we can get along somehow without the civilian goods you are now making or selling.

BUT

To win this war—as fast as we want to win it, we must have more:

Aircraft Carriers
Troop Transports
Tankers
Cargo Ships

You can help build these—your country must have your help to build these ships now.

Unfortunately these ships cannot be built here in our back yard. In order to build them you will have to move to the West Coast. However you can be assured of modern housing, reasonably priced, excellent recreational facilities.

Your transportation will be advanced.

WEST COAST SHIPYARDS NEED

Carpenters
Painters
Riggers
Shipfitters
Burners
Flangers
Sheet Metal
Warehousemen
Coppersmiths

SCHOOLS FOR THOSE WHO QUALIFY—YOU ARE PAID WHILE IN TRAINING.

Those now engaged in an essential industry will not be considered.

LOOK TO THE WEST!

The trend is toward the West with its dependable and definitely mild, seasonal, healthful climate. Therein are located in the 14,000 miles of "SP" Railroad, serving the West and growing with it.

The "SP" is lengthening its sidings, expanding its yards, and constantly installing the most modern equipment to handle the ever-growing volume of traffic.

THIS IS SOMETHING FOR YOU EXPERIENCED "RAILS" TO PONDER OVER! YOU ARE NEEDED OUT THERE and it's the opportunity of a lifetime to enter the service of one of the nation's best roads in the growing Empire of the West.

There are good jobs and good prospects for your future awaiting experienced railroaders.
If you are not engaged in essential war work, or not now working to full capacity, come in and talk it over.

Molly and her girls are making a heck of a lot of Microphones —but our fighting men need more

You can just bet that our boys in Sicily are calling their hits through microphones that we make and it's just as likely that our boys at Kula Gulf and Munda are doing the same. For microphones and headphones are the voice and ears of the Army, Navy, and Air Force. No wonder our girls are proud to be doing the important work of assembling them.

You are invited to help us, too. Just come in and ask for Molly. You need no experience. You start for 50c an hour, 75c for overtime, $26 a week—with 4 automatic raises the first year. Rest periods and vacation with pay. Annual bonus. Near street car and L—and only 5 minutes from the loop.

Anything else you want to know? Molly will be glad to tell you.
